U.S. Makes Arms on H-Design

Chances Bright For Plane Power

Washington, July 29 (AP)—The government said today it has begun producing weapons whose design is based on the spectacular 1954 hydrogen bomb tests in the Pacific, and hinted these are of several types.

It said also that the prospects for developing an air plane driven by an atomic power plant have "considerably brightened" in the last six months.

THE ATOMIC Energy Commission (AEC), which made these disclosures, was as close-mouthed as usual in its 18th semiannual report to Congress, the report covered the first half of this year.

The commission said that all of its activities—which include production of conventional and thermonuclear weapons — continued during this period "at a growing rate and with increasing effectiveness."

Some scientists have speculated that one device tested in the AEC's "Operation Castle" at its Pacific proving grounds in the spring of last year may have been a "hydrogen-uranium bomb."

THIS SPECULATION has been that such a device would use a conventional A-bomb to trigger a hydrogen fusion bomb, itself encased in a jacket of uranium pretty much as it occurs in nature. The theory is that such a weapon would produce much more radioactivity than even an H-bomb with its deadly clouds capable of covering a 7,000-square-mile-area.

There was nothing in the AEC's report to support this speculation. It said only:

"Immediately following Operation Castle . . . the weapons program was directed toward development of weapons whose design was based on the results of those tests.

"During the first six months of 1955, weapons produced in accordance with the President's directive included types incorporating such designs."

THERE WAS no amplification of the reference to "types," but it might cover different forms of weapons adapted to varying uses.

The report spoke of the difficulties which must be conquered in developing a nuclear-powered airplane. These include the presumably heavy shielding that would be required to protect the the crew, and the need for great power in relation to the weight of the engine.

But it added that during the past six months the aircraft propulsion project "accelerated, with the promise of nuclear-powered flight considerably brightened."

Other points in the report included these:

IN GENERAL, the program for developing reactors for civilian use and to drive submarines and ships "made greater

Slavs Warned of Aid Slash if MIGs Built

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, July 29 (AP)—The United States reportedly has warned Yugoslavia that construction of Soviet MIG fighter planes here might seriously affect U. S. aid to President Tito's government.

Well informed sources said the warning was given the Yugoslav foreign office by U. S. Ambassador James Riddleberger. Officials would not comment on the report.

Rumors that Russia has expressed wilingness to supply Yugoslavia's aviation industry with a license to build the MIGS have circulated here recently.

The rumors could not be confirmed but Riddleberger's warning reportedly came just before a foreign policy speech this week by Tito.

Tito said he would welcome continued military and economic aid, but that his government would not abandon its friendship with the west if such aid was cut off.

Yugoslavia decided some time ago to begin building jet aircraft.

3,000 Jurors Sought

Legal Requirement Is To Cut Repeat Service

More than 1,000 questionnaires have been mailed to prospective jurors in the city of Kingston and others to residents in the rest of the county, it was announced today by Commissioner of Jurors Edwin W. Ashby.

Mr. Ashby, who is seeking 3,000 jurors in compliance with jury law, said questionnaires to county residents was just beginning.

APPROXIMATELY 3,000 questionnaires are being mailed at this time, of which Mr. Ashby estimates approximately 1,500 of those queried will qualify for jury duty.

Enclosed with the questionnaire is a return envelope and a note from Mr. Ashby as follows: Your name is being considered as a prospective juror. Please answer all questions on front of the enclosed questionnaire and return to me no later than one week. Please print your name and address.

Mr. Ashby explained that the "panel" of jurors would be available to all of the county's various courts—magistrate, city, county and supreme.

UNDER THE jury law, in mailing registration forms the commissioner of jurors may consult the latest census enumeration, latest published city, town or village telephone or other directory, assessment rolls, voters registry list and any other general source. The law also states that there "should be a continuous search for persons qualified and liable for jury service in order to obtain as many prospective jurors as possible and to limit as much as possible repetition of jury service."

Mr. Ashby said it was his objective to spread jury duty among as many people as pos-

Steel Work Done To West Pier 8 On Bridge Road

Steel work on the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge, moving steadily toward the river, had reached Pier 8 of the western approach by today, and progress was reported on all other phases of construction.

Work was reported "well under way" on four piers on the eastern approach across the river and is moving along on the eight piers in the water.

The Merritt-Chapman & Scott Corp., of New York, sub-structure contractor, plans to start Monday on the largest of all piers on the structure, No. 22 on the eastern approach, and work was nearing completion today on the next largest, Pier 12 of the west approach.

The Harris Structural Steel Co., of New York, contractor for the super-structure has been making steady daily progress with the steel work, and the approach structure is now extending across the Ulster Landing road near the offices of the contractors' engineers.

WORK HAS BEEN finished on Pier 14, the first in the river on the west side. All stone work at

Deserter Sentence Up for Review

New York, July 29 (AP)—A World War 2 army deserter—who changed his name, raised a family and founded a thriving business—has been sentenced to 25 years at hard labor by a court martial.

The penalty, imposed yesterday after Arthur Athans, 35, of Falconer, N. Y., pleaded guilty, is subject to automatic review.

Athan's wife, who took their five children with her to the court martial on Governors Island, tearfully told the board: "You couldn't ask for a better husband."

The wife, Marjorie, who married the ex-soldier in 1946, has said she knew nothing of his desertion until his arrest last May.

Approximately 600 friends and neighbors of the family petitioned the court martial for leniency for Athans.

Undicided on Action After Trial on Heresy

Milwaukee, July 29 (AP) — A Lutheran pastor, found guilty last night in the first heresy trial in the 60 year history of the Northwest Synod of United Lutheran Church, said after the verdict, "I am not guilty as charged."

The Rev. George P. Crist, Jr., 31, summoned from his home at Durham, in nearby Waukesha county to hear the decision, added "I have committed no offense against the rules of the United Lutheran Church. I am certainly saddened by the verdict, but I think I was as ready for it as I could be." He made the statement to newsmen after leaving the trial chamber.

A synod trial board of seven pastors found the Rev. Crist guilty of nine counts of deviation from church doctrine and recommended he be suspended immediately from his pulpit. He was found innocent of five charges. He denied the 14 charges were valid deviations from church doctrine.

He said when the trial began Wednesday "my ministry will continue regardless of what happens here."

"I have no present intention of seeking a pulpit in another church, but that is a possibility," he said.

ROKs to Get Atom Training

Seoul, July 29 (AP)—Gen. Chung Il Kwon, ROK army chief of staff, said today the United States soon will start training the South Korean army in "atomic warfare."

"A number of U. S. atomic specialists will arrive here soon for this purpose," Chung told a press conference.

The general did not specifically mention atomic artillery and rocket weapons, which Washington disclosed yesterday were being sent to the Far East.

Turncoats Due Today At Frisco

San Francisco, July 29 (AP)—Three turncoat former corporals who embraced communism at the end of the Korean war return today to their families—and to charges they betrayed their nation and their comrades in a prisoner of war camp.

The charges, most serious it is possible to lodge under the uniform code of military justice, carry a possible death penalty.

THE THREE who refused repatriation and went to Red China at the end of the war, are William C. Cowart, 22, of Dalton, Ga., Otho Bell, 24, of Hillsboro, Miss., and Olympia, Wash., and Lewis W. Griggs, 22, of Jacksonville, Tex.

The three professed themselves as ready to pay the penalty for their actions when they renounced communism in Hong Kong on July 9.

After the liner President Cleveland docks today the army charges will be read to them.

But, before they are taken into custody by the military police, the three will have a chance to visit in privacy with the families they haven't seen in five years.

AND FOR BELL the greeting will mean even more for he will have a chance to see for the first time his 4-year-old daughter, Paula. Mrs. Jewel Bell, was reported last night en route from Olympia, Wash., with their daughter. The senior Bell was coming here from Mississippi.

Cowart's mother, Mrs. Chester Green, and the youth's stepfather were driving here from their home in Monticello, Ark.

Griggs' mother, Mrs. Elsie Griggs; her son, Jimmy, 19, of Jacksonville, Tex., and Mrs. Griggs' sister-in-law, Mrs. Cecil Griggs of Talco, Tex., likewise were reported en route to San Francisco.

ALL THREE former prisoners have been under control of the State Department since they left Red China by way of Hong Kong. The army will not assert jurisdiction until after they have left the ship and passed through customs gates at the port here.

Then they will be arrested by Military Police, the charges read to them and they will be whisked away to a military stockade at Fort Baker.

Israeli Investigators Are Kept From Plane Wreck

Case Seen As Election Time Issue

Democrats Press Talbott Firing

Washington, July 29 (AP)—Renewed demands from two Democrats that President Eisenhower fire Secretary of the Air Force Talbott indicated today they view the case as ammunition for the 1956 election campaign.

Eisenhower has announced he himself will decide, from the testimony in a now-ended Senate investigation of Talbott's profitable outside business activities, whether the secretary had violated "a proper standard of ethics."

THE PRESIDENT received a copy of the hearing transcript yesterday but Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said he did not know how soon Eisenhower could complete reading it.

The demands for Talbott's ouster came from Sen. Morse (D.-Ore.) and Paul M. Butler, Democratic national chairman, both of whom have criticized Talbott's outside activities as a special partner in the New York firm of Paul B. Mulligan & Co., while serving in the air force post.

MORSE TOLD the Senate yesterday that Talbott should be fired "forthwith," and asked:

"What is the President waiting for?"

"If this administration thinks that it is going to get the American people to swallow this mess of corruption," Morse said, "it is going to find that the people are going to gag."

Butler released a statement declaring "it is difficult to see how Mr. Eisenhower can retain Mr. Talbott without serving notice, in the eyes of the public, that the President is lowering his administration's standards of integrity for all government officials."

"IT IS EASY to set high standards, but the proof of integrity comes not in setting up rules but in living up to them," Butler said.

The Senate Investigations Subcommittee which conducted the inquiry set no date for the John McErlean, 17, was taken to the Kingston Hospital last evening following an automobile accident on the Glenford-Wittenberg road about 10 o'clock. He was reported to be suffering from chest and back injuries which he sistained when he lost control of his car and it struck a culvert. He was riding alone at the time, Deputy Sheriff Wesley O'Brien, reported. McErlean resides on Long Island but resides in Glenford during the summer. The front end of the car was badly damaged and was towed from the scene.

Ike Urges Unity on Principles

Congressmen Boom For Second Term in 56

Washington, July 29 (AP)—President Eisenhower told Republican lawmakers today that the GOP can control the national administration "forever" if it works in unity for principles that the people can accept in confidence.

He also described as "complete bosh" suggestions that the American people have been led to expect too much too soon out of the Geneva summit conference and a let-down will work against the Republican party.

THE PRESIDENT spoke informally at a breakfast at the Statler Hotel attended by all but 11 of the 249 Republican senators and representatives.

The preadjournment gathering was arranged by Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall.

Members of the cabinet were there as well as top White House staff members.

There was a 1956 second term atmosphere as the President entered the room, with many of the legislators chanting "we want Ike."

OTHERS WORE large red and white buttons enscribed "Ike in 1956."

Although the President made no mention of a second term, he urged the legislators when they go home to carry a positive message to their constituents about the work they have done and will do.

He suggested the gist of that message should be that the United States is not going to default on the principles it stands for.

HE RECOMMENDED emphasis also on plans to keep working for highway, school construction, health programs, and a policy of keeping up strength to protect the nation while it seeks the road to peace.

Newsmen were not invited to the breakfast, but White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told them afterward about the President's informal talk.

Hagerty said Eisenhower repeated what he has said before —that he is interested in unification of the Republican party behind a set of principles that would be accepted in trust and confidence by the people.

He said his definition of a

Truck Accident Is Fatal to Conway, Hitchhike Rider

John J. Conway, 38, of Connelly and Robert Keating, 17, of New York city died and John Patrick Flynn, 27, of New York city was injured in a truck accident at Congers early Thursday evening, police of the town of Clarkstown at Nanuet reported today.

En route to Conway's home in Connelly, Conway and Flynn had given a ride to Keating, who was hitchhiking along the road, police said. The truck, driven by Flynn was traveling north on Route 9W, police said, and "turned over a couple of times." Police reported the truck "was going at a high rate of speed."

KEATING died at the scene, police said, while Conway "died about an hour later." He was admitted to Nyack Hospital at 7:50 p. m. The hospital reported Flynn's condition as "satisfactory" this morning.

Mr. Conway, a seaman employed by the Russell Brothers Towing Company of New York city, had lived with his wife and two children in Connelly since last December.

HE IS SURVIVED by his wife, Cathryn F. Conway and two sons, John F. and James E., all of Connelly. Also surviving are his mother, Mrs. Julia Conway of the Bronx, and four sisters, Mrs. Mary Corbett and Mrs. Margaret Daley, both of the Bronx,, Mrs. Anne Romeya of Chicago and Mrs. Kathleen Chain of Brazil.

1 Official Is Allowed To Inspect

Bulgaria Charges Course Violation

Athens, Greece, July 29 (AP)—Communist Bulgaria is letting Israel's charge d'affaires in Sofia inspect the wreckage of the Israeli airliner Red gunners shot down. But the Bulgars still would not let six Israeli investigators enter their country today.

A dispatch from Tel Aviv said that Baruch Nir, the charge in the Bulgarian capital, had been allowed to go to the site of the disaster just north of the Greek-Bulgarian border.

AT THE frontier, however, the six-man investigating commission which came from Tel Aviv via Greece again was denied admission into Communist territory this morning, a telephone message to Athens said.

The mission tried first to cross yesterday and was refused.

All 58 persons aboard the airliner, including 12 American passengers, died when the four-engine Constellation of the El Al Israel Airline crashed in flames Wednesday just north of the Greek frontier.

BULGARIA said the plane, which was en route from London to Tel Aviv, had got off course crossing Yugoslavia and violated Bulgaria's air space for 100 miles without warning. Admitting their antiaircraft gunners shot the plane down, the Sofia government expressed "deep regret" and named three cabinet members and the chief government prosecutor to investigate.

The Israeli mission flew in to Athens from Tel Aviv early yesterday. They were told at the Bulgarian legation that it was still awaiting instructions from Sofia on whether to issue them visas.

"WHAT COULD a mission from abroad find more than a Bulgarian commission?" A Bulgarian diplomat at the legation remarked.

The Israelis, however, went on north to the border without the entry permits. At the frontier post at Koula, the Bulgar officer in charge refused to accept their written request to cross, saying he would convey their application verbally to his superiors and give an answer today. The Israelis spent last night in the neighboring Greek town of Sidhirokastron.

THE ISRAELI government, in a protest note delivered to the Bulgarian charge d'affaires in Jerusalem, demanded compensation and asserted that identifi-

Phone Co. Plans Property Deal

The New York Telephone Co., revealed today that it is negotiating to acquire property adjacent to its building at Broadway and West O'Reilly street.

No indication was given of the site being considered, but most availably adjacent is the MacCreery property formerly used by the Morris Bag & Junk Co., which is now on Cornell street.

THE PROPERTY, which extends from Hoffman street, toward the telephone company building, was once used in conjunction with the S. L. Torey furniture business at 453-455 Broadway. On it is a large frame structure, and in front of that is considerable vacant land.

The area would allow for a large addition to the present telephone company building.

Chinese Nationals See Trap In U.S.-Red Talks Monday

Taipei, Formosa, July 29 (AP)—The official China Daily News said editorially today: "We smell a rat in the recent announcements from Washington. We must be on the alert for anything."

In the strongest editorial comment yet by Nationalist Chinese papers on the Geneva talks starting Monday between Red China and the United States, the paper said the meeting was "100 per cent a product of appeasement."

It said, "the so-called tension in the Formosa Straight was created by the Russian and Chinese Communists to lure the United States and the rest of the free world into another trap.

"Discussing a cease-fire with them means stepping right into that trap.

"We shall never accept a cease-fire."

To Expand Rosendale Phone Facilities

Extension on Depot Hill Office To Be in Operation by Next Spring

Telephone facilities will be improved and extended in Rosendale in line with community development, Leonard W. Herrick, manager of the local New York Telephone Company office, announced today.

An extension will be constructed to the rear of the dial control office building on Depot Hill street, and additional telephone equipment to increase the capacity of the control office by about two-thirds, will be installed.

The equipment will be in service next spring, Herrick said. It will provide needed facilities for installation of telephones and lines with four parties for those now waiting.

Extension of the building will be in concrete block with side walls veneered with brick. It will be 13 by 26 feet and will more than double the size of the building. Its total area will be 590 square feet. James H. Schoonmaker and Son, of Kingston, are the contractors.

Outside work will start in the favorable weather and inside work, including the dial equipment, will start next year. Equipment will be installed by the Western Electric Co.

"Intricate wiring plans must be studied, and thousands of minute operations carried out. Tiny dial switches will be installed on steel frames and thousands of hand-soldered connections made," Herrick said. Rosendale's telephones, he noted, have more than quadrupled in 14 years. There were 219 in 1940 and over 909 today.

1 Official Is Allowed To Inspect

Bulgaria Charges Course Violation

Athens, Greece, July 29 (AP)—Communist Bulgaria is letting Israel's charge d'affaires in Sofia inspect the wreckage of the Israeli airliner Red gunners shot down. But the Bulgars still would not let six Israeli investigators enter their country today.

A dispatch from Tel Aviv said that Baruch Nir, the charge in the Bulgarian capital, had been allowed to go to the site of the disaster just north of the Greek-Bulgarian border.

AT THE frontier, however, the six-man investigating commission which came from Tel Aviv via Greece again was denied admission into Communist territory this morning, a telephone message to Athens said.

The mission tried first to cross yesterday and was refused.

All 58 persons aboard the airliner, including 12 American passengers, died when the four-engine Constellation of the El Al Israel Airline crashed in flames Wednesday just north of the Greek frontier.

BULGARIA said the plane, which was en route from London to Tel Aviv, had got off course crossing Yugoslavia and violated Bulgaria's air space for 100 miles without warning. Admitting their antiaircraft gunners shot the plane down, the Sofia government expressed "deep regret" and named three cabinet members and the chief government prosecutor to investigate.

The Israeli mission flew in to Athens from Tel Aviv early yesterday. They were told at the Bulgarian legation that it was still awaiting instructions from Sofia on whether to issue them visas.

"WHAT COULD a mission from abroad find more than a Bulgarian commission?" A Bulgarian diplomat at the legation remarked.

The Israelis, however, went on north to the border without the entry permits. At the frontier post at Koula, the Bulgar officer in charge refused to accept their written request to cross, saying he would convey their application verbally to his superiors and give an answer today. The Israelis spent last night in the neighboring Greek town of Sidhirokastron.

THE ISRAELI government, in a protest note delivered to the Bulgarian charge d'affaires in Jerusalem, demanded compensation and asserted that identifi-

Ike Urges Unity on Principles

Congressmen Boom For Second Term in 56

Washington, July 29 (AP)—President Eisenhower told Republican lawmakers today that the GOP can control the national administration "forever" if it works in unity for principles that the people can accept in confidence.

He also described as "complete bosh" suggestions that the Americah people have been led to expect too much too soon out of the Geneva summit conference and a let-down will work against the Republican party.

THE PREADJOURNMENT gathering was arranged by Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall.

Members of the cabinet were there as well as top White House staff members.

There was a 1956 second term atmosphere as the President entered the room, with many of the legislators chanting "we want Ike."

OTHERS WORE large red and white buttons enscribed "Ike in 1956."

Although the President made no mention of a second term, he urged the legislators when they go home to carry a positive message to their constituents about the work they have done and will do.

He suggested the gist of that message should be that the United States is not going to default on the principles it stands for.

HE RECOMMENDED emphasis also on plans to keep working for highway, school construction, health programs, and a policy of keeping up strength to protect the nation while it seeks the road to peace.

Newsmen were not invited to the breakfast, but White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told them afterward about the President's informal talk.

Hagerty said Eisenhower repeated what he has said before —that he is interested in unification of the Republican party behind a set of principles that would be accepted in trust and confidence by the people.

He said his definition of a

Truck Accident Is Fatal to Conway, Hitchhike Rider

John J. Conway, 38, of Connelly and Robert Keating, 17, of New York city died and John Patrick Flynn, 27, of New York city was injured in a truck accident at Congers early Thursday evening, police of the town of Clarkstown at Nanuet reported today.

En route to Conway's home in Connelly, Conway and Flynn had given a ride to Keating, who was hitchhiking along the road, police said. The truck, driven by Flynn was traveling north on Route 9W, police said, and "turned over a couple of times." Police reported the truck "was going at a high rate of speed."

KEATING died at the scene, police said, while Conway "died about an hour later." He was admitted to Nyack Hospital at 7:50 p. m. The hospital reported Flynn's condition as "satisfactory" this morning.

Mr. Conway, a seaman employed by the Russell Brothers Towing Company of New York city, had lived with his wife and two children in Connelly since last December.

HE IS SURVIVED by his wife, Cathryn F. Conway and two sons, John F. and James E., all of Connelly. Also surviving are his mother, Mrs. Julia Conway of the Bronx, and four sisters, Mrs. Mary Corbett and Mrs. Margaret Daley, both of the Bronx,, Mrs. Anne Romeya of Chicago and Mrs. Kathleen Chain of Brazil.

Funeral services will be held

Phone Co. Plans Property Deal

The New York Telephone Co., revealed today that it is negotiating to acquire property adjacent to its building at Broadway and West O'Reilly street.

No indication was given of the site being considered, but most availably adjacent is the MacCreery property formerly used by the Morris Bag & Junk Co., which is now on Cornell street.

THE PROPERTY, which extends from Hoffman street, toward the telephone company building, was once used in conjunction with the S. L. Torey furniture business at 453-455 Broadway. On it is a large frame structure, and in front of that is considerable vacant land.

The area would allow for a large addition to the present telephone company building.

Chinese Nationals See Trap In U.S.-Red Talks Monday

Taipei, Formosa, July 29 (AP)—The official China Daily News said editorially today: "We smell a rat in the recent announcements from Washington. We must be on the alert for anything."

In the strongest editorial comment yet by Nationalist Chinese papers on the Geneva talks starting Monday between Red China and the United States, the paper said the meeting was "100 per cent a product of appeasement."

It said, "the so-called tension in the Formosa Straight was created by the Russian and Chinese Communists to lure the United States and the rest of the free world into another trap.

"Discussing a cease-fire with them means stepping right into that trap.

"We shall never accept a cease-fire."

Undicided on Action After Trial on Heresy

Milwaukee, July 29 (AP) — A Lutheran pastor, found guilty last night in the first heresy trial in the 60 year history of the Northwest Synod of United Lutheran Church, said after the verdict, "I am not guilty as charged."

The Rev. George P. Crist, Jr., 31, summoned from his home at Durham, in nearby Waukesha county to hear the decision, added "I have committed no offense against the rules of the United Lutheran Church. I am certainly saddened by the verdict, but I think I was as ready for it as I could be." He made the statement to newsmen after leaving the trial chamber.

A synod trial board of seven pastors found the Rev. Crist guilty of nine counts of deviation from church doctrine and recommended he be suspended immediately from his pulpit. He was found innocent of five charges. He denied the 14 charges were valid deviations from church doctrine.

He said when the trial began Wednesday "my ministry will continue regardless of what happens here."

"I have no present intention of seeking a pulpit in another church, but that is a possibility," he said.

To Expand Rosendale Phone Facilities

Extension on Depot Hill Office To Be in Operation by Next Spring

Telephone facilities will be improved and extended in Rosendale in line with community development, Leonard W. Herrick, manager of the local New York Telephone Company office, announced today.

An extension will be constructed to the rear of the dial control office building on Depot Hill street, and additional telephone equipment to increase the capacity of the control office by about two-thirds, will be installed.

The equipment will be in service next spring, Herrick said. It will provide needed facilities for installation of telephones and lines with four parties for those now waiting.

Extension of the building will be in concrete block with side walls veneered with brick. It will be 13 by 26 feet and will more than double the size of the building. Its total area will be 590 square feet. James H. Schoonmaker and Son, of Kingston, are the contractors.

Outside work will start in the favorable weather and inside work, including the dial equipment, will start next year. Equipment will be installed by the Western Electric Co.

"Intricate wiring plans must be studied, and thousands of minute operations carried out. Tiny dial switches will be installed on steel frames and thousands of hand-soldered connections made," Herrick said. Rosendale's telephones, he noted, have more than quadrupled in 14 years. There were 219 in 1940 and over 909 today.

Cancer Society Awards Named

Awards to the winners of the cartoon coloring contest of the American Cancer Society, in which fifteen of the county elementary schools participated, will be made over channel 66 on Friday at 6 p. m.

Seven out of approximately 1500 entries were given final priority by a special screening committee. Only one winner was permitted to a school. The entries were judged on the basis of neatness, originality and any individual touch which tended to personalize the Friendly Red Door and the objectives of the volunteer service of The American Cancer Society.

Serving as judges on the screening committee were: Mrs. Eva Beard, writer and illustrator of Woodstock; Miss Agnes Ridgway, radio and television writer of Stone Ridge; Mrs. Richard Kuehne, exhibits chairman for the Kingston Unit of the American Cancer Society; Mrs. John Larkin of Kingston, Mrs. Bernard Martin of Hurley Heights, and Mrs. Charles MacDonough of Kingston.

The winners are as follows: First prize for a girl, Marie Wilber, 9, Lake Hill of Onteora Central School; first prize for a boy, Richard Shiels, 9, Lake Katrine, of P.S. 7; second prize for a girl, Mary Elizabeth Boyd, 9, Kingston of P.S. 2; second prize for a boy, Harris Reavin, 10, Kerhonkson, of Kerhonkson Union School.

Because of competitive excellence two third prizes for girls were awarded: Carol Andersen, 11, High Falls of Marbletown Central School, and Betty Lee Marcus of Ellenville Elementary School. The third prize for a boy was won by Preston D. Palazzo, 12, Clintondale, of the Clintondale School.

The awards will be presented by Alan Stevenson, executive director of the New York State Division of the American Cancer Society. The contest was under the direction of Mrs. Matthew Hasbrouck, director of Cancer Society Ulster County Volunteer Services.

Solve Skunk Problem

Barrington, Ill., July 29 (AP)—The age-old and delicate problem of what to do about skunks was solved yesterday by two Lake county deputy sheriffs. For several days the skunk has resisted efforts to chase him out of a basement window well in the home of Harry Sunnesen of nearby Cuba township. The high-90s heat wasn't making him any more welcome either. Sizing up the situation, the deputies called for a vacuum cleaner hose which they attached to the exhaust pipe of their automobile. The window well became an execution chamber for the skunk.

Gimmick Involved

Stockholm, July 29 (AP)—Anybody want to buy a castle for five cents? The Bergvik-Ala Co., a huge wood pulp firm, today offered to sell the big castle at Axmarbruk, in central Sweden, for that price. The Gimmick: The purchaser must renovate it completely—at an estimated cost of $150,000.

Phoenicia, July 28 — Delbert Reeder of Seattle, Wash., spent the weekend with Jay Hand.

Mr. and Mrs. James Grottola of Massapequa, L. I., visited relatives and friends here.

Thomas Lawless of Philadelphia, Pa., visited friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Seria and two children of New York city visited Mrs. Jacquelyn Finch.

The Victory Store under the management of Chauncey Schoonmaker for several years is now closed. Mr. Schoonmaker is now employed elsewhere.

Plan Activities For Camp Wendy

The Camp Council members met and planned camp activities for the second encampment at Camp Wendy, Wallkill. The Tinkerbelles have been creating spatter painting post cards which have been sent home to parents. The Indian group hiked around Louise Lake and explored the spots around the camp area. The Greenwood unit had a treasure nature hunt. The Pioneer clan began lashing a clothes pole to their tent. The Jungle girls entertained the Primitive Unit at camp-fire. Romany group took a hike to "The Maples."

Along with hiking the Tinkerbelles had a pony ride. A "scoutsown" is planned for Sunday evening on Tinkerbell Hill. The Indians planned a floating supper and are busy working on an outdoor fireplace in their new unit cook-out area. The Greenwood is on an overnight hike. The Pioneers are clearing for an out-post camp. The Jungle unit have undertaken a camp trip to Minnewaska and for some exchange camping.

On Wednesday evening, a soft ball game between the Jungles and the Pioneers was geared for high action.

Sunday's activities include church attendance with a water carnival act for the afternoon.

Pope's Nephew Injured

Rome, July 29 (AP)—Prince Carlo Pacelli, a nephew of Pope Pius XII, fell and broke his leg yesterday while at the Vatican to visit the Pontiff. He is being treated at a Rome hospital by his uncle's personal physician, Prof. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi. The Pope will leave The Vatican tomorrow for his summer residence at Castel Gandolfo, 18 miles south of Rome.

Foreign Students At Bard College

Annandale-on-Hudson, N. Y.—The campus at Bard College took on the international flavor of a United Nations meeting when some 50 foreign students arrived there Thursday to begin a six-week student orientation program. Ranging between 20 and 30 years of age, the young men and women come from 21 countries including Germany, Austria, Ireland, Iran, France, Belgium, Egypt, Brazil, Denmark, Japan, Pakistan, Finland, Cuba, India, Italy, Tanganyika, Korea, Ceylon, Spain, Greece, and the Philippine Islands. They are graduates of colleges and universities in their native lands and have been chosen to represent their countries because of outstanding intelligence, interest in democratic concept, qualities of leadership and social usefulness. The visitors will attend various graduate and professional schools throughout the United States after completing the orientation period at Bard.

IN ADDITION to receiving instruction in such subjects as English, American civilization, and literature, one of the most important and less formal aspects of the program will occur during the fourth week, when each of the students visits for a week with a family in this area. By living with families in the community, members of the group can better understand and adapt themselves to American home life.

The "home-week" is planned for August 21st through 28th and residents of Dutchess, Columbia, Greene, Ulster, Orange, Albany, and Putnam counties and nearby Connecticut are urged by Professor William Frauenfelder to participate by inviting one or more students to spend this period with them. Reimbursement for room and board is offered to families cooperating in the plan. If you are interested in aiding, phone Red Hook 6303 or write to the Foreign Student Orientation Program at Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson, New York.

Office Admits It Erred on Young

Washington, July 29 (AP)—The office of Comptroller General Joseph Campbell says it was wrong in two accusations of wrongdoing against Howard I. Young, a government dollar-a-year man in 1951-53, and was dropping them.

Young is president of American Zinc, Lead and Smelting Co., of St. Louis. He retained his position with the company when he was an official in the Defense Materials Procurement Agency (DMPA) during the Truman administration.

ALLEGATIONS of "conflict of interest" in Young's handling of some zinc contracts during his time with the DMPA were made by Campbell July 7. The Senate-House Defense Production Committee conducted an inquiry. Yesterday, the committee made public testimony taken the day before behind closed doors in which Campbell's office said two of its charges against Young were based on wrong information.

The charges were: That Young's firm sold $60,000 worth of machinery to the Mid-Continent Mining Co., after Young helped to promote a DMPA loan to Mid-Continent; and that Young's firm sold 1,167 tons of zinc to the stock pile at a price 1½ cents a pound above the market price.

THE TRANSCRIPT of the committee meeting quoted Frank H. Weitzel, assistant comptroller general, as testifying that "we admit we were wrong" and that the comptroller general was dropping the accusations.

The transcript also quoted Young's lawyer, John F. Lane, as accusing the General Accounting Office (GAO), which Campbell heads, of bias and prejudice against his client.

Young has said in sworn testimony before the committee that he never made any money for himself or his firm from government contracts which he had handled.

The committee did not say what steps it might take next.

Stone Ridge Cow Sets Production Record

Dunloggin French Mistress, a registered Holstein-Friesian cow owned by Ridgely Farms, Stone Ridge, has recently completed an official production record of 28,157 pounds of milk and 1,038.6 pounds of butterfat. This is the second time that Dunloggin French Mistress has produced over 1000 pounds of butterfat in a year and brings her total lifetime production to date up to 157,736 pounds of milk and 5,575 pounds of fat.

"Mistress" started her last official record at 11 years six months of age and was milked three times per day. This record was produced under the supervision of Cornell University and in cooperation with the Herd Improvement Registry program of The Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

Cancer Society Awards Named

Awards to the winners of the cartoon coloring contest of the American Cancer Society, in which fifteen of the county elementary schools participated, will be made over channel 66 on Friday at 6 p. m.

Seven out of approximately 1500 entries were given final priority by a special screening committee. Only one winner was permitted to a school. The entries were judged on the basis of neatness, originality and any individual touch which tended to personalize the Friendly Red Door and the objectives of the volunteer service of The American Cancer Society.

Serving as judges on the screening committee were: Mrs. Eva Beard, writer and illustrator of Woodstock; Miss Agnes Ridgway, radio and television writer of Stone Ridge; Mrs. Richard Kuehne, exhibits chairman for the Kingston Unit of the American Cancer Society; Mrs. John Larkin of Kingston, Mrs. Bernard Martin of Hurley Heights, and Mrs. Charles MacDonough of Kingston.

The winners are as follows: First prize for a girl, Marie Wilber, 9, Lake Hill of Onteora Central School; first prize for a boy, Richard Shiels, 9, Lake Katrine, of P.S. 7; second prize for a girl, Mary Elizabeth Boyd, 9, Kingston of P.S. 2; second prize for a boy, Harris Reavin, 10, Kerhonkson, of Kerhonkson Union School.

Because of competitive excellence two third prizes for girls were awarded: Carol Andersen, 11, High Falls of Marbletown Central School, and Betty Lee Marcus of Ellenville Elementary School. The third prize for a boy was won by Preston D. Palazzo, 12, Clintondale, of the Clintondale School.

The awards will be presented by Alan Stevenson, executive director of the New York State Division of the American Cancer Society. The contest was under the direction of Mrs. Matthew Hasbrouck, director of Cancer Society Ulster County Volunteer Services.

Foreign Students At Bard College

Annandale-on-Hudson, N. Y.—The campus at Bard College took on the international flavor of a United Nations meeting when some 50 foreign students arrived there Thursday to begin a six-week student orientation program. Ranging between 20 and 30 years of age, the young men and women come from 21 countries including Germany, Austria, Ireland, Iran, France, Belgium, Egypt, Brazil, Denmark, Japan, Pakistan, Finland, Cuba, India, Italy, Tanganyika, Korea, Ceylon, Spain, Greece, and the Philippine Islands. They are graduates of colleges and universities in their native lands and have been chosen to represent their countries because of outstanding intelligence, interest in democratic concept, qualities of leadership and social usefulness. IN ADDITION to receiving instruction in such subjects as English, American civilization, and literature, one of the most important and less formal aspects of the program will occur during the fourth week, when each of the students visits for a week with a family in this area. By living with families in the community, members of the group can better understand and adapt themselves to American home life.

The "home-week" is planned for August 21st through 28th and residents of Dutchess, Columbia, Greene, Ulster, Orange, Albany, and Putnam counties and nearby Connecticut are urged by Professor William Frauenfelder to participate by inviting one or more students to spend this period with them. Reimbursement for room and board is offered to families cooperating in the plan. If you are interested in aiding, phone Red Hook 6303 or write to the Foreign Student Orientation Program at Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson, New York.

Office Admits It Erred on Young

Washington, July 29 (AP)—The office of Comptroller General Joseph Campbell says it was wrong in two accusations of wrongdoing against Howard I. Young, a government dollar-a-year man in 1951-53, and was dropping them.

Young is president of American Zinc, Lead and Smelting Co., of St. Louis. He retained his position with the company when he was an official in the Defense Materials Procurement Agency (DMPA) during the Truman administration.

ALLEGATIONS of "conflict of interest" in Young's handling of some zinc contracts during his time with the DMPA were made by Campbell July 7. The Senate-House Defense Production Committee conducted an inquiry. Yesterday, the committee made public testimony taken the day before behind closed doors in which Campbell's office said two of its charges against Young were based on wrong information.

The charges were: That Young's firm sold $60,000 worth of machinery to the Mid-Continent Mining Co., after Young helped to promote a DMPA loan to Mid-Continent; and that Young's firm sold 1,167 tons of zinc to the stock pile at a price 1½ cents a pound above the market price.

THE TRANSCRIPT of the committee meeting quoted Frank H. Weitzel, assistant comptroller general, as testifying that "we admit we were wrong" and that the comptroller general was dropping the accusations.

The transcript also quoted Young's lawyer, John F. Lane, as accusing the General Accounting Office (GAO), which Campbell heads, of bias and prejudice against his client.

Young has said in sworn testimony before the committee that he never made any money for himself or his firm from government contracts which he had handled.

The committee did not say what steps it might take next.

Stone Ridge Cow Sets Production Record

Dunloggin French Mistress, a registered Holstein-Friesian cow owned by Ridgely Farms, Stone Ridge, has recently completed an official production record of 28,157 pounds of milk and 1,038.6 pounds of butterfat. This is the second time that Dunloggin French Mistress has produced over 1000 pounds of butterfat in a year and brings her total lifetime production to date up to 157,736 pounds of milk and 5,575 pounds of fat.

"Mistress" started her last official record at 11 years six months of age and was milked three times per day. This record was produced under the supervision of Cornell University and in cooperation with the Herd Improvement Registry program of The Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

Eisenhower Making Good Political Mark in Capital

BY JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

Washington, July 29 (AP)—The time may come when President Eisenhower, who went into the White House a political novice, is considered one of the best politicians of the 20th century.

That's taking in a lot of territory, and professional politicians—whose idea of politics is fight-slam-attack-and-create-issues—may hoot at the thought.

But Eisenhower already has established a remarkable political record in his first 30 months in the White House. Perhaps at this point a definition of a good politician might be in order:

HE'S A MAN who manages to stay immensely popular while getting done as much as possible of what he wants while avoiding any personal animosities which might get in the way of what he wants.

It's hard to think of anyone in or out of Congress—except perhaps Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.)—who is publicly mad at Eisenhower. Public opinion polls show he has retained an extremely high personal popularity.

A number of reasons can be suggested for this popularity. He went into office with great prestige and great public esteem and he has done nothing by his tactics to forfeit it.

A PERSONAL attack is one of the best ways to force people to choose up sides—for or against you—and Eisenhower has made personal attacks on no one.

He managed to get an end to the fighting in Korea, as he promised. He has steered clear of threats he couldn't fulfill. It was Secretary of State Dulles, not Eisenhower, who startled the world with talk of massive retaliation.

The President has carefully followed a moderate course. As an example: If since 1953 he had been extreme in his criticism of the Russian leadership, it might have been impossible for him to meet with the Kremlin men in Geneva where they established a relationship which may do the world good.

AND, AS FOR dealing with Congress where the Democrats should have been his natural political foes, lying in wait for him, it has been almost as if he followed this philosophy:

"I have a number of programs I want passed. I could fight vigorously for each one of them and look like an aggressive leader. But I won't get everything I want anyway.

"By following a moderate course, with every issue decided on its merits and not on a personal basis involving me, making no enemies, I may do all right."

HE HASN'T done badly. This year the Democratic-run Congress has passed much that he asked—sometimes a little less than he asked, as in foreign aid, or a little more than he asked, as in the minimum wage.

The Democrats have gotten along with him so well that Washington observers wonder how the Democrats are going to have any real issues in the 1956 presidential campaign if they don't start fighting Eisenhower and the Republicans soon.

They may be reconciled to the idea that he will run again, and win again, and that the best they can hope for is retaining control of Congress through the record of legislation they establish there.

Flavorful substitute for vinegar in potato salad is the brine left from a jar of sweet pickles.

Why We Say--

This expression, for someone who gains admission without paying, started in Pompei where most of the patrons couldn't read or write. The free section of the theatre was marked with two skulls and those who sat there became known as deadheads.

Calls Doll President Narrow in Attitude

Washington, July 29 (AP)—President Eisenhower may have got in dutch with the nation's doll makers, but he pleased at least one toy company official when he shopped in Geneva for gifts for his grandchildren.

Eric Kahn, of the Schuco Toy Co. in New York, assured the President in a letter released here today:

"Please understand, Mr. President, that the American Toy Industry is fully behind your purchase of toys in Geneva."

This tempest in a toy shop began last Monday when David Rosenstein, president of the National Assn. of Doll Manufacturers, said the people were shocked at this "spotlighting of foreign dolls."

But Kahn said: "May I apologize for a member of my industry who so narrowly took exception to your purchase?

"Your purchase of a child's plaything — an act of genuine humanness—was one of your contributions to world understanding."

Kahn got in a plug for another potential toy customer when he said:

"I wish to express the joy and happiness with which we learned of your soon-to-be fourth grandchild."

World Due to Get Hotter, Says Japanese

Tokyo, July 29 (AP)—A sweltering world got a bad news prediction today from a Japanese scientist.

Dr. Hideo Nishioka, 42, science instructor at Tokyo's Kei University, said world temperatures would get hotter every year for the next 250 years.

He said his prediction was based on his theory that general climatic changes occur in 700-year cycles and that the whole world is now in a temperature climbing period.

Weathermen at Tokyo's Central Meteorological Observatory said it was too hot today—a near record 93.5 degrees — to comment on Nishioka's theory.

Dog Has New Home

San Diego, Calif., July 29 (AP)—Lucky, a blind German shepherd dog which won a reprieve from death in the city pound after being found abandoned on a busy San Diego street last May, has a new home. The dog was adopted yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Irven Naiman of Los Angeles and their two daughters. Published stories of Lucky's plight brought offers of a home from more than 500 persons from all over the nation. The reprieve followed. An official of the California Society for Prevention of cruelty to animals selected the Naimans as Lucky's new owners. A veterinarian and others treated Lucky to try to restore his vision. The dog has regained partial sight in his right eye.

Demands Presence Of Nationalist China

Washington, July 29 (AP)—With a new blast at "appeasing the Chinese Communists," Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) demanded yesterday that Nationalist China be represented at next week's U. S.-Red Chinese talks at Geneva.

He introduced a resolution asking the Senate to back that stand, but there appeared little likelihood of Senate action in the rush toward adjournment.

"It is not by accident," McCarthy said in a speech, "that a Far Eastern sell-out is taking shape at the very time the Congress adjourns. The administration hopes to bring off its deal while we are out of session, and thus avoid having to answer to the representatives of the American people."

He said a cease-fire is one of the subjects for discussion and "the only people that have been 'firing' in the Formosa Straits are the forces of Communist China and Free China."

Yet he said the State Department has suggested "that somehow, the Geneva talks regarding a cease-fire will not affect the Republic of China." He called it "blatant hypocrisy."

Barbers to Meet

All city barbers have been asked to attend a special meeting at 1 p. m. Wednesday, Aug. 3, at the Kingston Maennerchor Hall on Greenkill avenue. A spokesman said it was a barber's holiday and urged all barbers to attend, explaining that their "livelihood" was involved.

Tags to Spell Out Religious Faiths

Washington, July 29 (AP)—Religious preferences of members of the armed services will hereafter be spelled out fully on their dog tags instead of being designated by single letters.

At present service dog tags carry the letters "P" "C" and "J" to designate Protestants, Catholics or Jews. They also provide the letter "X" to denote other religions and the letter "Y" when the service person says he has no religion or does not want to indicate it.

Announcing the change yesterday, the Defense Department said present holders of dog tags may turn them in for the new kind. In the future, it added, all service people may have their denomination of religion spelled out, so that chaplains in an emergency will know precisely which last rites to administer.

The number of telephones in the United States rose from 21 million in 1940 to 53 million today.

At present service dog tags carry the letters "P" "C" and "J" to designate Protestants, Catholics or Jews. They also provide the letter "X" to denote other religions and the letter "Y" when the service person says he has no religion or does not want to indicate it.

Announcing the change yesterday, the Defense Department said present holders of dog tags may turn them in for the new kind. In the future, it added, all service people may have their denomination of religion spelled out, so that chaplains in an emergency will know precisely which last rites to administer.

THE TRAVEL BOOM

Americans have become a much-traveled people—not only at home, but abroad.

Reports indicate that this year all foreign travel records are being smashed. The overseas ship and air lines are running at peak capacity as armies of Americans satisfy their desire to see the countries of the old world.

There's another form of travel of which we don't hear so much—but which is growing apace and is vital to the welfare of this country and the entire free world. That travel is being done by goods, not people. We are a major importing nation—both of certain types of consumer goods, and of strategic national defense materials which either do not exist at all or are found in insufficient quantity within our own borders.

We are also a major exporter. All manner of agricultural and manufactured products go to overseas markets in a huge and endless stream. Whether they know it or not, the farmer in Kansas and the auto worker in Detroit—to take but two examples out of thousands that could be cited—directly or indirectly get a part of their livelihood from foreign trade. They may never have seen an ocean—yet the oceans are highways of commerce which help to keep the American economy running in top gear.

Virtually all imports and exports, of course, must travel in merchant ships. It would be folly, in this chaotic world we live in, to depend on the ships of even the friendliest of foreign nations—their services could be denied to us overnight. That's why we must protect and strengthen the American merchant marine—in the interest of national defense and of our material prosperity alike.

FARM SAFETY WEEK

It's probably unfortunate that the American people are asked to observe so many "weeks" devoted to advancing some cause or other. Their very number tends to produce disinterest. But, that to one side, many of these "weeks are of great importance, and are deserving of every possible support and success.

That is the case with Farm Safety Week, which currently is being observed. Accidents constitute a grim and heavy toll on agriculture—a toll that must be paid for both in needless human suffering and loss, and in money and materials.

Farm people are susceptible to dangers common to all of us—such as highway and home accidents. In addition, modern farming is a highly technical and mechanized enterprise, and this inevitably creates additional hazards to the unwary and the ill-informed. As an example, the farm equipment manufacturers have done everything possible to build safety into their machines along with efficiency and economy. But no manufacturer can do anything about users who won't follow the simple and basic safety rules and practices. The same thing is true of farm electrical equipment, and of modern insecticides and other aids to better and more profitable farming.

During this week, experts of all kinds are doing everything in their power to point to the hazards the farmer encounters—and to show them how they may be eliminated or minimized. Every farm family will have a chance to learn lessons that will save life and limb. May they take full advantage of it!

LOCAL ADVERTISING

"'All business is local' is still a 100 per cent factual statement," says Editor & Publisher. "The sale has to be made at the local level. It takes the only truly local advertising medium — newspapers — to do the selling job."

The newspaper is the running history of its community. Its advertisements are read because they appear beside the news and other material that people are interested in. That's why, despite the growth of other forms of mass communication, the local newspaper still tops the list.

NATO

It is now clear that the Russians are anxious to put an end to NATO. All the discussion concerning German unification and European Security at Geneva bore the overtone of anxiety concerning NATO and its continued existence. It is of significance that the Russians put Europe first and the German problem foremost. For years now, they had concerned themselves primarily with Asia, but at Geneva, so far as we know, the Asiatic question was not raised. Direct conversations between the United States and Red China at this time would be meaningless, as what needs first to be settled is the German unification problem which is the major issue before the world.

When NATO was organized in 1949, it seemed to be little more than a military substitute for the Marshall Plan—a technique for aiding European states on a military rather than an eleemosynary basis. NATO has, however, developed into a significant integrated power, a unifier of European defenses against Soviet Russia. With its adjunct, the Western European Union, it is now a formidable body, so strong that Russia has been unable to make an advance of an inch on the continent of Europe since NATO has been a factor there.

The same cannot be said for SEATO, which, being in Asia, is somewhat neglected by our better minds in the government. But if NATO could have established itself so firmly in Europe, there is no reason why SEATO cannot do the same in Asia. SEATO's major fault, as a defensive organization, is that it does not include Formosa and Japan. It therefore has an air of unreality about it, for to friend and foe alike it is obvious that one of the major functions of SEATO is to defend Formosa from Red China's imperialistic aggressions.

The measure of NATO's significance is the intensity of Russia's fear of it and opposition to it. As they fear it, NATO's importance increases. From the very little news that has come to us from Geneva, it is conclusive that the Russians first object to Germany being a member of NATO and secondly to the existence of this unified military force in Western Europe.

What it really comes to is that the Truman Containment Policy (March 12, 1947), which so many of us criticized, has proved to be effective. In Europe, Soviet Russia has been contained within its 1948 boundaries, when the Communist governments came into existence openly in the satellite countries. However, those countries were already dominated by the Communists. Thus far, Soviet Russia has not made an advance to the West or to the South beyond what might historically be called the Truman Boundaries.

It is also true that the Soviet Universal State has lost no territory in Europe since then, the Titoist defection antedating the enunciation of the Truman Doctrine, although it manifested itself formally in June 1948.

Since 1947, however, the advance of the Soviet Universal State in Asia has been enormous. After Red China came Tibet, North Korea, Indo-China and the neutralization of India and Burma.

However, the situation in Asia is in a state of flux. Whereas SEATO is an organized and functioning agency, nothing came out of the Bandung Conference but speeches of a highly sentimental nature all demonstrating that the emotional response of nationalism is so intense that no unity can be expected among the anti-American or neutralized countries. Whereas most Asiatic countries are chauvinistic because of their intense opposition to the "white" man, they resent each other.

And this more was established at Bandung: While Nehru is taken seriously in some Western countries and is admitted into the charmed circle at the Kremlin, he is regarded among Asiatics as one of the local boys whose antecedents are known and whose character is not bedecked with garlands of peonies. He did not lead at Bandung. As a matter of fact, the pro-American, General Carlos Romulo, played a more decisive role.

It would seem as though as much might be done with SEATO as has been accomplished with NATO. But it will require greater minds than Harold Stassen and Nelson Rockefeller for that job. Dealing with Asiatics requires an intense knowledge of the history, philosophy and social norms of races of man whose intellectual responses have hardly been influenced by the Aristotelian-Christian concepts of the West. They answer the challenges of history differently from Europeans. For one thing, they are not influenced by or concerned with time.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

THE DEAF CHILD

When we use the terms "disabled" or "handicapped" we are likely to think of people who are lame or the patient with cerebral palsy, but we do not often think of the person who has had loss of hearing. Yet the program that must be undertaken to enable the hard of hearing child, to take his place in life is not an easy one.

Dr. Samuel Zwerling in "Rehabilitation Review" tells of one rewarding case he had followed for over 15 years, beginning as a small girl and progressing to the point where she had gotten her B.A. and an offer to teach in her old school. The child had been found at an early age to have a profound and incurable hearing loss. In talking with the parents, Dr. Zwerling found that the child had too few playmates and in order to get her out into the fresh air and sunshine, he suggested that the parents buy a puppy who would act not only as a playmate to the child but as a distraction, and a relaxation and would also act as a means of attracting other children. The plan was successful and the parents were also advised to invite children to lunch at least once a week. A head set was put on the radio and the little girl encouraged to tune in the program she would enjoy.

A hearing aid was carefully selected and the child taught how and when to use it. As she acquired greater ability in lip-reading and the use of her hearing aid, she became very much more interested in the world around her, more co-operative with her parents, teachers, and physician. With kindness, tact and guidance she developed into a good student who could be considered a well-rounded person capable of taking her place in a hearing world.

This remarkable achievement was not accomplished by one individual but rather by a group—the ear specialist, social case worker, teacher of lip-reading, speech and vocational counselor. "There is no limit to what can be done for a handicapped individual if we all just pull together and pool our resources.

It is recommended that the child with hearing impairment wear a hearing aid as advised and be trained to make maximum use of it and to understand its limitations. He should also be trained to have skill on lip-reading. He should have recreation opportunity with those of normal hearing to enable him to meet social situations. He should be prepared to avoid economic pitfalls, personal disappointments and unhealthy mental hygiene by early vocational guidance from one who knows the restrictions imposed on him by his hearing loss. He will be helped to learn to face reality and to put forth effort of his own to create opportunity for growth.

"All too many children grow into adult life without the chance of acquiring the skills necessary to satisfactory living in a world of people who can hear normally."

Many large American and Canadian cities have Leagues or Clubs for the Hard of Hearing, who can be of great help.

We Get a Better View of Things From This Point

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—(NEA)—A skeptical suspicion that the "Atoms for Peace" plan may have been oversold to an awe-struck gullible public largely ignorant of such matters, is now being expressed privately by American scientists.

This is the one atomic cloud no bigger than a man's hand that appears on the horizon as the United Nations atomic energy conference prepares to assemble at Geneva, August 8.

The idea that world peace, civilization, and happiness can be achieved simply by putting an atomic reactor in every jungle collection of thatched roofs or every cluster of Arctic igloos just isn't practical, say the doubters.

What good is an atomic reactor going to do these people, they ask, when they don't have a light bulb, a radio, a fan or heater, an icebox or stove?

What such people need first, it is said, is a knowledge of how to read and write, take care of their bodies, catch more fish, grow more corn and use a few more tools.

This is nothing more than simple, so-called Point Four aid. An atomic reactor for such primitive people and underdeveloped countries would be in the nature of Point Forty, before they have 36 points in between.

IN SHORT, IT IS CHARGED that too many global planners are trying to force an atomic revolution on the world too fast.

Many fantastic predictions have been made of $500 atomic furnaces for the average home, of atomic batteries that will never run down and atomic automobiles.

These things, aren't in the ratio of one to one thousand of being practical, say the realists.

"You don't experiment with nuclear energy the way you do with kerosene," says Dr. Ralph Lapp in simple English. "You don't take 10 ounces of uranium solution, mix it with something else or light a match to it and make it fizz."

Atomic power is a tremendously complicated thing. It is only now beginning to be practical for areas where other sources of power are not available. It is not going to make obsolete in the near future all existing hydroelectric coal, oil or gas steam plants as power sources.

As an example, President Eisenhower's proposal for an atomic peace ship was turned down originally as impractical. The Joint Committee on Atomic Energy found it would be far too costly to build and operate in competition with conventional shipping.

IF THE ATOMIC PEACE SHIP is now approved by Congress on reconsideration, it will be either as a propaganda device or as a long range project to develop something that will ultimately be able to compete with coal or fuel oil burning steam boilers that drive marine turbines.

The atomic power plant of the submarine Nautilus, while spectacular as the first of its kind, is far more costly to build and operate than diesel powered subs. The Nautilus power plant and that of its sister sub the Sea Wolf, just launched, may be considered crude and primitive in a few years.

One of the current gags among scientists is that the principal reason for keeping the Nautilus and Sea Wolf reactors top secret is to keep the world from knowing just how uneconomic and inefficient they really are.

It was only natural that President Eisenhower's original atomic peace plan of December 1953 should capture popular fancy. It offered an escape from the threat of atomic war. It sent hopes soaring for an immediate economic revolution by applications of atomic energy to nonmilitary uses. Announcement of the forthcoming United Nations atomic conference at Geneva amplified this optimism.

A SPEECH BY Atomic Energy Commission Chairman Lewis L. Strauss at Los Angeles in April on "A First Step Toward the Peaceful Uses of Atomic Energy" was intended to bring the subject back into proper perspective. Atomic energy will not, he said, "cure the ills of the world in a single stroke."

A second important step in trying to check overoptimism was President Eisenhower's second proposal. Under this plan the United States will furnish the uranium fuel and pay half the costs of construction of research reactors built by friendly countries.

These reactors will train scientists and develop the manpower needed to build and operate other reactors for power. This education of more scientists to handle atomic energy safely is a necessary first step before there can be any widespread revolution from this 10-year-old source of power.

Today in Washington

Popularity of President Seen at Stake in Parleys

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 28—Dwight Eisenhower is today more popular with the American people than any President of the United States has been in the last half-century.

This is due not only to the kindly and fair-minded personality of Mr. Eisenhower but to the confidence which the people generally have in his conscientious desire to carry out the national and international policies they want.

Politically, Mr. Eisenhower would win by a landslide if a presidential election were held this month. But whether he will win in 1956 depends on whether he maintains his popularity twelve months from now or suffers a dramatic reversal. Likewise, his political fortunes a year hence would depend on whether the nation is in a prosperous condition or in the midst of a recession.

ONE POSSIBILITY of a decided change in the curve of the President's popularity is related directly to some sources of his present strength which could become weaknesses.

The urge to peace is the strongest passion in America today. Mr. Eisenhower to an amazing extent has the support of the two main bodies of American opinion.

First, the President is trusted by the average man, who cannot be expected to follow the details of world problems and who feels that Mr. Eisenhower will do everything in his power to avoid another world war.

Second, the President has the confidence of those who do follow foreign policy closely and who believe that he will not be "taken in" or deceived by the Russian strategy because, with his military background, he is not likely to be fooled or victimized by mere promises without performances.

THE MONTHS ahead will indicate what the true course of the Communists is to be. Mr. Eisenhower may have to choose between a course for America that could mean appeasement—a tendency to let the Communists consolidate their gains—and a forthright and adamant position against permitting Communist tyranny to become a permanent fixture in the world.

The Democrats, although divided as a party and leaning for the most part now toward the appeasement side, will not hesitate to take political advantage of any "breaks" that go against the President. They will hold him responsible for any encouragement that the Russians may derive for further acts of aggression or enslavement of weak countries. This has been the political direction such developments usually have taken in other parlimentary bodies.

The Communist game is a tricky one. America is too strong to be challenged in a nuclear war. So the Soviets have decided that what they would not win by war they might win by "peaceful coexistence." So anxious are the Western peoples for peace that Mr. Eisenhower promises to go "to any length" consistent with justice and honor. But there is a large element in America which would just as readily omit the qualification and ask him to go to any length and pay any price for peace.

The Soviets have turned on the fountains of conciliatory words and pleasing gestures. Visits are to be exchanged by high officials. Exchanges of citizens groups are to be encouraged—and what is more logical, they think, than the opening thereafter of trade barriers so that needed machinery and raw materials can flow to Soviet Russia?

IT WILL TAKE months for this policy to be digested by the Western World, and then will come the appraisal by the public as to whether Mr. Eisenhower's leadership has had the net effect of strengthening Soviet Russia's position at the expense of the Western democracies. The British and French and other governments of the free world will side with the President on any concessions he makes. They are terrorized by the ideas of a nuclear war. But the test inside America will come when the people find out just what Mr. Eisenhower meant when he said that in October at the Foreign Ministers' meeting there would have to be some "giving" on our part.

What do we "give"? The Communists hold in prison camps many Americans and Europeans who ought to have been released long ago. Does the West have to pay a price to get Russia to keep her word on past pledges?

Do we "give" by accepting the status of the enslaved countries of Europe and by accepting a disarmed or weakened Germany?

THESE ARE questions that will not be answered decisively for a long time perhaps, but the trend of the Soviet policy on these matters cannot be concealed even for a few weeks more. Moscow is delighted with Mr. Eisenhower's friendliness, his peacefulness, his amiability and his sincerity, but right now the Kremlin can misconstrue this as a peace-at-any-price psychology and make a grave error. There is a better climate for peace only because the spokesmen for both sides choose to say so. There actually isn't any sign of a change on any vital issue, and the shooting down of a civilian airplane by Communist Bulgaria indicates that the "relaxation of tension" is still one-sided.

These are some of the circumstances surrounding the risks which the President's popularity curve may undergo in the next few months, and it may be said without exaggeration that everybody hopes Mr. Eisenhower will continue to satisfy the millions of Americans who are unwilling to make any compromises with principle and who want peace only with honor and justice.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., July 20—It is too bad that the newspapers and broadcasters feel obliged to present so much bad news — about crime, foreign complications, and even auto accidents. Every impartial statistician must be an optimist, to ferret out the facts.

IT IS TRUE that these three unfortunate things are on the increase, and churches and schools are getting the blame for it. But when crime and accidents are reduced to a per-capita basis, the figures are not so bad. Our population is growing so fast that in reality there has been a decrease in crime and accidents when adjusted to the population growth.

Just think, since Hoover was in the White House the net population of the United States has increased over 40,000,000! This is almost equivalent to the entire population of Great Britain. In other words, if, say, the total population of Great Britain had been dumped into the United States in the last 25 years, would we not expect to have even more crime and trouble than we have today?

I ADMIT that parking problems are terrible. Unless our city fathers remedy these very soon, our merchants will suffer. When their sales decrease, manufacturers cannot sell as many goods and unemployment increases. But—considering the number of automobiles, it is remarkable that we can find any place to park our cars!

Yet, should we blame the automobiles or the ignorance and shortsightedness of our municipal governments? What would any city do today without the automobile business? Close up the dealers, garages, gas stations, and repair shops, and what would we have left? A few blacksmiths would be shoeing horses and there would be dealers in hay and oats—but the life of our cities would be gone. However, we should have both the auto industry and sufficient free parking.

WE NOT ONLY have wonderful crops; but we have a billion bushels of grain in storage. In addition we have tons of eggs, butter, and other products in storage. No country in the world begins to have our blessings. This applies even to the wealth of the sea and the trees of the forests. Each week as I read a large Sunday paper I regret the acres of splendid woodland which were destroyed to give me the newspaper. Yet, I am assured that the new growth exceeds the destruction.

When I learn of the great rivers which have not yet been harnessed, of the supplies of coal and oil which will last for centuries, and of other God-given natural resources, I am both humble and thankful. And we are just now learning about the power of uranium which may be found anywhere and a pound of which may do the work of 2½ million pounds of coal. It seems wicked for any of us to complain about anything. We perhaps are wasting precious time even bothering to look at stock-market quotations or concerning ourselves about investigations. Speaking of "time," this is the only thing of which there is no surplus. Our time is the one thing which we cannot replace when it is wasted.

OF ALL our blessings, perhaps the greatest is our freedom from war — and the possibility that the World Wars may be at an end. Upon the highest military authority, I forecast that the hydrogen bomb may be a blessing in diguise. At any rate, we know that the draft calls are being reduced, and the orders for much military equipment are being canceled.

I grant that it makes some people pessimistic to read the newspapers; but the very fact that the newspapers publish no more about crime and accidents proves that the bad news is becoming proportionately less. Whenever I get pessimistic, which is very seldom, I read the history of England or of some other country. This shows that the world is getting better fast and that my job is to keep up with it. If you have any difficulty being optimistic, read each day one of the Psalms of David. There are 150 of these, so they will keep you busy for 5 months. They will be the best pills you can take.

No Loose Caboose

Seward, Neb. (AP) — When Henry Weitzel of Seward retired in 1951 after 42½ years of working for a railroad, he had time on his hands and railroad still in his system. So he acquired an 1871 railroad caboose, transplanted it to his back yard and made it into an attractive cottage. He did all the work except plumbing and wiring, and figures the job cost about $1,100.

Americans have become a much-traveled people—not only at home, but abroad.

Reports indicate that this year all foreign travel records are being smashed. The overseas ship and air lines are running at peak capacity as armies of Americans satisfy their desire to see the countries of the old world.

There's another form of travel of which we don't hear so much—but which is growing apace and is vital to the welfare of this country and the entire free world. That travel is being done by goods, not people. We are a major importing nation—both of certain types of consumer goods, and of strategic national defense materials which either do not exist at all or are found in insufficient quantity within our own borders.

We are also a major exporter. All manner of agricultural and manufactured products go to overseas markets in a huge and endless stream. Whether they know it or not, the farmer in Kansas and the auto worker in Detroit—to take but two examples out of thousands that could be cited—directly or indirectly get a part of their livelihood from foreign trade. They may never have seen an ocean—yet the oceans are highways of commerce which help to keep the American economy running in top gear.

Virtually all imports and exports, of course, must travel in merchant ships. It would be folly, in this chaotic world we live in, to depend on the ships of even the friendliest of foreign nations—their services could be denied to us overnight. That's why we must protect and strengthen the American merchant marine—in the interest of national defense and of our material prosperity alike.

FARM SAFETY WEEK

It's probably unfortunate that the American people are asked to observe so many "weeks" devoted to advancing some cause or other. Their very number tends to produce disinterest. But, that to one side, many of these "weeks are of great importance, and are deserving of every possible support and success.

That is the case with Farm Safety Week, which currently is being observed. Accidents constitute a grim and heavy toll on agriculture—a toll that must be paid for both in needless human suffering and loss, and in money and materials.

Farm people are susceptible to dangers common to all of us—such as highway and home accidents. In addition, modern farming is a highly technical and mechanized enterprise, and this inevitably creates additional hazards to the unwary and the ill-informed. As an example, the farm equipment manufacturers have done everything possible to build safety into their machines along with efficiency and economy. But no manufacturer can do anything about users who won't follow the simple and basic safety rules and practices. The same thing is true of farm electrical equipment, and of modern insecticides and other aids to better and more profitable farming.

During this week, experts of all kinds are doing everything in their power to point to the hazards the farmer encounters—and to show them how they may be eliminated or minimized. Every farm family will have a chance to learn lessons that will save life and limb. May they take full advantage of it!

LOCAL ADVERTISING

"'All business is local' is still a 100 per cent factual statement," says Editor & Publisher. "The sale has to be made at the local level. It takes the only truly local advertising medium — newspapers — to do the selling job."

The newspaper is the running history of its community. Its advertisements are read because they appear beside the news and other material that people are interested in. That's why, despite the growth of other forms of mass communication, the local newspaper still tops the list.

NATO

It is now clear that the Russians are anxious to put an end to NATO. All the discussion concerning German unification and European Security at Geneva bore the overtone of anxiety concerning NATO and its continued existence. It is of significance that the Russians put Europe first and the German problem foremost. For years now, they had concerned themselves primarily with Asia, but at Geneva, so far as we know, the Asiatic question was not raised. Direct conversations between the United States and Red China at this time would be meaningless, as what needs first to be settled is the German unification problem which is the major issue before the world.

When NATO was organized in 1949, it seemed to be little more than a military substitute for the Marshall Plan—a technique for aiding European states on a military rather than an eleemosynary basis. NATO has, however, developed into a significant integrated power, a unifier of European defenses against Soviet Russia. With its adjunct, the Western European Union, it is now a formidable body, so strong that Russia has been unable to make an advance of an inch on the continent of Europe since NATO has been a factor there.

The same cannot be said for SEATO, which, being in Asia, is somewhat neglected by our better minds in the government. But if NATO could have established itself so firmly in Europe, there is no reason why SEATO cannot do the same in Asia. SEATO's major fault, as a defensive organization, is that it does not include Formosa and Japan. It therefore has an air of unreality about it, for to friend and foe alike it is obvious that one of the major functions of SEATO is to defend Formosa from Red China's imperialistic aggressions.

The measure of NATO's significance is the intensity of Russia's fear of it and opposition to it. As they fear it, NATO's importance increases. From the very little news that has come to us from Geneva, it is conclusive that the Russians first object to Germany being a member of NATO and secondly to the existence of this unified military force in Western Europe.

What it really comes to is that the Truman Containment Policy (March 12, 1947), which so many of us criticized, has proved to be effective. In Europe, Soviet Russia has been contained within its 1948 boundaries, when the Communist governments came into existence openly in the satellite countries. However, those countries were already dominated by the Communists. Thus far, Soviet Russia has not made an advance to the West or to the South beyond what might historically be called the Truman Boundaries.

It is also true that the Soviet Universal State has lost no territory in Europe since then, the Titoist defection antedating the enunciation of the Truman Doctrine, although it manifested itself formally in June 1948.

Since 1947, however, the advance of the Soviet Universal State in Asia has been enormous. After Red China came Tibet, North Korea, Indo-China and the neutralization of India and Burma.

However, the situation in Asia is in a state of flux. Whereas SEATO is an organized and functioning agency, nothing came out of the Bandung Conference but speeches of a highly sentimental nature all demonstrating that the emotional response of nationalism is so intense that no unity can be expected among the anti-American or neutralized countries. Whereas most Asiatic countries are chauvinistic because of their intense opposition to the "white" man, they resent each other.

And this more was established at Bandung: While Nehru is taken seriously in some Western countries and is admitted into the charmed circle at the Kremlin, he is regarded among Asiatics as one of the local boys whose antecedents are known and whose character is not bedecked with garlands of peonies. He did not lead at Bandung. As a matter of fact, the pro-American, General Carlos Romulo, played a more decisive role.

It would seem as though as much might be done with SEATO as has been accomplished with NATO. But it will require greater minds than Harold Stassen and Nelson Rockefeller for that job. Dealing with Asiatics requires an intense knowledge of the history, philosophy and social norms of races of man whose intellectual responses have hardly been influenced by the Aristotelian-Christian concepts of the West. They answer the challenges of history differently from Europeans. For one thing, they are not influenced by or concerned with time.

That Body of Yours

THE DEAF CHILD

When we use the terms "disabled" or "handicapped" we are likely to think of people who are lame or the patient with cerebral palsy, but we do not often think of the person who has had loss of hearing. Yet the program that must be undertaken to enable the hard of hearing child, to take his place in life is not an easy one.

Dr. Samuel Zwerling in "Rehabilitation Review" tells of one rewarding case he had followed for over 15 years, beginning as a small girl and progressing to the point where she had gotten her B.A. and an offer to teach in her old school. The child had been found at an early age to have a profound and incurable hearing loss. In talking with the parents, Dr. Zwerling found that the child had too few playmates and in order to get her out into the fresh air and sunshine, he suggested that the parents buy a puppy who would act not only as a playmate to the child but as a distraction, and a relaxation and would also act as a means of attracting other children. The plan was successful and the parents were also advised to invite children to lunch at least once a week. A head set was put on the radio and the little girl encouraged to tune in the program she would enjoy.

A hearing aid was carefully selected and the child taught how and when to use it. As she acquired greater ability in lip-reading and the use of her hearing aid, she became very much more interested in the world around her, more co-operative with her parents, teachers, and physician. With kindness, tact and guidance she developed into a good student who could be considered a well-rounded person capable of taking her place in a hearing world.

This remarkable achievement was not accomplished by one individual but rather by a group—the ear specialist, social case worker, teacher of lip-reading, speech and vocational counselor. "There is no limit to what can be done for a handicapped individual if we all just pull together and pool our resources.

It is recommended that the child with hearing impairment wear a hearing aid as advised and be trained to make maximum use of it and to understand its limitations. He should also be trained to have skill on lip-reading. He should have recreation opportunity with those of normal hearing to enable him to meet social situations. He should be prepared to avoid economic pitfalls, personal disappointments and unhealthy mental hygiene by early vocational guidance from one who knows the restrictions imposed on him by his hearing loss. He will be helped to learn to face reality and to put forth effort of his own to create opportunity for growth.

"All too many children grow into adult life without the chance of acquiring the skills necessary to satisfactory living in a world of people who can hear normally."

Many large American and Canadian cities have Leagues or Clubs for the Hard of Hearing, who can be of great help.

We Get a Better View of Things From This Point

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—(NEA)—A skeptical suspicion that the "Atoms for Peace" plan may have been oversold to an awe-struck gullible public largely ignorant of such matters, is now being expressed privately by American scientists.

This is the one atomic cloud no bigger than a man's hand that appears on the horizon as the United Nations atomic energy conference prepares to assemble at Geneva, August 8.

The idea that world peace, civilization, and happiness can be achieved simply by putting an atomic reactor in every jungle collection of thatched roofs or every cluster of Arctic igloos just isn't practical, say the doubters.

What good is an atomic reactor going to do these people, they ask, when they don't have a light bulb, a radio, a fan or heater, an icebox or stove?

What such people need first, it is said, is a knowledge of how to read and write, take care of their bodies, catch more fish, grow more corn and use a few more tools.

This is nothing more than simple, so-called Point Four aid. An atomic reactor for such primitive people and underdeveloped countries would be in the nature of Point Forty, before they have 36 points in between.

IN SHORT, IT IS CHARGED that too many global planners are trying to force an atomic revolution on the world too fast.

Many fantastic predictions have been made of $500 atomic furnaces for the average home, of atomic batteries that will never run down and atomic automobiles.

These things, aren't in the ratio of one to one thousand of being practical, say the realists.

"You don't experiment with nuclear energy the way you do with kerosene," says Dr. Ralph Lapp in simple English. "You don't take 10 ounces of uranium solution, mix it with something else or light a match to it and make it fizz."

Atomic power is a tremendously complicated thing. It is only now beginning to be practical for areas where other sources of power are not available. It is not going to make obsolete in the near future all existing hydroelectric coal, oil or gas steam plants as power sources.

As an example, President Eisenhower's proposal for an atomic peace ship was turned down originally as impractical. The Joint Committee on Atomic Energy found it would be far too costly to build and operate in competition with conventional shipping.

IF THE ATOMIC PEACE SHIP is now approved by Congress on reconsideration, it will be either as a propaganda device or as a long range project to develop something that will ultimately be able to compete with coal or fuel oil burning steam boilers that drive marine turbines.

The atomic power plant of the submarine Nautilus, while spectacular as the first of its kind, is far more costly to build and operate than diesel powered subs. The Nautilus power plant and that of its sister sub the Sea Wolf, just launched, may be considered crude and primitive in a few years.

One of the current gags among scientists is that the principal reason for keeping the Nautilus and Sea Wolf reactors top secret is to keep the world from knowing just how uneconomic and inefficient they really are.

It was only natural that President Eisenhower's original atomic peace plan of December 1953 should capture popular fancy. It offered an escape from the threat of atomic war. It sent hopes soaring for an immediate economic revolution by applications of atomic energy to nonmilitary uses. Announcement of the forthcoming United Nations atomic conference at Geneva amplified this optimism.

A SPEECH BY Atomic Energy Commission Chairman Lewis L. Strauss at Los Angeles in April on "A First Step Toward the Peaceful Uses of Atomic Energy" was intended to bring the subject back into proper perspective. Atomic energy will not, he said, "cure the ills of the world in a single stroke."

A second important step in trying to check overoptimism was President Eisenhower's second proposal. Under this plan the United States will furnish the uranium fuel and pay half the costs of construction of research reactors built by friendly countries.

These reactors will train scientists and develop the manpower needed to build and operate other reactors for power. This education of more scientists to handle atomic energy safely is a necessary first step before there can be any widespread revolution from this 10-year-old source of power.

Today in Washington

Popularity of President Seen at Stake in Parleys

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 28—Dwight Eisenhower is today more popular with the American people than any President of the United States has been in the last half-century.

This is due not only to the kindly and fair-minded personality of Mr. Eisenhower but to the confidence which the people generally have in his conscientious desire to carry out the national and international policies they want.

Politically, Mr. Eisenhower would win by a landslide if a presidential election were held this month. But whether he will win in 1956 depends on whether he maintains his popularity twelve months from now or suffers a dramatic reversal. Likewise, his political fortunes a year hence would depend on whether the nation is in a prosperous condition or in the midst of a recession.

ONE POSSIBILITY of a decided change in the curve of the President's popularity is related directly to some sources of his present strength which could become weaknesses.

The urge to peace is the strongest passion in America today. Mr. Eisenhower to an amazing extent has the support of the two main bodies of American opinion.

First, the President is trusted by the average man, who cannot be expected to follow the details of world problems and who feels that Mr. Eisenhower will do everything in his power to avoid another world war.

Second, the President has the confidence of those who do follow foreign policy closely and who believe that he will not be "taken in" or deceived by the Russian strategy because, with his military background, he is not likely to be fooled or victimized by mere promises without performances.

THE MONTHS ahead will indicate what the true course of the Communists is to be. Mr. Eisenhower may have to choose between a course for America that could mean appeasement—a tendency to let the Communists consolidate their gains—and a forthright and adamant position against permitting Communist tyranny to become a permanent fixture in the world.

The Democrats, although divided as a party and leaning for the most part now toward the appeasement side, will not hesitate to take political advantage of any "breaks" that go against the President. They will hold him responsible for any encouragement that the Russians may derive for further acts of aggression or enslavement of weak countries. This has been the political direction such developments usually have taken in other parlimentary bodies.

The Communist game is a tricky one. America is too strong to be challenged in a nuclear war. So the Soviets have decided that what they would not win by war they might win by "peaceful coexistence." So anxious are the Western peoples for peace that Mr. Eisenhower promises to go "to any length" consistent with justice and honor. But there is a large element in America which would just as readily omit the qualification and ask him to go to any length and pay any price for peace.

The Soviets have turned on the fountains of conciliatory words and pleasing gestures. Visits are to be exchanged by high officials. Exchanges of citizens groups are to be encouraged—and what is more logical, they think, than the opening thereafter of trade barriers so that needed machinery and raw materials can flow to Soviet Russia?

IT WILL TAKE months for this policy to be digested by the Western World, and then will come the appraisal by the public as to whether Mr. Eisenhower's leadership has had the net effect of strengthening Soviet Russia's position at the expense of the Western democracies. The British and French and other governments of the free world will side with the President on any concessions he makes. They are terrorized by the ideas of a nuclear war. But the test inside America will come when the people find out just what Mr. Eisenhower meant when he said that in October at the Foreign Ministers' meeting there would have to be some "giving" on our part.

What do we "give"? The Communists hold in prison camps many Americans and Europeans who ought to have been released long ago. Does the West have to pay a price to get Russia to keep her word on past pledges?

Do we "give" by accepting the status of the enslaved countries of Europe and by accepting a disarmed or weakened Germany?

THESE ARE questions that will not be answered decisively for a long time perhaps, but the trend of the Soviet policy on these matters cannot be concealed even for a few weeks more. Moscow is delighted with Mr. Eisenhower's friendliness, his peacefulness, his amiability and his sincerity, but right now the Kremlin can misconstrue this as a peace-at-any-price psychology and make a grave error. There is a better climate for peace only because the spokesmen for both sides choose to say so. There actually isn't any sign of a change on any vital issue, and the shooting down of a civilian airplane by Communist Bulgaria indicates that the "relaxation of tension" is still one-sided.

These are some of the circumstances surrounding the risks which the President's popularity curve may undergo in the next few months, and it may be said without exaggeration that everybody hopes Mr. Eisenhower will continue to satisfy the millions of Americans who are unwilling to make any compromises with principle and who want peace only with honor and justice.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., July 20—It is too bad that the newspapers and broadcasters feel obliged to present so much bad news — about crime, foreign complications, and even auto accidents. Every impartial statistician must be an optimist, to ferret out the facts.

IT IS TRUE that these three unfortunate things are on the increase, and churches and schools are getting the blame for it. But when crime and accidents are reduced to a per-capita basis, the figures are not so bad. Our population is growing so fast that in reality there has been a decrease in crime and accidents when adjusted to the population growth.

Just think, since Hoover was in the White House the net population of the United States has increased over 40,000,000! This is almost equivalent to the entire population of Great Britain. In other words, if, say, the total population of Great Britain had been dumped into the United States in the last 25 years, would we not expect to have even more crime and trouble than we have today?

I ADMIT that parking problems are terrible. Unless our city fathers remedy these very soon, our merchants will suffer. When their sales decrease, manufacturers cannot sell as many goods and unemployment increases. But—considering the number of automobiles, it is remarkable that we can find any place to park our cars!

Yet, should we blame the automobiles or the ignorance and shortsightedness of our municipal governments? What would any city do today without the automobile business? Close up the dealers, garages, gas stations, and repair shops, and what would we have left? A few blacksmiths would be shoeing horses and there would be dealers in hay and oats—but the life of our cities would be gone. However, we should have both the auto industry and sufficient free parking.

WE NOT ONLY have wonderful crops; but we have a billion bushels of grain in storage. In addition we have tons of eggs, butter, and other products in storage. No country in the world begins to have our blessings. This applies even to the wealth of the sea and the trees of the forests. Each week as I read a large Sunday paper I regret the acres of splendid woodland which were destroyed to give me the newspaper. Yet, I am assured that the new growth exceeds the destruction.

When I learn of the great rivers which have not yet been harnessed, of the supplies of coal and oil which will last for centuries, and of other God-given natural resources, I am both humble and thankful. And we are just now learning about the power of uranium which may be found anywhere and a pound of which may do the work of 2½ million pounds of coal. It seems wicked for any of us to complain about anything. We perhaps are wasting precious time even bothering to look at stock-market quotations or concerning ourselves about investigations. Speaking of "time," this is the only thing of which there is no surplus. Our time is the one thing which we cannot replace when it is wasted.

OF ALL our blessings, perhaps the greatest is our freedom from war — and the possibility that the World Wars may be at an end. Upon the highest military authority, I forecast that the hydrogen bomb may be a blessing in diguise. At any rate, we know that the draft calls are being reduced, and the orders for much military equipment are being canceled.

I grant that it makes some people pessimistic to read the newspapers; but the very fact that the newspapers publish no more about crime and accidents proves that the bad news is becoming proportionately less. Whenever I get pessimistic, which is very seldom, I read the history of England or of some other country. This shows that the world is getting better fast and that my job is to keep up with it. If you have any difficulty being optimistic, read each day one of the Psalms of David. There are 150 of these, so they will keep you busy for 5 months. They will be the best pills you can take.

No Loose Caboose

Seward, Neb. (AP) — When Henry Weitzel of Seward retired in 1951 after 42½ years of working for a railroad, he had time on his hands and railroad still in his system. So he acquired an 1871 railroad caboose, transplanted it to his back yard and made it into an attractive cottage. He did all the work except plumbing and wiring, and figures the job cost about $1,100.

Mid-U. S., South Plagued by Heat

(By The Associated Press)

The heat was still on, and nearly full force, over most of the mid-continent and southern areas today with not much hope of immediate relief from the season's hottest weather.

Fairly pleasant summer weather prevailed in sections of the northeast and some western states.

HOWEVER, temperatures ranging from the 90s to 100 and above were predicted again today for much of the wilted midwest. The oppressive heat has continued nearly all week in many areas. A little relief came to northern Great Lakes regions, but only for a day, as the cool front was expunged by the steady, strong flow of hot air from the Gulf.

Minneapolis, with a high of 81 on Wednesday, reported a top mark of 100 yesterday. Detroit got a whiff of the cool air and the day's high was 81 as compared to 100 on Wednesday.

It was cooler from the Ohio river valley northeastward to Maine as the cooler air from Canada moved southward to northern Virginia. At Boston, yesterday's pleasant 67 compared to a high of 93 on Wednesday, a drop of 26 degrees.

HEAVY thundershowers were reported in the northern plains last night with a fall of about 1½ inches at Sioux Falls, S. D. Light scattered showers and thundershowers also were reported in western Washington, the Rocky Mountains, Middle Atlantic States and in sections of the southeast.

Temperatures early today ranged from a high of 97 at Needles, Calif., in the desert region, to the 45 at Mullan Pass, Idaho. Other reports: New York 68 and drizzle; Chicago 79 and partly cloudy; Miami 72 and partly cloudy; Los Angeles 63 and clear; Seattle 56 and rain; Salt Lake City 70 and clear; Fort Worth 85 and partly cloudy; St. Louis 86 and partly cloudy; Detroit 69 and clear; Des Moines 81 and partly cloudy; Butte, Mont., 61 and partly cloudy; Duluth, Minn., 62 and rain.

Caught Again

St. Louis, July 29 (AP) — The last federal raid on a still in St. Louis was in 1947 and Rayfield Holland, now 53, served two years in prison for operating it. Federal agents made a raid yesterday in midtown St. Louis and whom did they arrest? Rayfield Holland. He was charged with operating and possessing an unlicensed still. He was held in the city jail in default of $1,500 bond.

Seventy per cent of the shoplifters arrested in the United States are first offenders.

Pathologist Cautions On Weedkiller Misuse

A highway crew not long ago applied a weedkiller to a roadside strip. Two days later handsome locust trees growing on laws 200 feet away turned yellow. Vapors from the weedkiller caused the injury. The leaves later browned and dropped, and the tree were left weakened.

A big beech tree's leaves began to cup and curl. Its twigs withered. The tree owner admitted using very liberal applications of weedkiller in the vicinity of the tree. The weedkiller had penetrated the soil and seeped into the tree's roots in such quantity that the beech was being poisoned.

Dr. Philip L. Rusden, pathologist of the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories, reports that weedkiller injury to trees and shrubs is on a decided increase this year. Careless use of 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T is to blame. The injury may be both to the roots and to the leaves, due to wind drift.

Not all weedkiller injury appears the same. Lower limbs of a tree are usually affected first. Leaves on elms, oaks, laurel and rhododendron cup downward. Locust and ash leaves turn a sickly yellow. Hickory and mimosa leaves become feathery and stunted. Tips of twigs become distorted, often coiled.

To avoid weedkiller injury to trees and shrubs, even garden flowers, apply it when there is little or no breeze, when the soil is moist, not sunbaked hard, and keep it far away from tree roots and tree leaves.

Americans are now buying canned meats at the rate of 1,500,000 pounds annually.

Less Water Now

Rome, July 29 (AP)—No wonder they could afford to take baths back in the days of the Caesars. Rome had more water then than now. That was what Christian Democrat Sen. Guido Corbellini today told Romans who have been protesting that the city's water supply is inadequate for this hot weather. Ancient Rome's four major and seven minor aqueducts poured 3,565 gallons of water a second into the cty. Modern Rome's water system brings in only 2,244 gallons a second.

Family Clambake

A Clambake held on Saturday, July 16, for present and future residents was a great success. Several hundred parents and children were present and all were having a good time.

Park and Recreation Area

On the occasion of the Clambake, the 23-acre park and recreation area was dedicated to the Town of Saugerties. The deed was accepted by Town Supervisor Peter Williams in the presence of the following Town officials: Assessor Theodore Carlson, Justices of the Peace Percy M. Abeel and Glenford Myers and Councilman Kenneth Snyder. Assemblyman Kenneth Wilson was also present.

Neighborhood Association

The Mt. Marion Park Association has been formed for the purpose of promoting the common interests of the residents of Mt. Marion Park.

In December, when most of the buyers will be living in Mt. Marion Park, a permanent board of officers will be elected. Until then there will be a temporary board with the following members: Ward B. Tongue, Chairman, Robert J. Bartlett, John J. Hofler, John H. Fitzpatrick and Lennart A. Anderson.

Mid-U. S., South Plagued by Heat

(By The Associated Press)

The heat was still on, and nearly full force, over most of the mid-continent and southern areas today with not much hope of immediate relief from the season's hottest weather.

Fairly pleasant summer weather prevailed in sections of the northeast and some western states.

HOWEVER, temperatures ranging from the 90s to 100 and above were predicted again today for much of the wilted midwest. The oppressive heat has continued nearly all week in many areas. A little relief came to northern Great Lakes regions, but only for a day, as the cool front was expunged by the steady, strong flow of hot air from the Gulf.

Minneapolis, with a high of 81 on Wednesday, reported a top mark of 100 yesterday. Detroit got a whiff of the cool air and the day's high was 81 as compared to 100 on Wednesday.

It was cooler from the Ohio river valley northeastward to Maine as the cooler air from Canada moved southward to northern Virginia. At Boston, yesterday's pleasant 67 compared to a high of 93 on Wednesday, a drop of 26 degrees.

HEAVY thundershowers were reported in the northern plains last night with a fall of about 1½ inches at Sioux Falls, S. D. Light scattered showers and thundershowers also were reported in western Washington, the Rocky Mountains, Middle Atlantic States and in sections of the southeast.

Temperatures early today ranged from a high of 97 at Needles, Calif., in the desert region, to the 45 at Mullan Pass, Idaho. Other reports: New York 68 and drizzle; Chicago 79 and partly cloudy; Miami 72 and partly cloudy; Los Angeles 63 and clear; Seattle 56 and rain; Salt Lake City 70 and clear; Fort Worth 85 and partly cloudy; St. Louis 86 and partly cloudy; Detroit 69 and clear; Des Moines 81 and partly cloudy; Butte, Mont., 61 and partly cloudy; Duluth, Minn., 62 and rain.

Caught Again

St. Louis, July 29 (AP) — The last federal raid on a still in St. Louis was in 1947 and Rayfield Holland, now 53, served two years in prison for operating it. Federal agents made a raid yesterday in midtown St. Louis and whom did they arrest? Rayfield Holland. He was charged with operating and possessing an unlicensed still. He was held in the city jail in default of $1,500 bond.

Seventy per cent of the shoplifters arrested in the United States are first offenders.

Pathologist Cautions On Weedkiller Misuse

A highway crew not long ago applied a weedkiller to a roadside strip. Two days later handsome locust trees growing on laws 200 feet away turned yellow. Vapors from the weedkiller caused the injury. The leaves later browned and dropped, and the tree were left weakened.

A big beech tree's leaves began to cup and curl. Its twigs withered. The tree owner admitted using very liberal applications of weedkiller in the vicinity of the tree. The weedkiller had penetrated the soil and seeped into the tree's roots in such quantity that the beech was being poisoned.

Dr. Philip L. Rusden, pathologist of the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories, reports that weedkiller injury to trees and shrubs is on a decided increase this year. Careless use of 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T is to blame. The injury may be both to the roots and to the leaves, due to wind drift.

Not all weedkiller injury appears the same. Lower limbs of a tree are usually affected first. Leaves on elms, oaks, laurel and rhododendron cup downward. Locust and ash leaves turn a sickly yellow. Hickory and mimosa leaves become feathery and stunted. Tips of twigs become distorted, often coiled.

To avoid weedkiller injury to trees and shrubs, even garden flowers, apply it when there is little or no breeze, when the soil is moist, not sunbaked hard, and keep it far away from tree roots and tree leaves.

Americans are now buying canned meats at the rate of 1,500,000 pounds annually.

Less Water Now

Rome, July 29 (AP)—No wonder they could afford to take baths back in the days of the Caesars. Rome had more water then than now. That was what Christian Democrat Sen. Guido Corbellini today told Romans who have been protesting that the city's water supply is inadequate for this hot weather. Ancient Rome's four major and seven minor aqueducts poured 3,565 gallons of water a second into the cty. Modern Rome's water system brings in only 2,244 gallons a second.

You can own a 1955 Ford, with years-ahead Thunderbird styling, exciting new Trigger-Torque power and new worth-more features, for hundreds of dollars less than any other car of such fine-car quality!

F.D.A.F.

Of all fine cars, Ford stands out as the only one with a really low price tag.

A look won't tell you Ford is priced lower. For Ford's years-ahead, long, low lines are Thunderbird-inspired. And this Thunderbird beauty is baked-on . . . in a wide choice of brilliant enamel colors.

A ride certainly doesn't betray Ford's lower price, either. Soft, foam-rubber cushions and thick carpet (on many models); plus custom-tailored fabrics are all standard at no extra cost. And Ford's wondrous Angle-Poised Ride cushions out the shock of little and big bumps alike . . . gives you more comfort over all roads.

But the greatest surprise of all is Ford's Trigger-Torque power . . . unmatched even in some cars costing hundreds more. And it's backed by Ford's unexcelled record in building over 15,000,000 V-8's.

Why not choose your '55 car from one of Ford's 16 distinctive models. You'll discover you can't get better value for your money!

THE MARQUEE

T.V. — STAGE — RADIO — RECORDS — PEOPLE

By DICK KLEINER

THE RECORD SHOP: The great Ella Fitzgerald, celebrating 20 years in show business, took time out for a little higher mathematics. Turns out that in her long career with Decca, she's racked up a total of about 25,000,000 sales. Which is a heap of records.

One of these fine days, Matt Dennis is going to be recognized as the human UNIVAC. The guy can do about anything in music—he's a talented pianist and arranger, a composer, a singer, a music publisher.

And he has all of his abilities on display in a forthcoming RCA album called "Dennis, Anyone?" The story of how this album was put together forms a saga that is the 20th Century's answer to the Iliad.

The project was set. Dennis agreed to supply 12 original compositions for the album. He had a month to write the 12 songs.

"I wasn't worried," Matt says. "I knew that if I fell short I could always go to the files. I've got a lot of unpublished songs there."

Actually, he only pulled three out of that rich store; the other nine he wrote during the month. Dennis says he works best and fastest under a deadline, and he got lyrical help from people. He concentrated mostly on the music.

"With a week to go," Matt says, "I still had five songs to do. I really got busy then. With a half-hour to go until the session started, I was putting the finishing touches on the last song."

This last song, Matt thinks, is the best one in the album. It's called "Where Do We Go From Here?" and Matt says Nat "King" Cole may record it. It's the same style as some of Matt's biggest hits — "Everything Happens to Me," "Let's Get Away From It All" and "Will You Still Be Mine?"

Dennis began as a pianist, then turned to writing songs. He started singing mostly to showcase his own numbers, and he admits it was "a big surprise" when he found he could get paid for singing, too.

Now, he's something of a rage. He has a TV program which is quite successful, his records are selling with happy speed and any time he has a nightclub engagement the people flock to hear him. He has an engaging voice, a pleasant style and a great sense of musical innovation. It's a good combination.

Matt, who knows a good talent when he's discovered it, has a strangle-hold on the royalties side of music. Consider this setup — he writes a song, gets himself to sing it, has his own firm publish it. The only thing he lacks is a record company.

"Give me time," Matt says, with a big grin.

Here, in a nutshell, is the difference between a novelty and a ballad. This is Kitty Kallen's definition: "If you say 'Lover' it's a ballad. If you say 'Baby' it's a novelty.

George Shearing does a lot of recording of his own in his home in Old Tappan, N. J. He has a built-in system which enables him to record from almost any place in the house. Doing some testing, he discovered that the most accoustically-perfect room is his kitchen.

Now he's thinking of recording the following numbers: "Drain On the Roof," "Till We Meet Again," "It's a Sin to Tell a Lie," "Home On the Range" and that old favorite, "Freeze a Jolly Good Fellow."

Motor Club Holds Gardner's Rally

Woodstock, July 29—In spite of some rain, lightning and thunder, eleven cars started the Gardner's Rally sponsored by the Woodstock Motor Club, Sunday, July 10, and ten finished to enjoy a picnic at the Trnka's Asbury Picnic Grounds near Saugerties.

The route covered scenic winding roads and all participants enjoyed the trip. The Rally results were as follows: Swayne, Anable, 15.4 points; Halzell, Clark, 22 points; Lovy, Lovy, 40 points; Mark, Mark 41.2 points; Francklings, 48.8 points; Ford, Van Dusen 71.2 points; Chant, Burger, 85.6 points; Ford, Coons, 95 points; Whitaker, Bromhall, 110.4 points; Arnold, Arnold, 144 ponits. Frank Gardner was Rally Master, assisted by Ed Gardner, Ann Gardner and Marion Gardner.

Announcement has been made that there will be no first-Sunday-of-the-month meeting during August and September. However, the Wednesday meetings will be held as usual.

The Long Island Sports Car Association has sent the Woodstock Club invitations to their Night Owl Rally on July 30, starting at 6 p. m. on Saturday and ending about 6 a. m. Sunday. Awards will be made at a Victory Breakfast at the finish line, and a fine collection of prizes will be awarded. Anyone wishing to secure an entry blank and further information may communicate with Gale Arnold, Box 677, Woodstock.

The Eastern Pennsylvania Sports Car Club is also holding a rally at 1 p. m., Saturday, July 30, starting in Hamburg, Penn. Information may also be obtained from Gale Arnold.

The "Mike & Key Club" of Kingston has offered to work check points for a future rally. The club, composed of amateur radio enthusiasts, has over thirty members with mobile units.

Al Chant of Saugerties is the newest member welcomed to the club.

A motion to buy a microphone for the public address system was made at the July 20 meeting. Frank Gardner was appointed to investigate the matter.

It was reported that the search for a possible site for a club house building was not successful. The committee presently checking property for sale reports that all goes well until the Motor Club is mentioned as the buyer. Members would like to impress upon the public the responsible status of the club, its interest in safe and good driving. The club is anxious to invest in a parcel of land and to start its building as soon as possible.

Riding Club Plans Annual Field Day

Woodstock, July 29 — The Woodstock Riding Club will hold its annual Field Day, Sunday, August 28, starting at 9 a. m. The program will consist of games and jumping in English and Western classes. The chairmen of committees for the event are as follows: George Hard, chairman of the Field Day; Mrs. George Hard, treasurer; Mrs. Virgil Van Wagonen, ring clerk; Mrs. James Dargan, chairman of trophy committee; Miss Helen Dargan, chairman of the prize committee; Charles Kinkaid of Kingston, official farrier; Lloyd Gibson, in charge of ticket booth.

The ring and games crew consist of: Charles Riley and Edward Donahue of Saugerties, Mrs. Alton Dietz of Hurley; Virgil Van Wagonen, ring steward and also in charge of the refreshment stand. The stabling of horses will be under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Donahue. George Hard will be the announcer. The marking signs for the show and their placement will be under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Gibson.

It is expected that exhibitors will come prepared to spend the night before the show at the Ohayo Mountain riding ring field. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Donahue will also be there for the night.

Mrs. Griffin Herrick is responsible for the trophies the day of the show.

Included in the program will be total of 19 classes, among them the lead line class which was so popular, the exhibitors up to and including seven years of age; the costume parade class following the noon recess; bare back jumping and a rummage race.

The next meeting of the Woodstock Riding Club will be held Thursday, Aug. 11, at 8:30 in the basement of the Dutch Reformed Church.

Pro-Amateur Tourney

Woodstock, July 29 — The Woodstock Country Club will hold its annual Pro-Amateur Tournament Thursday, August 25. Some of the outstanding golf professionals in the New England area are competing in this year's tournament, as well as most of the top amateurs. The Calcutta will be on the pros only. Following the tournament there will a free "Weinie Roast" at 6:30 p. m.

Richard Short Plans Antique Gun Exhibit

Woodstock, July 29—Richard short, well-known authority on guns and a collector, will exhibit at the forthcoming Antique Show at the Red Barn in this village on August 4, 5, 6 and 7. In past years Short has drawn a large number of gun enthusiasts to his unique booth where he may be found in earnest discussion with visitors.

Short began his large gun collection of all types at a very early age, and has been a dealer in antique guns since 1930. At the present time his specialty is Colt arms for his personal collection. He has catalogued guns for private collections and has made sales catalogues for dealers, and appraised collections for New York auction galleries, estates and individuals.

In 1949 and '50, he set up for display purposes the well-known Stagg collection of some 2,000 pieces in Harold's Club, Reno, Nevada. He has talked about guns for radio and TV programs, written magazine articles and assisted in gathering material for several gun books.

Short is a member of the following organizations: President of the New York State Arms Collectors Association; member of the Massachusetts Arms Collectors Association, The New Jersey Arms Collectors Club, the Connecticut Gun Club, the Pennsylvania Antique Gun Collectors Association, the Ohio Gun Collectors Association, Southern California Arms Collectors, the Texas Gun Collectors Association, the National Muzzle Loading Rifle Association, and the National Rifle Association.

Short is the honorary curator of arms for the Senate House Museum of Kingston, which is an appointment made by the Department of History and Education in Albany.

In his search for guns, Short has traveled the 48 States, Canada and Mexico.

In 1954 and 1955, Short was an exhibitor in the National Rifle Association's Conventions in Washington, D. C. These two years, out of 84 years of conventions, were the only ones when exhibits were held.

Village Notes

Woodstock, July 29—Mrs. Hubert Matte, of Rahway, N. J., arrived in this village Monday to visit her daughter Mrs. A. A. Champanier. Arriving with her were Mrs. Champainer's nephew, David Fitzpatrick.

Mrs. Mollie Higgins Smith sold a painting at the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen, entitled "Summer Flowers."

Miss Geraldine Jerominek celebrated her birthday with a party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Jerominek, last Tuesday afternoon.

Woodstock, July 29—Daniel Wallingford of Glasco Turnpike, who is the new director of the Woodstock Ground Observer Corps tower, atop the Woodstock School, has announced that the tower will be in operation in about a week. The hours will be for the present, 10 a. m. to 12 noon, and 12 noon to 2 p. m. He has requested that anyone interested in serving should call him at his home. He would like to remind residents that a special effort should be made to put the tower on a 24-hour basis as quickly as possible.

Woodstock, July 29 — Miss Frances Dederick of the Parnassus Square Galleries, has assembled an exhibition of 23 paintings by Woodstock artists which went on view on July 26 at the Hyde Park Playhouse, Hyde Park. The exhibition will remain at the Playhouse through August 7. Work by the following artists is included in the show: Georgiana Klitgaard, Ethel Leventhal, Pat Collins, Anna Neagoe, Peggy Dodds, Mollie Higgins Smith, Alvora deSilva, William J. Eisner, Florine Rensie, Dorothy Varian, June Atkins, Robert McKinney and Lucie Bayard.

Woodstock, July 29 — There will be a dance held by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Mt. Tobias Sportsmen's Club, Saturday, July 30 at the Bearsville Lodge Hall. Music will be provided by the Saddle Tramps. The dance will start at 8 p. m.

Woodstock, July 29 — There will be Town Board meeting, Friday, July 29, at the town clerk's office at 8 p. m.

Light for Indians

Clewiston, Fla. (AP)—Most of the Seminole Indians in the Everglades live in primitive chickees—tiny open shelters consisting only of a thatched roof mounted on four poles. But 15 Indian families on the Big Cypress reservation have wired their chickees and are receiving electricity from a rural electrification administration line running 50 miles from here to their settlement.

THE MARQUEE

By DICK KLEINER

THE RECORD SHOP: The great Ella Fitzgerald, celebrating 20 years in show business, took time out for a little higher mathematics. Turns out that in her long career with Decca, she's racked up a total of about 25,000,000 sales. Which is a heap of records.

One of these fine days, Matt Dennis is going to be recognized as the human UNIVAC. The guy can do about anything in music—he's a talented pianist and arranger, a composer, a singer, a music publisher.

And he has all of his abilities on display in a forthcoming RCA album called "Dennis, Anyone?" The story of how this album was put together forms a saga that is the 20th Century's answer to the Iliad.

The project was set. Dennis agreed to supply 12 original compositions for the album. He had a month to write the 12 songs.

"I wasn't worried," Matt says. "I knew that if I fell short I could always go to the files. I've got a lot of unpublished songs there."

Actually, he only pulled three out of that rich store; the other nine he wrote during the month. Dennis says he works best and fastest under a deadline, and he got lyrical help from people. He concentrated mostly on the music.

"With a week to go," Matt says, "I still had five songs to do. I really got busy then. With a half-hour to go until the session started, I was putting the finishing touches on the last song."

This last song, Matt thinks, is the best one in the album. It's called "Where Do We Go From Here?" and Matt says Nat "King" Cole may record it. It's the same style as some of Matt's biggest hits — "Everything Happens to Me," "Let's Get Away From It All" and "Will You Still Be Mine?"

Dennis began as a pianist, then turned to writing songs. He started singing mostly to showcase his own numbers, and he admits it was "a big surprise" when he found he could get paid for singing, too.

Now, he's something of a rage. He has a TV program which is quite successful, his records are selling with happy speed and any time he has a nightclub engagement the people flock to hear him. He has an engaging voice, a pleasant style and a great sense of musical innovation. It's a good combination.

Matt, who knows a good talent when he's discovered it, has a strangle-hold on the royalties side of music. Consider this setup — he writes a song, gets himself to sing it, has his own firm publish it. The only thing he lacks is a record company.

"Give me time," Matt says, with a big grin.

Here, in a nutshell, is the difference between a novelty and a ballad. This is Kitty Kallen's definition: "If you say 'Lover' it's a ballad. If you say 'Baby' it's a novelty.

George Shearing does a lot of recording of his own in his home in Old Tappan, N. J. He has a built-in system which enables him to record from almost any place in the house. Doing some testing, he discovered that the most accoustically-perfect room is his kitchen.

Now he's thinking of recording the following numbers: "Drain On the Roof," "Till We Meet Again," "It's a Sin to Tell a Lie," "Home On the Range" and that old favorite, "Freeze a Jolly Good Fellow."

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Motor Club Holds Gardner's Rally

Woodstock, July 29—In spite of some rain, lightning and thunder, eleven cars started the Gardner's Rally sponsored by the Woodstock Motor Club, Sunday, July 10, and ten finished to enjoy a picnic at the Trnka's Asbury Picnic Grounds near Saugerties.

The route covered scenic winding roads and all participants enjoyed the trip. The Rally results were as follows: Swayne, Anable, 15.4 points; Halzell, Clark, 22 points; Lovy, Lovy, 40 points; Mark, Mark 41.2 points; Francklings, 48.8 points; Ford, Van Dusen 71.2 points; Chant, Burger, 85.6 points; Ford, Coons, 95 points; Whitaker, Bromhall, 110.4 points; Arnold, Arnold, 144 ponits. Frank Gardner was Rally Master, assisted by Ed Gardner, Ann Gardner and Marion Gardner.

Announcement has been made that there will be no first-Sunday-of-the-month meeting during August and September. However, the Wednesday meetings will be held as usual.

The Long Island Sports Car Association has sent the Woodstock Club invitations to their Night Owl Rally on July 30, starting at 6 p. m. on Saturday and ending about 6 a. m. Sunday. Awards will be made at a Victory Breakfast at the finish line, and a fine collection of prizes will be awarded. Anyone wishing to secure an entry blank and further information may communicate with Gale Arnold, Box 677, Woodstock.

The Eastern Pennsylvania Sports Car Club is also holding a rally at 1 p. m., Saturday, July 30, starting in Hamburg, Penn. Information may also be obtained from Gale Arnold.

The "Mike & Key Club" of Kingston has offered to work check points for a future rally. The club, composed of amateur radio enthusiasts, has over thirty members with mobile units.

Al Chant of Saugerties is the newest member welcomed to the club.

A motion to buy a microphone for the public address system was made at the July 20 meeting. Frank Gardner was appointed to investigate the matter.

It was reported that the search for a possible site for a club house building was not successful. The committee presently checking property for sale reports that all goes well until the Motor Club is mentioned as the buyer. Members would like to impress upon the public the responsible status of the club, its interest in safe and good driving. The club is anxious to invest in a parcel of land and to start its building as soon as possible.

Riding Club Plans Annual Field Day

Woodstock, July 29 — The Woodstock Riding Club will hold its annual Field Day, Sunday, August 28, starting at 9 a. m. The program will consist of games and jumping in English and Western classes. The chairmen of committees for the event are as follows: George Hard, chairman of the Field Day; Mrs. George Hard, treasurer; Mrs. Virgil Van Wagonen, ring clerk; Mrs. James Dargan, chairman of trophy committee; Miss Helen Dargan, chairman of the prize committee; Charles Kinkaid of Kingston, official farrier; Lloyd Gibson, in charge of ticket booth.

The ring and games crew consist of: Charles Riley and Edward Donahue of Saugerties, Mrs. Alton Dietz of Hurley; Virgil Van Wagonen, ring steward and also in charge of the refreshment stand. The stabling of horses will be under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Donahue. George Hard will be the announcer. The marking signs for the show and their placement will be under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Gibson.

It is expected that exhibitors will come prepared to spend the night before the show at the Ohayo Mountain riding ring field. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Donahue will also be there for the night.

Mrs. Griffin Herrick is responsible for the trophies the day of the show.

Included in the program will be total of 19 classes, among them the lead line class which was so popular, the exhibitors up to and including seven years of age; the costume parade class following the noon recess; bare back jumping and a rummage race.

The next meeting of the Woodstock Riding Club will be held Thursday, Aug. 11, at 8:30 in the basement of the Dutch Reformed Church.

Pro-Amateur Tourney

Woodstock, July 29 — The Woodstock Country Club will hold its annual Pro-Amateur Tournament Thursday, August 25. Some of the outstanding golf professionals in the New England area are competing in this year's tournament, as well as most of the top amateurs. The Calcutta will be on the pros only. Following the tournament there will a free "Weinie Roast" at 6:30 p. m.

Richard Short Plans Antique Gun Exhibit

Woodstock, July 29—Richard short, well-known authority on guns and a collector, will exhibit at the forthcoming Antique Show at the Red Barn in this village on August 4, 5, 6 and 7. In past years Short has drawn a large number of gun enthusiasts to his unique booth where he may be found in earnest discussion with visitors.

Short began his large gun collection of all types at a very early age, and has been a dealer in antique guns since 1930. At the present time his specialty is Colt arms for his personal collection. He has catalogued guns for private collections and has made sales catalogues for dealers, and appraised collections for New York auction galleries, estates and individuals.

In 1949 and '50, he set up for display purposes the well-known Stagg collection of some 2,000 pieces in Harold's Club, Reno, Nevada. He has talked about guns for radio and TV programs, written magazine articles and assisted in gathering material for several gun books.

Short is a member of the following organizations: President of the New York State Arms Collectors Association; member of the Massachusetts Arms Collectors Association, The New Jersey Arms Collectors Club, the Connecticut Gun Club, the Pennsylvania Antique Gun Collectors Association, the Ohio Gun Collectors Association, Southern California Arms Collectors, the Texas Gun Collectors Association, the National Muzzle Loading Rifle Association, and the National Rifle Association.

Short is the honorary curator of arms for the Senate House Museum of Kingston, which is an appointment made by the Department of History and Education in Albany.

In his search for guns, Short has traveled the 48 States, Canada and Mexico.

In 1954 and 1955, Short was an exhibitor in the National Rifle Association's Conventions in Washington, D. C. These two years, out of 84 years of conventions, were the only ones when exhibits were held.

Village Notes

Woodstock, July 29—Mrs. Hubert Matte, of Rahway, N. J., arrived in this village Monday to visit her daughter Mrs. A. A. Champanier. Arriving with her were Mrs. Champainer's nephew, David Fitzpatrick.

Mrs. Mollie Higgins Smith sold a painting at the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen, entitled "Summer Flowers."

Miss Geraldine Jerominek celebrated her birthday with a party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Jerominek, last Tuesday afternoon.

Woodstock, July 29—Daniel Wallingford of Glasco Turnpike, who is the new director of the Woodstock Ground Observer Corps tower, atop the Woodstock School, has announced that the tower will be in operation in about a week. The hours will be for the present, 10 a. m. to 12 noon, and 12 noon to 2 p. m. He has requested that anyone interested in serving should call him at his home. He would like to remind residents that a special effort should be made to put the tower on a 24-hour basis as quickly as possible.

Woodstock, July 29 — Miss Frances Dederick of the Parnassus Square Galleries, has assembled an exhibition of 23 paintings by Woodstock artists which went on view on July 26 at the Hyde Park Playhouse, Hyde Park. The exhibition will remain at the Playhouse through August 7. Work by the following artists is included in the show: Georgiana Klitgaard, Ethel Leventhal, Pat Collins, Anna Neagoe, Peggy Dodds, Mollie Higgins Smith, Alvora deSilva, William J. Eisner, Florine Rensie, Dorothy Varian, June Atkins, Robert McKinney and Lucie Bayard.

Woodstock, July 29 — There will be a dance held by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Mt. Tobias Sportsmen's Club, Saturday, July 30 at the Bearsville Lodge Hall. Music will be provided by the Saddle Tramps. The dance will start at 8 p. m.

Woodstock, July 29 — There will be Town Board meeting, Friday, July 29, at the town clerk's office at 8 p. m.

Light for Indians

Clewiston, Fla. (AP)—Most of the Seminole Indians in the Everglades live in primitive chickees—tiny open shelters consisting only of a thatched roof mounted on four poles. But 15 Indian families on the Big Cypress reservation have wired their chickees and are receiving electricity from a rural electrification administration line running 50 miles from here to their settlement.

Electronic Check

Richmond, Va. (AP) — An electronic weighing device is being tested by the Virginia Highway Department and Bureau of Public Roads. It will make it unnecessary for trucks with legal limits to pull off the highway for weighing. But when an overloaded truck crosses the device a red light is flashed at the weighing station and the offending truck will be weighed on regular highway scales.

Film Studios Criticized For Not Developing Talent

Hollywood, July 29 (AP)—A top talent finder today lashed out at film studios for failing to develop new stars.

Citing the clamor of theatre men for new faces, Agent Henry Willson declared: "It is becoming more and more difficult to develop new personalities for movies. In the old days, a studio might hire 20 kids on the chance that one might be a Lana Turner. Nowadays they won't take that chance.

"THE STUDIOS seem to have a policy of perpetuating the present stars without establishing new ones. For instance, Warners is making an air picture. I thought this might be a chance for some nemcomers. But they cast a couple of young actors named Clark Gable and Gregory Peck.

"Columbia is making a war picture 'Battle Stations.' You'd think there would be a chance for young actors in it. But the leads went to players in the 35-40 age class. The only roles for 20-year-olds were 30-second bits.

"WE USED to develop stars after finding them behind soda fountains. That seldom happens any more. In recent years, about the only top star developed with no previous experience is Rock Hudson."

As you might guess, Hudson is a Willson client. Before the agent discovered him, he was a truck driver named Roy Fitzgerald. Redubbed Rock, he was added to the long list of Willson discoveries.

He first spotted Joan Fontaine in a Hollywood tea room, Robert Wagner in a Beverly Hills restaurant. He signed up Rory Calhoun after meeting him at an Alan Ladd party and picked Marie Wilson out of the cast of a Beverly Hills little theatre.

AS TALENT scout for David Selznick, he was sent to a Janet Gaynor radio broadcast to view a girl soprano. He was impressed with the singer, as well as a sailor named Robert Moseley in the audience. Selznick signed the sailor, who became Guy Madison, but passed up the girl, Suzanne Burce. She signed at MGM as Jane Powell.

Backstage at the Icecapades, Willson saw a lad named Art Golien, who wanted to be an ice skater. Instead, he became a film star as Tab Hunter.

Willson can claim an assist on Lana Turner, who was referred to him by publisher Billy Wilkerson, and Sheree North, sent by another agent.

WILLSON'S talent for pegging hopefuls has caused him to be inundated by film aspirants. He has had 8,500 applicants in the past year. His advice to nearly all of them: Stay in your home town and try to get experience; if you're good, Hollywood will discover you.

What does he look for?

"Popular types," he said. "Most film stars are the kind of people that you like to know. You'll find that most of them have won popularity contests or have been outstanding in some way."

After the discovery comes the process of selling the young talent to the studios and the public, which is now increasingly difficult. There are all kinds of buildups, but Willson favors the twosome.

"You can get attention by associating your newcomer with an established and glamorous personality," he explained. "For instance, I managed to have Guy Madison take Judy Garland to the premiere of 'Since You Went Away.' She was between husbands at the time. Also, he took Shirley Temple to the Academy Awards. I knew they'd be well photographed.

"I worked the same buildup with Rory and Lana Turner, Rock and Vera-Ellen."

The fascinating city of New Orleans has belonged to the French, Spanish, United States, and Confederate governments.

Electronic Check

Richmond, Va. (AP) — An electronic weighing device is being tested by the Virginia Highway Department and Bureau of Public Roads. It will make it unnecessary for trucks with legal limits to pull off the highway for weighing. But when an overloaded truck crosses the device a red light is flashed at the weighing station and the offending truck will be weighed on regular highway scales.

Man Arrested For Delaying Bus

A man who attempted to prevent a bus from leaving the terminal of the Adirondack Transit Lines, Inc., Broadway and Pine Grove avenue, last night was arrested on a public intoxication charge.

Eugene Marhoun, 57, of 610 Concord avenue, Bronx, was arrested by Special Officer Carlo Perry, after complaints that he had placed his baggage and himself in front of a bus apparently to prevent it from moving away from the terminal unless he was aboard.

Officers William Snyder and Joseph Keller were dispatched to the terminal after police headquarters was notified at 8:03 p. m.

Marhoun forfeited $10 bail through failure to appear before Special City Judge Harry Gold today.

Appeal Is Made For Early Hour Skywatchers Here

Mrs. Dewey Logan, supervisor of the Kingston Observation Post, has issued an urgent appeal for skywatchers for the 2 to 4 and 4 to 6 a. m. shifts. Volunteers for these two shifts are vital to operation of the post on a 24 hour basis.

Mrs. Logan said today the need was most urgent due to men who have been working that shift taking night shift jobs which make it impossible for them to continue to serve as watchers during the night hours.

Any skywatchers who have been on leave of absence or who have been temporarily on leave are asked to contact Mrs. Logan at 7913 or 1544 and volunteer for duty.

There are also vacancies for women during the day-time hours but the urgent need now is for men on the two early morning shifts.

Got Into Movie Free

Buffalo, N. Y., July 29 (AP)—Police acted quickly last night when they received a report that an automobile had been seen driving away with a woman locked in the trunk. Provided with the license number, they traced the auto to a drive-in theatre and reported tersely: "Somebody got into the movie free."

Fire Company Dance

The regular monthly dance of the Sawkill Fire Company will be held tonight at the fire house. Music for dancing from 9 to 1 a. m. will be supplied by the Hilltoppers. Refreshments will be served.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express sincere appreciation and gratitude to all our relatives, neighbors and friends who were so kind at the time of the death of Thomas Costello of Port Ewen.

Signed,
THE COSTELLO FAMILY.

Memoriam

In sad and loving remembrance of our darling daughter, Marlene Rose Tiano, who passed away nine (9) years ago today, July 29, 1946.

A smile, a tear, a thought sincere,
How often I wish that you were here.
You always made my life worth while,
with kindly words and a cheerful smile.
When no one else could understand.
God only knows how much we miss you,
As we travel alone on life's way
we will never forget this day.

Interment in Lomontville Cemetery.

Stanley F. Hoornbeek

Stanley F. Hoornbeek, 64, for the major part of his life prominent in the affairs of Arkville, died Wednesday noon at Benedictine Hospital after a lingering illness. His funeral will be held at the Arkville Methodist Church on Saturday, July 30, at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Margaretville Cemetery. The Rev. Eugene Crabb will officiate at the ceremony. Mr. Hoornbeek was the son of the late Frank Hoornbeek of Arkville and Emily Crawford. He was born March 4, 1891 and had been a surveyor and real estate broker for many years. During the last ten years he had been an expert witness in the condemnation of property in this valley. He was a member of the Arkville Methodist Church and of the Halcottville Grange. He is survived by his wife, Nora of Arkville and a son George of 7B Millers Lane.

Sarah Bennett

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah Bennett was held yesterday at 9 a. m. from the Henry J. Bruck Funeral Home, 27 Smith avenue; thence to St. Joseph's Church where a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of her soul by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Stephen P. Connelly, PR, at 9:30 a. m. Responses to the Mass were sung by the children's choir assisted at the organ by Mrs. Frank Rafferty. While the body reposed in the funeral home many relatives and friends called and numerous floral pieces and spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards were received. On Wednesday at 8 p. m., the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Connelly and the Rev. Alfred P. Glancy called and led those assembled in the recitation of the Holy Rosary. The Rev. George Moore also called and said the prayers for the dead. The burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery where the Rev. Father Glancy gave the final blessing.

Salvatore Strano

The funeral of Salvatore Strano was held from the Frank H. Simpson Funeral Home, 411 Albany avenue, on Thursday at 9:15 a. m., and thence to the Presentation Church in Port Ewen where at 10 a. m., a solemn high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul. Officiating at the Mass were the Rev. James Cannon, CSsR, as celebrant, the Rev. Gerard Prevost, CSsR, deacon and the Rev. Andrew Carr, CSsR, as subdeacon. The Rev. Joseph J. Kerins, CSsR, pastor, was seated within the chancel. Responses to the Mass were sung by Mrs. James Sweeney, assisted at the organ by James Sweeney. During the time the body reposed at the funeral home many relatives, friends and business associates of the family called to pay their respects. There were many floral tributes and spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards. On Tuesday evening the Rev. James Cannon, CSsR, a close family friend called at the funeral home to offer prayers and on Wednesday afternoon the Rev. Father Geis of St. Peter's Church called. A delegation of men from the Church of the Presentation parish called on Wednesday evening and together with the assembled relatives and friends assisted the Rev. Joseph Kerins, CSsR, in the recitation of the Rosary. Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery where the Rev. Father Cannon, assisted by the Rev. Father Kerins pronounced the final blessing. Bearers were James and John Pulverenti, nephews of deceased, Francis Longto and Joseph Costello.

Burglary Reported

A burglary at Ferraro's Bowlodrome, Cornell street, was reported to the police early today. The building was entered, apparently by youngsters police said. A cigarette machine was broken into and about $2 in change taken. Detectives Clarence Brophy and Frank Sammons are investigating.

Automobile Fire

Firemen were called at 9:14 p. m., yesterday to check a fire in the automobile of Gus Albrecht, of Hunter street, on Hone street. Gas poured into the carburetor had ignited. A call at 12:12 p. m., today was for a grass fire off Pine Grove avenue to the rear of the West Shore railroad freight house.

224 Beginners In YMCA Swim

Since July 6 the YMCA here in Kingston has been conducting boys and girls swimming classes under the instructions of Frank Rebello who is the Boy's Secretary at the "Y" and who is also an authorized Red Cross instructor here in Ulster county.

To those who wish to know what part the "Y" is taking in the swimming class program here in Kingston these are the latest statistics according to the instructor's charts. He has enrolled approximately 180 girls and 44 boys all beginners and predicts most all will be able to swim by fall if they keep up the good work they have been doing thus far. This figure given is just part of the number given since there are many attending the "Y" Day Camp who receive instructions by Lou Schafer and Bill Irland.

The parents of these children can be well assured with these determined men at the "Y", who are instructing their child, are in the best of hands and are receiving the best of instructions.

Husband Is Held In Wife's Shooting

Clifton, N. J., July 29 (AP)—A hail of bullets early today killed a pretty blonde housewife as she fled her home in a dressing gown minutes after her husband found another man in their fashionable home.

Belmar police apprehended the husband, James Cerce, 52, several hours later in his summer apartment at the shore resort. Cerce, a witness before the Kefauver Senate Crime Committee, faces sentencing in two weeks for income tax evasion.

The body of Mrs. Roberta Cerce, about 45, who police said had been married four times, including twice to Cerce, was found sprawled at the foot of her back porch in a quiet neighborhood at 1 Grant avenue. She had one bullet in her throat and another under her right ear.

Held in $50,000 bail as a material witness in the slaying was Mario Moreschi, 39, a bartender of New York city who police say fled the Cerce apartment in the nude after being struck by Cerce.

Killed Riding Bicycle

Rochester, N. Y., July 29 (AP)—An eight-year-old-boy, Raymond Sherman, was killed yesterday when police said he crashed into the side of a gasoline truck while riding his bicycle in suburban East Rochester. Police said the boy was riding on the sidewalk and the truck was turning into a gas station adjacent to his home when the accident happened. They said the victim came here eleven days ago from Bennington, Vt., and had been living with foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Jones.

Job Offered Hoover

New York, July 29 (AP)—City hall announced today that J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, has been offered the post of New York city police commissioner. William R. Peer, executive secretary to Mayor Robert F. Wagner, said the mayor had been in touch with a close personal friend of Hoover early this week with the proposal. Peer said Hoover is on the west coast, and that the mayor expects to hear from him some time today.

Injuries Fatal to Girl

Monticello, N. Y., July 29 (AP)—Eight-year-old Margaret Knowlden of Lisle, N. Y., died in a hospital yesterday of injuries suffered Wednesday in an automobile accident. The little girl was riding in a car driven by her father, Eugene, when it collided headon with another car on Route 17 near here.

Jet Explodes

Wittering, England, July 29 (AP)—Britain today lost her first Royal Air Force Vickerts Valiant, the four-jet bomber that will carry her H-bomb. One of the big planes crashed with a terrific explosion and burned three minutes after taking off from Wittering Airport. All four crewmen were killed.

Against Special Patrol

San Francisco, July 29 (AP)—Acting Police Chief George Healey has moved to abolish the historic Chinatown police squad which dates back 70 years to the days of tong wars and slave girls. Healey recommended dissolving the 15-man special plainclothes unit and patrolling Chinatown's narrow alleyways with regular uniformed policemen. Healey said the people of Chinatown "are Americans of Chinese ancestry and should be treated as Americans. They do not need special patrolling."

Banker Gets Bail

San Diego, Calif., July 29 (AP)—Banker Roscoe D. Coon is free on $25,000 bail today pending preliminary hearing Aug. 19 on a federal embezzlement charge. Coon, 46, vice president and cashier of the Joshua Monument National Bank of Twentynine Palms, was arrested at Del Mar race track Monday after an audit disclosed a $687,000 shortage in the bank's books. The bank was closed the same day.

122 in N. Africa

Tunis, Tunisia, July 29 (AP)—That scorching Sahara wind the Sirocco — fired up temperatures in Tunisia today rare even for North Africa. A peak of 122 degrees was registered at Ghardimaou, a railway village of 1,400 inhabitants in the north near the Algerian frontier. In Tunis water consumption reached a near record volume as Europeans and Tunisians alike tried to fight off a humid 113 degrees.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 29 (AP)—The stock market made a little headway today in the midst of a lot of irregularity.

In the early afternoon, prices moved rather narrowly within a range of around a point either way. A few individual issues, of course, were outside that limit.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange. Trading was light.

Legal . . .

sible to make it less of a hardship on any one juror.

He had two piles of forms on his desk—replies to recent questionnaires. One pile was marked "Exempt," the other pile "OK." The two piles contained about the same number of forms.

There are many reasons for exempting a person from jury duty. One of the most important is physical. Persons in certain vocations are also exempt.

Briefly, to be qualified as a juror a person must be between the ages of 21 and 70 and worth $250 real or personal property. This property can belong to the person or to the person's wife or husband.

Commissioner Ashby explained that a juror was only permitted to serve one month every two years.

He would be delighted to hear from anyone who wants to join the "panel" of 3,000. His office is in the Ulster county court house. Interested persons are invited to write or telephone 1012.

A juror receives $5 a day while serving and, if he lives outside the city of Kingston, receives eight cents a mile for travel.

strides . . . than in any earlier half year."

Domestic production of uranium ore and its concentrates "reached record levels—making the United States one of the world's leading uranium producers."

Current experiments justify "a certain measure of optimism, not possible a few years ago, on the possibility of protection against and recovery from radiation" although "vital problems . . . are still unsolved."

"POTENTIALLY large deposits of uranium ore" have been found outside the Colorado plateau, presently the major domestic source of uranium.

Production of "special nuclear materials"—which would cover that for weapons or for reactors —"exceeded that during the previous six months, and attained new high levels."

Thanks to "improved controls and procedures," radioactive fallout from this year's Nevada tests outside the test area was less than from the 1953 tests, with the levels "well below those which could impair the health of human beings or animals or cause damage to crops."

Israeli . . .

cation of an unarmed civilian plane of the Constellation type was not difficult. The note charged the Bulgarian gunners with "wanton disregard of human life and the elementary obligations of humanity."

Israel demanded that its inquiry mission be admitted without delay and given full facilities. Israel also asked Sofia to permit transfer of the bodies of those killed in the crash to Tel Aviv so relatives could make burial arrangements.

IN WASHINGTON, State Department Press Officer Henry Suydam said yesterday the United States would file a protest to Bulgaria "in appropriate terms" as soon as full information on the incident was available.

The British Foreign Office announced in London that Bulgaria had agreed to let a British vice consul make an on-the-spot inquiry into the crash, in which four Britons died. A spokesman said Britain would await the consul's report before taking any further action. There was speculation London would join in the formal protests.

start of its efforts to agree on findings. Several members said they hoped to start the job next week.

Talbott has defended generally his connection with the firm, but he acknowledged in testimony before the group that he was "mistaken" in some actions, including his use of air force stationery for letters dealing with the company's business.

He also announced he was giving up the partnership, which had paid him more than $132,000 from its profits in his 2½ years in the Pentagon.

Sen. Ervin (D.-N.C.), a member of the investigations group, told a reporter he considers those two facts "must be considered" in reporting findings. In reply to a question, Ervin said he doubts the findings could be affected much by a resignation from Talbott.

true Republican is one who best represents those principles for which the party stands and is not running for election just because he is a Republican.

The President began his talk by asking members of the cabinet to stand. He then told the Republican legislators that those officials represent the executive team he has been working with and they are "a fine team."

He then praised his party leaders in Congress for the work they did in the 83rd and 84th Congresses and said in many ways he is prouder of the work of the Republican organization in this session than in the last.

Man Arrested For Delaying Bus

A man who attempted to prevent a bus from leaving the terminal of the Adirondack Transit Lines, Inc., Broadway and Pine Grove avenue, last night was arrested on a public intoxication charge.

Eugene Marhoun, 57, of 610 Concord avenue, Bronx, was arrested by Special Officer Carlo Perry, after complaints that he had placed his baggage and himself in front of a bus apparently to prevent it from moving away from the terminal unless he was aboard.

Officers William Snyder and Joseph Keller were dispatched to the terminal after police headquarters was notified at 8:03 p. m.

Appeal Is Made For Early Hour Skywatchers Here

Mrs. Dewey Logan, supervisor of the Kingston Observation Post, has issued an urgent appeal for skywatchers for the 2 to 4 and 4 to 6 a. m. shifts. Volunteers for these two shifts are vital to operation of the post on a 24 hour basis.

Mrs. Logan said today the need was most urgent due to men who have been working that shift taking night shift jobs which make it impossible for them to continue to serve as watchers during the night hours.

Any skywatchers who have been on leave of absence or who have been temporarily on leave are asked to contact Mrs. Logan at 7913 or 1544 and volunteer for duty.

There are also vacancies for women during the day-time hours but the urgent need now is for men on the two early morning shifts.

Got Into Movie Free

Buffalo, N. Y., July 29 (AP)—Police acted quickly last night when they received a report that an automobile had been seen driving away with a woman locked in the trunk. Provided with the license number, they traced the auto to a drive-in theatre and reported tersely: "Somebody got into the movie free."

Memoriam

In sad and loving remembrance of our darling daughter, Marlene Rose Tiano, who passed away nine (9) years ago today, July 29, 1946.

A smile, a tear, a thought sincere,
How often I wish that you were here.
You always made my life worth while,
with kindly words and a cheerful smile.
When no one else could understand.
God only knows how much we miss you,
As we travel alone on life's way
we will never forget this day.

His funeral will be held at the Arkville Methodist Church on Saturday, July 30, at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Margaretville Cemetery. The Rev. Eugene Crabb will officiate at the ceremony. Mr. Hoornbeek was the son of the late Frank Hoornbeek of Arkville and Emily Crawford. He was born March 4, 1891 and had been a surveyor and real estate broker for many years. During the last ten years he had been an expert witness in the condemnation of property in this valley. He was a member of the Arkville Methodist Church and of the Halcottville Grange. He is survived by his wife, Nora of Arkville and a son George of 7B Millers Lane.

Sarah Bennett

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah Bennett was held yesterday at 9 a. m. from the Henry J. Bruck Funeral Home, 27 Smith avenue; thence to St. Joseph's Church where a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of her soul by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Stephen P. Connelly, PR, at 9:30 a. m. Responses to the Mass were sung by the children's choir assisted at the organ by Mrs. Frank Rafferty. While the body reposed in the funeral home many relatives and friends called and numerous floral pieces and spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards were received. On Wednesday at 8 p. m., the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Connelly and the Rev. Alfred P. Glancy called and led those assembled in the recitation of the Holy Rosary. The Rev. George Moore also called and said the prayers for the dead. The burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery where the Rev. Father Glancy gave the final blessing.

Salvatore Strano

The funeral of Salvatore Strano was held from the Frank H. Simpson Funeral Home, 411 Albany avenue, on Thursday at 9:15 a. m., and thence to the Presentation Church in Port Ewen where at 10 a. m., a solemn high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul. Officiating at the Mass were the Rev. James Cannon, CSsR, as celebrant, the Rev. Gerard Prevost, CSsR, deacon and the Rev. Andrew Carr, CSsR, as subdeacon. The Rev. Joseph J. Kerins, CSsR, pastor, was seated within the chancel. Responses to the Mass were sung by Mrs. James Sweeney, assisted at the organ by James Sweeney. During the time the body reposed at the funeral home many relatives, friends and business associates of the family called to pay their respects. There were many floral tributes and spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards. On Tuesday evening the Rev. James Cannon, CSsR, a close family friend called at the funeral home to offer prayers and on Wednesday afternoon the Rev. Father Geis of St. Peter's Church called. A delegation of men from the Church of the Presentation parish called on Wednesday evening and together with the assembled relatives and friends assisted the Rev. Joseph Kerins, CSsR, in the recitation of the Rosary. Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery where the Rev. Father Cannon, assisted by the Rev. Father Kerins pronounced the final blessing. Bearers were James and John Pulverenti, nephews of deceased, Francis Longto and Joseph Costello.

Burglary Reported

A burglary at Ferraro's Bowlodrome, Cornell street, was reported to the police early today. The building was entered, apparently by youngsters police said. A cigarette machine was broken into and about $2 in change taken. Detectives Clarence Brophy and Frank Sammons are investigating.

Automobile Fire

Firemen were called at 9:14 p. m., yesterday to check a fire in the automobile of Gus Albrecht, of Hunter street, on Hone street. Gas poured into the carburetor had ignited. A call at 12:12 p. m., today was for a grass fire off Pine Grove avenue to the rear of the West Shore railroad freight house.

224 Beginners In YMCA Swim

Since July 6 the YMCA here in Kingston has been conducting boys and girls swimming classes under the instructions of Frank Rebello who is the Boy's Secretary at the "Y" and who is also an authorized Red Cross instructor here in Ulster county.

To those who wish to know what part the "Y" is taking in the swimming class program here in Kingston these are the latest statistics according to the instructor's charts. He has enrolled approximately 180 girls and 44 boys all beginners and predicts most all will be able to swim by fall if they keep up the good work they have been doing thus far. This figure given is just part of the number given since there are many attending the "Y" Day Camp who receive instructions by Lou Schafer and Bill Irland.

The parents of these children can be well assured with these determined men at the "Y", who are instructing their child, are in the best of hands and are receiving the best of instructions.

Husband Is Held In Wife's Shooting

Clifton, N. J., July 29 (AP)—A hail of bullets early today killed a pretty blonde housewife as she fled her home in a dressing gown minutes after her husband found another man in their fashionable home.

Belmar police apprehended the husband, James Cerce, 52, several hours later in his summer apartment at the shore resort. Cerce, a witness before the Kefauver Senate Crime Committee, faces sentencing in two weeks for income tax evasion.

The body of Mrs. Roberta Cerce, about 45, who police said had been married four times, including twice to Cerce, was found sprawled at the foot of her back porch in a quiet neighborhood at 1 Grant avenue. She had one bullet in her throat and another under her right ear.

Held in $50,000 bail as a material witness in the slaying was Mario Moreschi, 39, a bartender of New York city who police say fled the Cerce apartment in the nude after being struck by Cerce.

Killed Riding Bicycle

Rochester, N. Y., July 29 (AP)—An eight-year-old-boy, Raymond Sherman, was killed yesterday when police said he crashed into the side of a gasoline truck while riding his bicycle in suburban East Rochester. Police said the boy was riding on the sidewalk and the truck was turning into a gas station adjacent to his home when the accident happened. They said the victim came here eleven days ago from Bennington, Vt., and had been living with foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Jones.

Job Offered Hoover

New York, July 29 (AP)—City hall announced today that J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, has been offered the post of New York city police commissioner. William R. Peer, executive secretary to Mayor Robert F. Wagner, said the mayor had been in touch with a close personal friend of Hoover early this week with the proposal. Peer said Hoover is on the west coast, and that the mayor expects to hear from him some time today.

Injuries Fatal to Girl

Monticello, N. Y., July 29 (AP)—Eight-year-old Margaret Knowlden of Lisle, N. Y., died in a hospital yesterday of injuries suffered Wednesday in an automobile accident. The little girl was riding in a car driven by her father, Eugene, when it collided headon with another car on Route 17 near here.

Jet Explodes

Wittering, England, July 29 (AP)—Britain today lost her first Royal Air Force Vickerts Valiant, the four-jet bomber that will carry her H-bomb. One of the big planes crashed with a terrific explosion and burned three minutes after taking off from Wittering Airport. All four crewmen were killed.

Against Special Patrol

San Francisco, July 29 (AP)—Acting Police Chief George Healey has moved to abolish the historic Chinatown police squad which dates back 70 years to the days of tong wars and slave girls. Healey recommended dissolving the 15-man special plainclothes unit and patrolling Chinatown's narrow alleyways with regular uniformed policemen. Healey said the people of Chinatown "are Americans of Chinese ancestry and should be treated as Americans. They do not need special patrolling."

Banker Gets Bail

San Diego, Calif., July 29 (AP)—Banker Roscoe D. Coon is free on $25,000 bail today pending preliminary hearing Aug. 19 on a federal embezzlement charge. Coon, 46, vice president and cashier of the Joshua Monument National Bank of Twentynine Palms, was arrested at Del Mar race track Monday after an audit disclosed a $687,000 shortage in the bank's books. The bank was closed the same day.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 29 (AP)—The stock market made a little headway today in the midst of a lot of irregularity.

In the early afternoon, prices moved rather narrowly within a range of around a point either way. A few individual issues, of course, were outside that limit.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange. Trading was light.

The bond market was quietly lower. U. S. Government bonds were slack.

sible to make it less of a hardship on any one juror.

He had two piles of forms on his desk—replies to recent questionnaires. One pile was marked "Exempt," the other pile "OK." The two piles contained about the same number of forms.

There are many reasons for exempting a person from jury duty. One of the most important is physical. Persons in certain vocations are also exempt.

Briefly, to be qualified as a juror a person must be between the ages of 21 and 70 and worth $250 real or personal property. This property can belong to the person or to the person's wife or husband.

Commissioner Ashby explained that a juror was only permitted to serve one month every two years.

He would be delighted to hear from anyone who wants to join the "panel" of 3,000. His office is in the Ulster county court house. Interested persons are invited to write or telephone 1012.

A juror receives $5 a day while serving and, if he lives outside the city of Kingston, receives eight cents a mile for travel.

Domestic production of uranium ore and its concentrates "reached record levels—making the United States one of the world's leading uranium producers."

Current experiments justify "a certain measure of optimism, not possible a few years ago, on the possibility of protection against and recovery from radiation" although "vital problems . . . are still unsolved."

"POTENTIALLY large deposits of uranium ore" have been found outside the Colorado plateau, presently the major domestic source of uranium.

Production of "special nuclear materials"—which would cover that for weapons or for reactors—"exceeded that during the previous six months, and attained new high levels."

Thanks to "improved controls and procedures," radioactive fallout from this year's Nevada tests outside the test area was less than from the 1953 tests, with the levels "well below those which could impair the health of human beings or animals or cause damage to crops."

Israel demanded that its inquiry mission be admitted without delay and given full facilities. Israel also asked Sofia to permit transfer of the bodies of those killed in the crash to Tel Aviv so relatives could make burial arrangements.

IN WASHINGTON, State Department Press Officer Henry Suydam said yesterday the United States would file a protest to Bulgaria "in appropriate terms" as soon as full information on the incident was available.

The British Foreign Office announced in London that Bulgaria had agreed to let a British vice consul make an on-the-spot inquiry into the crash, in which four Britons died. A spokesman said Britain would await the consul's report before taking any further action. There was speculation London would join in the formal protests.

Talbott has defended generally his connection with the firm, but he acknowledged in testimony before the group that he was "mistaken" in some actions, including his use of air force stationery for letters dealing with the company's business.

He also announced he was giving up the partnership, which had paid him more than $132,000 from its profits in his 2½ years in the Pentagon.

Sen. Ervin (D.-N.C.), a member of the investigations group, told a reporter he considers those two facts "must be considered" in reporting findings. In reply to a question, Ervin said he doubts the findings could be affected much by a resignation from Talbott.

true Republican is one who best represents those principles for which the party stands and is not running for election just because he is a Republican.

The President began his talk by asking members of the cabinet to stand. He then told the Republican legislators that those officials represent the executive team he has been working with and they are "a fine team."

He then praised his party leaders in Congress for the work they did in the 83rd and 84th Congresses and said in many ways he is prouder of the work of the Republican organization in this session than in the last.

Red Delegation Sees Farms In U. S. Operate Efficiently

By TOM WHITNEY

Des Moines, July 29 (AP)—If Petr Svechnikov's big Soviet collective farm were to be cut up into small Iowa-type farms and farmed with Iowa efficiency it could be operated with less than one eighth of the people it takes to work it now.

This is one of the lessons of the Soviet farm delegation's trip here which stands out like a sore thumb.

If Petr Babmindra's giant state farm were to be broken up into small Iowa-type family farms and farmed with Iowa efficiency it could be worked by no more than one quarter of the people who work it now.

OF COURSE, as the Sovict farm delegation chief here Vladimir Matskevich has made abundantly clear there is not going to be any breaking up of Soviet giant collective and state farms into small family-type farms. The Russians, Matskevich has explained in public statements, are going to stick to their socialist farming system.

That shouldn't be so very surprising. After all anyone who thought that the Soviet farm chiefs' visit to Iowa might change their mind about communism was nursing serious illusions.

Yet the figures are plain enough.

DELEGATION member Petr Svechnikov runs one of the more efficient collective farms of the USSR. It is called the "Kuban" Collective Farm and it is devoted in considerable part to the raising of wheat.

Here are the statistics: The "Kuban" farm has 35,000 total acres; it has on it 1,700 families who belong to the farm and furnish a total of 2,700 farm workers.

In other words on the "Kuban" farm each Soviet family in effect "farms" about 21 acres on the average.

IN IOWA, on the other hand, as the Soviet delegation has seen, a typical farmer is likely to be farming 160 acres without outside help and without the women doing work in the fields either.

The contrast becomes even more devastating when it is taken into consideration that: 1 On the "Kuban" farm none of the mechanized work on the farm is done by the members of the farm. It is all performed by a machinery and tractor station which must be paid for its services. 2. On the "Kuban" farm as on all Soviet collective farms women are expected to do field work alongside men.

Or let's take Petr Babmindra's fine "gigant" state farm. Babmindra is also a delegation member. The statistics on it paint a similar though less lopsided story.

THE "GIGANT" has 115,000 acres approximately and 2,700 staff workers (with another 900 hired during harvest.)

Thus each full time worker on the "gigant" farm farms on the average about 42 acres.

In Iowa, on the other hand, as the Soviet delegation has seen one full time worker is likely to be farming no less than 160 acres.

And, it must be remembered, the farms of Svechnikov and Babmindra are probably far more efficient than the average Soviet collective or state farm.

SO THIS simple picture is Russia's farm problem in a capsule.

Soviet farmers though they no doubt work hard simply farm on the average very little land in comparison with American farmers.

And this is one of the basic reasons for Russia's low standard of living.

The Soviet collective farmer on the "kuban" collective farm farms less than one eighth of the land that an Iowa farmer does. But this is only the beginning of the story. He also farms what he does farm less efficiently than the Iowa farmer. Thus his total over-all production is even less than one eighth of that of the Iowa farmer. And out of this he has to provide his own consumption needs. Thus the surplus which he has left to send in one form or another to non-farm folks is a smaller fraction still.

NO MATTER how hard the government may squeeze the Soviet farmer it cannot get what isn't there. "You can't get blood out of a turnip!" as the saying goes.

The poor productivity of the Soviet farmer is bad both for the farmer himself and for the non-farm consumer. Because of it there is simply less to eat and wear for both.

THE SOVIET farm leaders here in the delegation realize this to some extent because this theme has been harped upon in statements by Nikita Khrushchev.

And the Russian farm leaders are looking for methods of improving labor productivity on Soviet farms.

But they have some curious blind spots.

For instance they insist on equating labor efficiency on farms with size of farms.

THEY THINK that the larger a farm the higher the labor productivity on it is likely to be.

A professor at Iowa State College pointed out to the Soviet group that under Iowa conditions a 240 acre farm already got the maximum advantage from mechanization of agriculture and that any additional increase in size of a farm added nothing to its innate efficiency.

The Russians who heard this statement simply refused to credit it. They passed it by with a declaration that this could not refer to Soviet conditions.

BUT THE FACT of the matter is that it probably could refer to Soviet conditions—if the Russians were not so stubborn about refusing to admit that one-family farms can be just as efficient and maybe even more efficient, from an economic point of view and from a social point of view, as big state-owned or controlled farms.

Of course, it would be quite unfair to criticize the present group of Russian farm leaders now here in America in this regard.

There is nothing they can do about changing the Russian farming system. They've got it. They're practical men and they've got to try to make it work. Maybe they can.

Mr. Washington at present is spiritual leader for more than 200 men, women and children. (Freeman photo).

Visitors Mixing But Avoid Talking On Ticklish Angles

By TOM WHITNEY

Clarinda, Iowa, July 29 (AP)—I lived nine years in Moscow but I had to come to Iowa to meet and talk fairly frankly anyway—with some Russians.

That perhaps is a bit of hyperbole — because during my long stay in the Soviet Union I did get to know many Russians and I did talk frankly with some of them. But it was hard and rare. And here and now it's easy.

THE MEMBERS of the Soviet delegation of agricultural leaders are mixing socially in some degree with Americi with Americans whom they meet in the places they visit and with the Americans who as newsmen and photographers are accompanying them on their journey.

They are being pleasant and they are not refusing to enter into serious discussions of important subjects, including the Soviet Union and Soviet policies.

I would not want to give the impression that the Russians on the Soviet delegation are giving always absolutely open and truthful answers to questions which they are asked. Quite on the contrary I have noticed a tendency on the part of the Soviet delegation leader Vladimir Matskevich and other Soviet leaders in his group sidestep some ticklish matters.

LET'S TAKE for example a question which was put to Matskevich on the debatable subject of the Soviet agronomist and biologist, Trofim D. Lysenko, who holds distinction to almost all western geneticists and biologists that acquired characteristics can be inherited Matskevich gave an answer which, while it appeared to be an answer, was in reality not one.

He simply mentions Lysenko's contacts and past job and said that Lysenko's biology was a subject of discussion.

There have been other examples of this sort of evasion of important subjects. But the most important fact is not the tendency of members of the Soviet delegation to evade touchy subjects in public but their willingness in some measure in private to enter into discussions — even heated discussions—about essential things.

THE FACT of the matter is that before there is a final end of the cold war there is going to have to be a great deal of very frank talk about a lot of different things between Russians and Americans—on a lot of different levels. How far it will go, I don't know, but at least here is a beginning of this on the Iowa journey—and, I suppose, in a lot of other places too. This is a most significant development.

The Soviet farm delegation yesterday visited an American county fair—at Bedford, Iowa, where the Taylor County Fair was being held. The Russians were quite at home in the livestock exhibits. They looked over with great interest some of the cattle and hogs which had won prizes.

The Russians were surprised to find that many of the prizes were won by members of the 4-H Clubs even in the open classes of competition. Jaul Jones, for example, of Bedford, showed Matskevich a Berkshire hog from five to six months of age which had won the grand championship at the Taylor County Fair. Matskevich was impressed. The Russians stayed overnight at Clarinda.

Washington, July 29 (AP) — In the first use of a 1954 law, the government has moved to have a labor union branded formally as under Communist domination. Atty. Gen. Brownell filed the charge yesterday against the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, with headquarters at Denver. The Subversive Activities Control Board (SACB), before which the charge was filed, will hold hearings. At Denver, the union's national headquarters issued a statement denying Communist domination and said it would defend itself agaisnt the SACB and, if necessary, in the courts.

Some folks think just because they have Venetian blinds they are very modern. In fact, I always thought that Venetian blinds were invented in Venice and only a few years ago. How wrong I was. Maybe if I had read about Marco Polo more carefully I would have found that he turned up in 1295 A.D. with the first authentic Venetian blind, a glittering, gold encrusted series of wooden slats strung together with strong cord. Since Marco Polo mentions bringing the blind back from one of his trips to the court of Kublai Khan, it may have been a Chinese invention, who knows? And if you have visited the recently restored Colonial Governor's Palace at Williamsburg, Virginia, you may have thought that the Venetian blinds were just a modern touch to save the furniture. The guide there will be glad to show you a copy of a letter written by George Washington. It is dated June 10th, 1787 in which Washington instructs his nephew: "I need exact dimensions of the dining room window that I may get a Venetian blind such as draws up and closes and expands made here that others may be made from it for my home."

It is said by William J. Percival in "Behind Those Venetian Blinds" in the August Coronet magazine that tomb decorations of reed curtains that apparently could be raised and lowered were shown in Egyptian tombs. The literature of China and India also mentions them. The Romans were familiar with the principle that slats mounted in slanting positions enable those inside to watch those outside and remain virtually unobserved themselves. But their Venetian blinds were huge stone slabs set into solid rock. According to historian, Mr. Percival, "some 1,900 years later, architects have rediscovered this device and similar stone slabs are now incorporated in modern buildings, both for their ventilating effect and for their geometric beauty." Venetian blinds were installed in Mt. Vernon, in Thomas Jefferson's home at Monticello and, as contemporary painting show, in the chamber in Independence Hall where the Declaration of Independence was signed.

Today Venetian blinds have found themselves on some 40,000,000 American windows with many folks thinking it adds the modern touch. The home-building boom has also added to the industry, and it is becoming a standard equipment in office building, a trend which began with the completion of the Empire State Building in New York city some 24 years ago. They say the largest Venetian blind ever made was for "Today," Dave Garroway's TV program. It is 88 feet wide by 18 feet high and has two miles of aluminum slats. The smallest on record were rigged to a pair of sun glasses. In spite of the fact that they are on the market for centuries still I consider them a complicated gadget and am more at home with the 'old-fashioned' blinds. It is said that most of the antique blinds were made of wood. Modern ones are sometimes made of wood, but also of steel, plastic, aluminum, or even paper. That is why history should never be ignored. We may think we know it all today, but history often proves that folks centuries ago knew a little something too.

West Refuses Trick, Gets Two

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Today's hand is an unusual little number. Practically everybody made 12 tricks with the South hand in a recent tournament. One player missed, and only because an opponent stumbled upon a successful defense.

At every table West led the jack of diamonds, and South won. Declarer led a club to the ace, cashed the ace of spades to discard a diamond, took the king of clubs, and led a low club towards dummy.

At every table but one, West stepped up with the queen of hearts, thus over-ruffing the dummy. West then led another diamond, and South won again. South could now ruff a low club in dummy, cash the jack of hearts and lead the nine of hearts for a finesse through East.

It was then all over. East's trumps could be drawn, and South lost only the one trick that West had taken with the queen of hearts.

At one table, West refused to ruff with the queen of hearts. To tell the truth, he didn't have a reason for refusing to ruff. He just felt stubborn.

At this table, South led the low club, West discarded a spade, and dummy ruffed with the three of hearts. South got back to his hand with a high diamond and led another low club. West discarded another spade, and dummy ruffed with the nine of hearts.

It was now time to draw trumps, so declarer led the jack of hearts from the dummy. It didn't matter whether South played the king to capture the blank queen or whether South let the jack of hearts ride. The defenders had to get two trump tricks, and the slam was defeated!

West was a hero for refusing to take a trick with his blank queen of hearts!

Red Delegation Sees Farms In U. S. Operate Efficiently

By TOM WHITNEY

Des Moines, July 29 (AP)—If Petr Svechnikov's big Soviet collective farm were to be cut up into small Iowa-type farms and farmed with Iowa efficiency it could be operated with less than one eighth of the people it takes to work it now.

This is one of the lessons of the Soviet farm delegation's trip here which stands out like a sore thumb.

If Petr Babmindra's giant state farm were to be broken up into small Iowa-type family farms and farmed with Iowa efficiency it could be worked by no more than one quarter of the people who work it now.

OF COURSE, as the Soviet farm delegation chief here Vladimir Matskevich has made abundantly clear there is not going to be any breaking up of Soviet giant collective and state farms into small family-type farms. The Russians, Matskevich has explained in public statements, are going to stick to their socialist farming system.

That shouldn't be so very surprising. After all anyone who thought that the Soviet farm chiefs' visit to Iowa might change their mind about communism was nursing serious illusions.

Yet the figures are plain enough.

DELEGATION member Petr Svechnikov runs one of the more efficient collective farms of the USSR. It is called the "Kuban" Collective Farm and it is devoted in considerable part to the raising of wheat.

Here are the statistics: The "Kuban" farm has 35,000 total acres; it has on it 1,700 families who belong to the farm and furnish a total of 2,700 farm workers.

In other words on the "Kuban" farm each Soviet family in effect "farms" about 21 acres on the average.

IN IOWA, on the other hand, as the Soviet delegation has seen, a typical farmer is likely to be farming 160 acres without outside help and without the women doing work in the fields either.

The contrast becomes even more devastating when it is taken into consideration that: 1 On the "Kuban" farm none of the mechanized work on the farm is done by the members of the farm. It is all performed by a machinery and tractor station which must be paid for its services. 2. On the "Kuban" farm as on all Soviet collective farms women are expected to do field work alongside men.

Or let's take Petr Babmindra's fine "gigant" state farm. Babmindra is also a delegation member. The statistics on it paint a similar though less lopsided story.

THE "GIGANT" has 115,000 acres approximately and 2,700 staff workers (with another 900 hired during harvest.)

Thus each full time worker on the "gigant" farm farms on the average about 42 acres.

In Iowa, on the other hand, as the Soviet delegation has seen one full time worker is likely to be farming no less than 160 acres.

And, it must be remembered, the farms of Svechnikov and Babmindra are probably far more efficient than the average Soviet collective or state farm.

SO THIS simple picture is Russia's farm problem in a capsule.

Soviet farmers though they no doubt work hard simply farm on the average very little land in comparison with American farmers.

And this is one of the basic reasons for Russia's low standard of living.

The Soviet collective farmer on the "kuban" collective farm farms less than one eighth of the land that an Iowa farmer does. But this is only the beginning of the story. He also farms what he does farm less efficiently than the Iowa farmer. Thus his total over-all production is even less than one eighth of that of the Iowa farmer. And out of this he has to provide his own consumption needs. Thus the surplus which he has left to send in one form or another to non-farm folks is a smaller fraction still.

NO MATTER how hard the government may squeeze the Soviet farmer it cannot get what isn't there. "You can't get blood out of a turnip!" as the saying goes.

The poor productivity of the Soviet farmer is bad both for the farmer himself and for the non-farm consumer. Because of it there is simply less to eat and wear for both.

THE SOVIET farm leaders here in the delegation realize this to some extent because this theme has been harped upon in statements by Nikita Khrushchev.

And the Russian farm leaders are looking for methods of improving labor productivity on Soviet farms.

But they have some curious blind spots.

For instance they insist on equating labor efficiency on farms with size of farms.

THEY THINK that the larger a farm the higher the labor productivity on it is likely to be.

A professor at Iowa State College pointed out to the Soviet group that under Iowa conditions a 240 acre farm already got the maximum advantage from mechanization of agriculture and that any additional increase in size of a farm added nothing to its innate efficiency.

The Russians who heard this statement simply refused to credit it. They passed it by with a declaration that this could not refer to Soviet conditions.

BUT THE FACT of the matter is that it probably could refer to Soviet conditions—if the Russians were not so stubborn about refusing to admit that one-family farms can be just as efficient and maybe even more efficient, from an economic point of view and from a social point of view, as big state-owned or controlled farms.

Of course, it would be quite unfair to criticize the present group of Russian farm leaders now here in America in this regard.

There is nothing they can do about changing the Russian farming system. They've got it. They're practical men and they've got to try to make it work. Maybe they can.

Georgia Belmore Becomes Bride Of George Zell

Miss Georgia Belmore, daughter of Mrs. Marion Belmore of Eddyville and the late Leonard Belmore, was married Saturday afternoon in Sacred Heart Church of Eddyville to George Zell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Zell of Eddyville. The Rev. Ambrose Murphy officiated.

A reception followed at the Stuyvesant Hotel.

Miss Joan Lynch was soloist accompanied by James Sweeney at the organ.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Harol Vaughan, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace over silk taffeta fashioned with a molded bodice, cap sleeves and a high neckline. Her bouffant skirt, scalloped at the hemline, was waltz length. A four-tiered circular French illusion veil was attached to a matching bridal cap with seed pearl and sequin trimming. She carried a nosegay of white roses and delphiniums.

Miss Constance Cartman, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a waltz-length gown of orchid nylon tulle over taffeta with a matching headpiece, and carried a nosegay of yellow gladiolus and delphiniums tied with matching ribbon.

Robert Nelson of New York city was best man. The ushers were James Nelson and Alexander Astrofsky.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, is an alumna of State University Teachers College at New Paltz. She is a member of Beta Phi social sorority.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Kingston High School, is also a graduate of Union College. He is a member of Delta Phi.

On their return from a motor trip through the northern states, Mr. and Mrs. Zell will live in Passaic, N. J. The bride wore a toast duster and tan dress with white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Second 'Dutch Day' At Stone Ridge Features Looming

Plans are progressing for the second annual "Dutch Day" at the Stone Ridge Reformed Church to be held Wednesday, August 10, starting at 10:30 a. m.

One of the new features is a cafeteria luncheon in the basement of the church from 11:30 a. m. until 2:30 p. m. Starting at 5 p. m. and until all are served a "Dutch" Smorgasbord supper will be given in the church basement. This will be a repetition of the supper given early this spring.

A new attraction will be the actual making of the hand loomed rugs which will be on sale. The woman who looms the rugs will be there to demonstrate weaving. There will also be cards for everyday greeting, Christmas cards and papers of all kinds.

The usual quality table, booths with aprons of all kinds, all sorts of homemade cakes, pies and breads, fresh vegetables, plants and flowers, almost-new booth and a refreshment stand. The kiddies will be well occupied with games of all kinds and Mother Goose will be there for story telling time. This was a feature last year.

Miss Helen Long, Frank T. Roedell Wed at St. Mary's

In St. Mary's Church, Miss Helen Marie Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Murphy of 124 Mary's avenue, was married Saturday morning to Frank T. Roedell, son of Mrs. Nora Roedell of 249 Clinton avenue, and the late Frank Roedell. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly assisted by the Rev. Austin Carey, chaplain of Benedictine Hospital.

A reception for 100 guests followed at the Casablanca restaurant.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown with fitted bodice of French imported rosepoint lace, portrait neckline, long tapered sleeves, and a bouffant skirt of nylon tulle with rippling lace panels over bridal satin ending in a sweep train. A tiny five-point pearl baroness crown of rosepoint lace secured a three-tier fingertip veil of imported French illusion. She carried a white prayer book with a white orchid.

Miss Elizabeth Jaffer was honor attendant. The bridesmaids were Miss Eileen Schwenk of 152 Foxhall avenue and Miss Kathleen Netter of 111 Andrew street. The honor attendant wore a gown of nylon chiffon in waltz length, shrimp color, fashioned with a draped bodice, and bouffant skirt over nylon net, and tiny shrug jacket. A headpiece of delicate chiffon leaves and pearls matched the gown. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses with blue delphiniums. The bridesmaids gowns were identical in styling in aqua. They carried bouquets of pink roses with blue delphiniums.

Frank J. Martin of 54 Van Deusen street served as best man. The ushers were William DeKoskie and James DiPeri, both of this city.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School and Our Lady of Victory School of Nursing, Benedictine Hospital, is on the staff at the hospital.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Kingston High School, served two years in the army, 16 months of which were in Korea. He is with IBM, Kingston.

After a trip to Washington, D. C. and south, Mr. and Mrs. Roedell will live at 104 O'Neil street. For traveling, the bride selected an ensemble of white polished cotton sheath dress embroidered in gold wth gold linen duster, white accessories, and a white orchid corsage.

The annual death rate in the United States dropped from 17-2 per thousand persons in 1900 to 9.6 per thousand in 1950.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM STEIGERWALD at their wedding reception at The Capri, Port Ewen, following the ceremony Saturday afternoon. (Reynolds photo)

Miss Thelma Shaver, W. E. Steigerwald Wed in Port Ewen

Miss Thelma Ann Shaver of 96 Clinton avenue became the bride of William Eugene Steigerwald of Port Ewen, Saturday afternoon, in a double ring ceremony held at Church of Presentation, Port Ewen. The Rev. Joseph Kerins officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. DeForest Shaver of Kingston, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Steigerwald of Port Ewen.

Mrs. William Webster, Jr. was soloist accompanied on the organ by Mrs. John Smith.

Given in marriage by her brother, DeForest E. Shaver, the bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over taffeta with lace bodice, short sleeves with lace mitts, and a scoop neckline bordered with lace daisies re-embroidered with iridescent sequins. The bouffant skirt of tulle fell from a stitched peplum of lace ending in a slight sweep train. A crown of seed pearls secured the nylon tulle veil. She carried a crescent bouquet of pink sweetheart roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. DeForest E. Shaver of 71 Newkirk avenue, sister-in-law of the bride, served as matron of honor. Miss Virginia Carle of Lake Katrine and Mrs. Samuel Ferguson of Newburgh were attendants.

The matron of honor wore a camellia pink nylon net gown with fitted bodice and peplum of lace and bouffant waltz length skirt with matching cape. She carried plateau baskets of pink and yellow roses and blue delphinium, and wore a headpiece of matching flowers. The attendants wore strapless ballerina length gowns in blue and yellow, fashioned with a bouffant skirt with insets of white hand clipped lace over a ruffled underskirt, and matching stoles. Their bouquets and headpieces were identical to those of the matron of honor.

Robert Smith of Port Ewen, cousin of the bridegroom, served as best man. The ushers were Thomas Steigerwald of Port Ewen and Arthur Heidicamp of Lake Katrine.

A reception was held at The Capri, Port Ewen, for 70 guests.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, is with IBM, Kingston. The bridegroom, a graduate of Mamaroneck High School, served three years in the army, and is now with IBM, Poughkeepsie.

Mr. and Mrs. Steigerwald will live at 249 Clinton avenue.

Four Generations At Dinner Party For Mrs. Campbell

Four generations were present last Saturday at a dinner party in recognition of the 76th birthday of Mrs. E. C. Campbell of Woodstock. The dinner was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Kirkpatrick, Halcyon Park, Kingston. Mrs. Kirkpatrick, the former Ann Marie Page of Kingston, is the granddaughter of Mrs. Campbell.

In addition to a greatgrandson, Robert Hugh Kirkpatrick, guests included two daughters and sons-in-law; Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Page of Woodstock and Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Mildrum of Worthington Ridge, Berlin.

Also present were Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Kirkpatrick of Port Ewen; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Martin and Virginia of Woodstock; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel R. McCleery and children, Samuel Jr. and Katherine, of Springfield, Mass.; Miss Marion G. Griffin of Worcester, Mass. and Mr. and Mrs. David H. Campbell of Phoenix, Ariz.

Mr. McCleery and Mr. Campbell are nephews of the guest of honor.

Mr. Campbell is a former mayor of Globe, Ariz., and is currently a member of the Arizona State House of Representatives, representing the 26th Legislative District. He and Mrs. Campbell are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Page in Woodstock.

DISPOSAL OF CENTERPIECE

A very unusual question is asked by this wife: "My husband and I were invited to the wedding and reception of a relative recently. It was a sit-down dinner at small tables. There were ten guests at each table, and in the middle of each table was a very pretty centerpiece of fresh flowers. When the reception was over I took the centerpiece home with me. It seemed a shame to leave it there either to be thrown out or taken home by one of the waiters. (The reception was at a hotel.) I have been severely criticized for this by several relatives. I would like to know if what I did was to terribly wrong?"

Answer: Disposal of the flowers was up to the hostess. Usually they are sent to a hospital.

When Silverware Is Dirty!

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me what to do when dining in a friend's house and you notice that a fork at your place is dirty? This happened to be the other evening and I was at a loss to know what to do without embarrassing my hostess. Is there a tactful way to handle a situation such as this one?

Answer: I cannot imagine any hostess being so careless as to set a place at her table with a dirty fork. If this should happen I suppose that the guest would wipe off the tines on her napkin under the protection of the table's edge.

Wedding Collation

Dear Mrs. Post: The daughter of a neighbor of ours was married recently and my husband and I were invited to the wedding reception. The wedding was in the morning and a reception followed at a private club. The bridal party was seated at a long table and were served a very elaborate collation while the rest of the wedding guests were served sandwiches and something to drink. Wasn't this in bad taste?

Answer: No, it is not at all unusual to have the bride's table served more profusely than all the other tables.

90 Nuns Rescued

Dubuque, Iowa, July 29 (AP)—Ninety elderly or ill nuns were rescued, with only minor injuries to a few, when fire swept the infirmary at the Mount Carmel Convent, Order of the Blessed Virgin Mary, here last night. All of the infirmary patients were removed to Dubuque hospitals and it was not immediately determined how many were hurt nor the full extent of their injuries. The sister who discovered the fire shortly after 10 p. m. said the blaze was accompanied by an explosion in the attic of the three-story, brick building.

Trailsweepers on the Briny

Under full sail on Penobscot Bay is the Windjammer Cruise schooner with thirteen members of the Trailsweepers Club aboard. They drove to Camden, Me., Saturday, embarking Monday on the week's sail.

According to Miss Marianne Maugg, there will be 14 other voyagers aboard from all parts of the U.S.A. On the program will be catching lobsters to cook on deck, making their own ice cream, and going ashore each evening to visit coastal villages.

(Miss Maugg, veteran of a trip to Germany and three other European countries last summer, had the foresight to stock up on seasick remedies.)

The group will spend a week at Cape Cod before coming back to Kingston. On deck are the Misses Doris Parslow, Marianne Maugg, Mary Keating, Lillian Saccoman, and Lois Saile (add appropriate names). Also Benson Rogers, Dan Morehouse, Herbert Morehouse, Edward Morris, Manfred Kastner, Fred Dotie, Don Donohue and Robert Terwilliger.

Benson Rogers, who was the cruise organizer, nourishes an ambition to sail a schooner around the world. This is just a trial run.

A Lady's Adventure

It's all in a day's work for SPCA volunteers around the county according to Madelyn Schumacher. She and Mrs. Lucy Freer, both members of the board of directors, were presented with a found doggie at the Shelter, Tuesday morning. They turned detective and located possible owner through collar registration on the lost pup.

Then they spent the better part of the day trying to reach the party by telephone, finally did. Both rushed out to Rosendale Heights to pick up Mrs. Edward Cherny, interrupted her husband in the midst of managing a softball game at Hasbrouck Park, and whisked them off to the Shelter to identify the dog.

After a month of being very lost in the environs of Kingston, Lady Kerry, a red-haired thoroughbred Irish setter was overjoyed to be reunited with her owners. The younger Cherny was thrilled. Miss Schumacher and Mrs. Freer were pleased with their work. And chalked up new acquaintances of the SPCA and its job.

Where was Lady? She isn't talking.

Parties, Parties

A farewell party honored Mr. and Mrs. George Fisher of Second street, Saugerties, Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Sloboda, Robinson street.

Mr. Fisher was the manager of Klugo's Furniture and is now affiliated with a construction firm. They will make their home at Palmer, Mass.

Those attending included Clifford Van Etten, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Noble of West Camp and Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Cawein of Malden-on-Hudson.

Mr. and Mrs. Laurence H. Ennist of Bloomington were entertained at dinner in honor of their 25th wedding anniversary Friday, July 22, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gehentner in Whiteport.

Later, a surprise party was held at the Ennist home, with many local and out of town guests attending. Congratulatory messages and cards showered the couple, as well as gifts from their friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Ennist are now on a trip to Cape Cod and points of interest on the east coast.

Reunion in Lake Katrine

Mr. and Mrs. Copeland E. Gates of Lake Katrine entertained at a family reunion last week in honor of her mother, Mrs. John Parran of Southern Maryland.

The following six children attended: besides Mrs. Gates, Mrs. Raymond Marsh, wife of Col. Marsh of Washington, D. C., Mrs. Benjamin Hance, John Parran, Jr., Julius Parran of Southern Maryland, and Mrs. William R. Woodward of Copenhagen, Denmark. Her husband, Brig. Gen. Woodward, is with NATO in Denmark. Mrs. Woodward, with their two sons, are spending the summer with her mother at the Gates' home.

Visiting Here and There

On a brief visit with her family at 35 Snyder avenue is Miss Ruth Herdman of Los Angeles, Calif. She will leave in August for Europe, where she expects to be for at least one year.

Miss Maryann Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Williams of 192 Pine street, has been visiting here for a week. She is leaving today for California where she will be on the faculty of the University of California at Berkeley.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sickles and son, Bart, have returned to Silver Springs, Md., after spending a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Falatyn, 12 Cottage row. The Sickles attended a testimonial dinner at the Statler Hotel, Hartford, Conn., given by staff and members in honor of Mr. Sickles father, Carl W. Sickles, who was promoted to the office of president of the International Association of Heat and Frost Insulators and Asbestos Workers.

Mrs. Melvin Kopple of Detroit, Mich., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Sam Mann, brother-in-law and sister, of 79 Washington avenue. She is the former Elsa Stern of this city.

The Rev. and Mrs. Clarence W. Smith, who are living in retirement in their home on Second street, Connelly, were surprised Monday afternoon by a group of their former Lake Mahopac parishoners. The group consisted of Mrs. Howard W. Smith, Mrs. Ben Yager and daughters Phyllis and Janet, and Mrs. Harry E. Ball, and son Howard. Mrs. Yager and Mrs. Ball are daughters of Mrs. Howard Smith.

The C. W. Smiths have been living in their Connelly home since May 25. Mr. Smith is a retired Methodist minister, having retired at the recent session of the New York Annual Conference at the conclusion of a seven year pastorate at Lake Mahopac.

Vacationers and Travelers

Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Johnson and daughter Penny and son Rickey of 19 Green street, have left for a two-weeks' vacation at Virginia Beach, Va. They will spend four days in Washington, D. C. first, where they will visit friends. The Johnsons expect to return in mid-August.

Miss Mary Rose Dempsey of 147 Albany avenue, was bridesmaid at the wedding of Miss Frances Child in Albany, Saturday. On Sunday, Miss Dempsey, who is on the faculty of Montrose high school, left on a motor trip to Lake Louise and Banff, Canada. Accompanying her were Miss Mary Mackey and Miss Virginia Conklin of Peekskill. The trio will visit Glacier National Park, Black Hills, Chicago and Cleveland on the trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward De Groff of Vauxhall have returned from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Flisser at their home in North Miami Beach, Fla. The De Groff children, Betsy, Laurie and Judy, are at Camp Wendy. Mr. and Mrs. Flisser, who are returning north next week, write that there was always a cool breeze through the house without benefit of air conditioning! One reason they are "thrilled with Florida living."

Mrs. Philip Nowag and son Gunther of 55 North Front street are vacationing for three months with relatives in France and Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Kauder of New Paltz, sailed Saturday aboard the Vulcania for Genoa, Italy, their first stop on a four-month tour of Europe. They will visit Mediterranean ports, Spain, then go on to the northern countries before returning home.

Mrs. J. D. Field of 333 Foxhall avenue has just returned from a two-weeks visit with her sons, Franklin Owen Field, Philadelphia, and Everett J. Field and family, Beach Hill, Pa.

Saturday Night Activities

The annual Junior League Dance given by Provisionals will be held at Twaalfskill Golf Club Saturday night. Dancing will be from 10 p. m. until 2 a. m. to the music of Al Rossi's orchestra.

A special feature will be the appearance of two caricaturists, Samson Engoren and Morton Harris, from the Art Students League, Woodstock. They will entertain by drawing caricatures of members and their guests. Mrs. Robert Sabin is chairman of the dance.

Woodstock Country Club has sent out invitations to their Saturday night gala, to be a very special spaghetti dinner for members and guests. Cocktail hour in the new lounge will precede the dinner at 6:30 p. m. Dancing will follow.

Marion Loeffler, Calvin Warnecke Nuptials Are Held

The wedding of Miss Gertrude Marion Loeffler, daughter of George Loeffler of 88 Newkirk avenue and the late Mrs. Loeffler, and Calvin Herbert Warnecke, son of Ernest Warnecke of 500 First avenue and the late Mrs. Warnecke, took place Sunday afternoon at the Reformed Church of the Comforter. The Rev. Forrest Prindle officiated at the double ring ceremony.

A reception for 150 guests followed at the Yacht Club.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of rosepoint lace fashioned with a fitted bodice, long tapered sleeves and a tiny collar embroidered with iridescent sequins. The bouffant floor length skirt was of tiers of lace and tulle. A matching bridal bonnet secured a French illusion three-quartered length veil. She carried a white orchid on a prayer book with white stephanotis.

Mrs. Richard Matthews, 32 Country Club Drive, Mt. Marion Park, was matron of honor. She wore a gown of deep pink nylon net with an Empire bodice and bouffant floor length skirt with tiers of satin banding, a draped stole, and a half-hat trimmed with silk lilacs. She carried a cascade of pink orchids and blue delphiniums.

Robert Warnecke served as best man for his brother. The ushers were LeRoy Loeffler, brother of the bride, and John Heppner, cousin of the bride.

On their return from a trip to the Pocono Mountains, Pa., they will live at 88 Newkirk avenue. For traveling the bride chose a dress of turquoise crystalette with white accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Kingston High School, class of 1951, and the bridegroom, of 1948.

Empire State Music Festival Opens Season At Ellenville; Symphony, Opera on Program

The Empire State Music Festival at Ellenville will open Wednesday, Aug. 3, at Ellenville, with the Symphony of the Air as the orchestra, and Eduard Van Beinum conducting.

In the heart of the Rip Van Winkle country, this event will be launched as New York state's own music festival.

Other symphonic maestros who will appear during the five-week season are Alfred Wallenstein, Erich Leinsdorf, Morton Gould, Hugh Ross, Leroy Anderson and Izler Solomon. Opera will also be presented under the direction of Emerson Buckley, Tibor Kozma and Leinsdorf.

THE PROGRAMS will be presented in a 4,000 seat natural amphitheater now being completed, together with the raising of a $35,000 tent which will cover half of the amphitheater. Located on the side of a mountain, the outdoor concert hall will be the focal point of a 110-acre estate in the heart of the Ulster county resort country. A special stage, designed by Frederick Kiesler of Vienna, was built in New York city and is now being assembled. Parking space for 2,000 cars will be provided.

Harry Resnick, president of Ellenville's Channel Master Corporation, is chairman of the Catskill Mountain Civic Corporation, the local citizens' group which has been working to establish the Music Festival in Ellenville.

Mr. Resnick revealed that, in order to bring the festival to the Catskill Mountain area, the Civic Corporation pledged $100,000 to the Festival Corporation. This money was to be raised through advance ticket sales. Thus far $65,000 has already been realized, which Mr. Resnick believes is maximum for the Ellenville area. He has stressed that the additional $35,000 must come from the surrounding cities and towns. He called for the cooperation of everyone in this area in helping the advance ticket sale.

Behind of all this excitement, from the artistic standpoint, are primarily two people who function as co-directors: Jascha Rushkin, violinist in the Symphony of the Air, and John Brownlee, Metropolitan Opera baritone. Singer Frank Forest is treasurer.

Van Beinum, who leaves his illustrious Concertgebouw Orchestra in Holland to lead the opening, has chosen the following program for the event. Beethoven's "Leonore" Overture No. 3 and the Eighth Symphony; plus Brahms' First Symphony.

PUCCINI'S "La Boheme" is scheduled for Thursday and Saturday, August 4 and 6 of opening week with Emerson Buckley as conductor. Lucia Evangalista will sing Mimi and Eugene Conley, Rudolfo. During subsequent weeks, "Madama Butterfly"; "La Traviata"; and "Cosi Fan Tutte," the latter with Tibor Kozma as conductor, will be heard.

Jose Limon and his Dance Company will be seen in Spanish dances during the week of August 24, together with the presentation of a one-act opera by Cimarosa, "Love Triumphant."

The festival's final programs will be Sept. 2 and 3, when a performance of "The Tempest," based on Shakespeare's play using incidental music by Jan Sibelius, is the novel bill.

90 Nuns Rescued

Dubuque, Iowa, July 29 (AP)—Ninety elderly or ill nuns were rescued, with only minor injuries to a few, when fire swept the infirmary at the Mount Carmel Convent, Order of the Blessed Virgin Mary, here last night. All of the infirmary patients were removed to Dubuque hospitals and it was not immediately determined how many were hurt nor the full extent of their injuries. The sister who discovered the fire shortly after 10 p. m. said the blaze was accompanied by an explosion in the attic of the three-story, brick building.

These Were Friends?

Charleston, W. Va. (AP)—Joe Evans told police he accepted an invitation from a couple of friends and went to their car to have drink. When he woke up, he was in a brush patch on lonely Tupper's Creek. He was missing his pants, shoes, sports shirt and a wallet with $75 in it. "They took everything but my shorts and socks," said Evans.

American Stars Nip Saugerties 1-0 for County LL Honors

Harder, Carpino Check Villagers on Four Hits; PlayPoughkeepsieNext

Apparently nobody's going to solve the potent pitching of the American Little League All Stars.

Yesterday at Little League Stadium, the Americans wrapped up the Ulster county championship behind another great mound performance, edging the defending champion, Saugerties Lions Club All Stars, in a 1-0 thriller.

In four tournament games, the Kingston hurlers have allowed a total of 12 base hits—all singles—and have yielded only eight runs. The last two clutch games were shutouts over Glasco and Saugerties.

KINGSTON AND the Poughkeepsie Queen City All-Stars collide tomorrow afternoon at the Manor avenue diamond in the District 4 championship struggle. Game time is 1:30 o'clock.

Mike Carpino and Walt Harder shared pitching chores for the locals last night. And Carpino, who hurled the first two innings, helped win his own game in the bottom of the second by scoring the game's only run.

Kingston lost a chance to score another run when Secreto got himself picked off first base.

HARDER TOOK OVER the mound in the third inning and promptly got himself in hot water. But he worked himself out of difficulty.

Saugerties got men on second and third with one away and it looked like some runs were in the offing. Harder, however, was equal to the pressure. He struck out the next two men. After that, Walt was a tough customer.

Harder had eight strikeouts for the four innings he worked. Carpino fanned two.

Barry Wolven turned in a good job for the losers. He gave up six hits—two to Harder, struck out seven and walked two. Harder's one walk was the only one Saugerties got.

Last night's game was easily the toughest for the Kingstonians. Previously, they won by 10-3, 21-5 and 8-0 scores.

WHO'LL START against the Poughkeepsie team hasn't been decided. It could be Harder, Carpino, Ronnie Secreto or Garry Barnes.

Poughkeepsie will probably send its big righthander, Steve Albrecht, to the hill. Albrecht threw a no-hitter in one tournament game and has been a hard man to hit all year. He's also one of the Bridge City team's best batsmen.

Two Lady Acers

Albany, July 29 (AP)—Mrs. Jo Santoro of Mechanicville stepped up to the 10th hole at the Wolferts Roost Country Club yesterday and became the first woman in 16 years to score a hole-in-one. Her drive sailed, bounced and rolled 168 yards into the cup. An hour later, while the clubhouse still was buzzing about the feat, Mrs. John L. Branche, a club member, sank an ace on the 110-yard 15th hole.

Wrens Get Sixth Win In Jaycee

Danny Van Wagenen contributed his fifth homer and Jack DeKoskie pitched a 2-hitter as the Wrens polished off the Eagles 12 to 5 in the Jaycee Little League yesterday.

Pinky Werbalowsky was another big gun in the Wren triumph, the sixth in seven games, with "4 for 4" including a double and three singles.

DEKOSKIE issued eight walks and fanned six. The Wrens picked up 12 hits off Gary Terwilliger and Alan Turner as the Eagles suffered their seventh loss against one victory.

DeKoskie helped himself to a double and single as did Dick Whitaker. Lou Werbalowsky tripled. The two Eagle safeties were doubles by John Sabin and Skippy Aiello.

Ulster Seniors Golf Association Elects H. F. King President

Annual Tourney Planned Sept. 11

Area senior golfers last night organized the Ulster County Seniors Golf Association and named Harold F. King of Twaalfskill as their first president.

Mr. King will also serve as chairman of the 1955 tournament which is scheduled Sunday, Sept. 11, at Twaalfskill.

Other officers named were: Anthony J. DeLisio, Woodstock Country Club, vice-president; Ralph E. Gardner, Wiltwyck, secretary; and Wilson C. Ingalls, Wiltwyck, treasurer.

AN ANNUAL membership fee of $5.00 was established. The fee entitles the member to play in the annual tournament and covers all expenses.

The third annual tournament will be played as usual in five classes, with prizes for low gross and low net in each division.

Two memorial plaques are also in contention, the Jay Rifenbary Memorial for low gross score of the tournament and the DeLisio Memorial for the Class A winner.

AGE GROUPS for the tournament are: Class A, 70 years and over; Class B, 65 to 69; Class C, 60 to 64 years; Class D, 55-59; and Class E, 50 to 54.

Invitations will be mailed to all known senior golfers in Ulster county. Those who do not receive invitations can file entries with Secretary Ralph E. Gardner, 50 Johnston avenue.

Trabert, Moylan Head for Finals

Southhampton, July 29 (AP)—The Meadow Club tennis tournament was down to the quarterfinals today with nothing to indicate that it'll not be top seeded Tony Trabert and defending champion Eddie Moylan in the finals.

Trabert, who brushed aside John Lesch of Los Angeles 6-2, 6-2 yesterday, meets Japanese Davis Cupper Atsushi Miyagi in the upper half of the draw. And in the lower half Moylan, from Trenton, N. J., takes on the other Japanese Davis Cup player, Kosei Kamo. Moylan lost only his sixth game of the tourney in downing Cliff Mayne of San Francisco, 6-0, 6-1.

Veterans Spark Montreal Drive In International

(By the Associated Press)

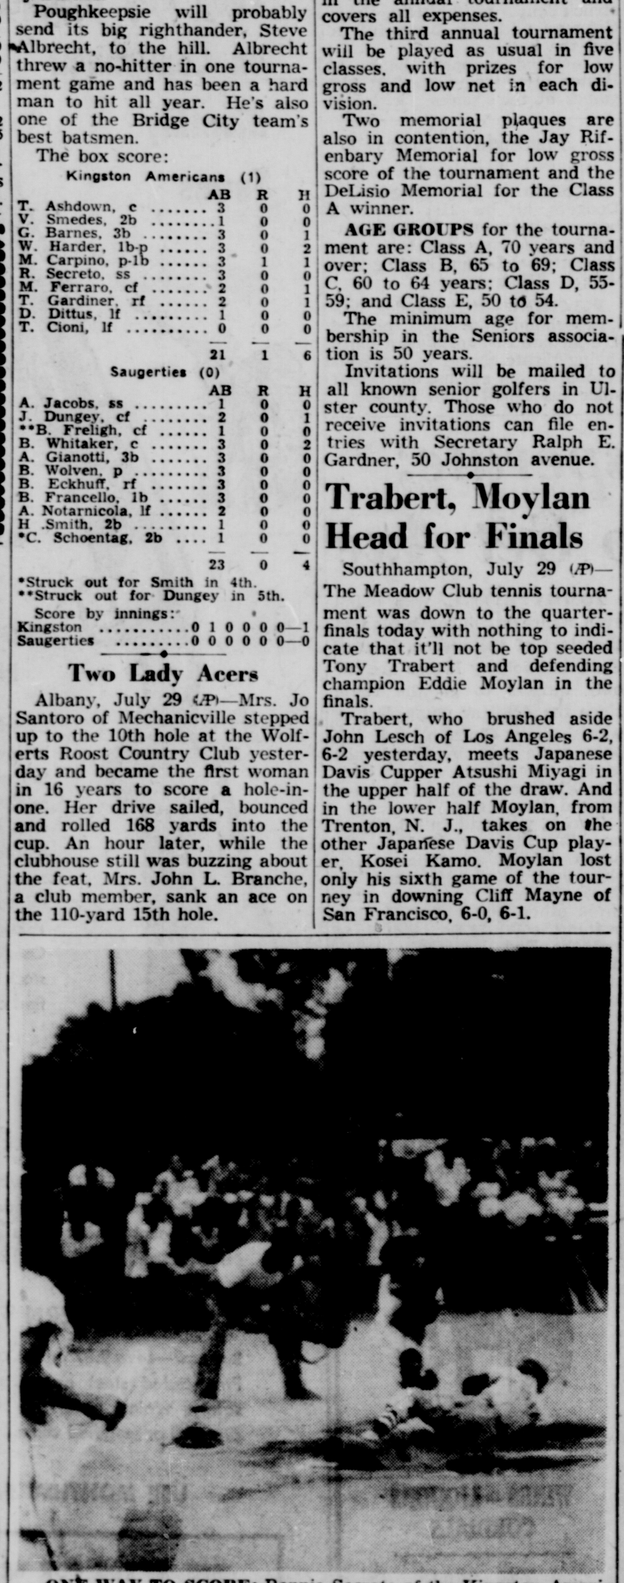

Two veteran Montreal Royals have been supplying most of the batting punch that has kept the Royals within striking distance of the Toronto Maple Leafs in the International League.

Jim Williams, 28 year old leftfielder, for the Royals has taken over the runnerup position in batting with .345 average. In the past 11 games Williams has been going at a .476 clip with 20 hits in 42 times at bat. He moved from eighth place to second in one week and trails teammate Rocky Nelson by 15 points.

WILLIAMS contributed a double and single in four times at bat last (Thursday) night as the Royals closed the gap on the Leafs to one game by defeating the Buffalo Bisons 6-4. The Leafs, meanwhile, went down to their fifth defeat in the last six starts, as the Columbus Jets came up with seven runs in the eighth inning for a 9-3 victory.

In other games the Havana Sugar Kings made it two in a row over the Richmond Virginians 2-0, and the Syracuse Chiefs swept a doubleheader from the Rochester Red Wings, 4-2, and 4-1.

Nelson, 31 year old first baseman for the Royals, not only took over the batting lead, but supplied his 25th home run in Montreal's victory to take over the lead in the home run race. Pete Wojey went the distance for the Royals to gain his seventh victory against two defeats. He allowed six hits—five coming in the Bisons' fourth inning when they scored all their runs.

Slamming two homers, four triples and a double among 21 hits off Danny Basch, the Les Pommiers swinger checked Kaplan Bag's recent upswing, 21-10, in the City Softball League yesterday.

In other games, Jake Smith powered a couple of homers as Wimpy's Grill knocked off Turcam, 11-6; and Local 259 shaded Fuller Skyline, 4-3, in a battle of seven-hitters between Harry Secreto and Don Osterhoudt.

FRED ORR WENT on a hitting binge with a homer and three singles in five trips for Pommiers. Ken Hornbeck stroked three singles and Bud Leininger slammed a pair of triples and a single. Joe Ruzzo accounted for the other.

Joe Shattan's homer and Dick Bezemer's three singles were the batting highlights for Kaplan Bag.

Wimpy's scored four runs in the bottom of the sixth to cement their 1-6 triumph over Turcams. Don Wolf permitted 10 hits but was invicible after the third inning. The winners gleaned 11 off Sickler, including a trio of singles by T. Hines.

A SIXTH-INNING marker was the difference between Local 259 and Fullers. Hank Benicase poled a homer and single for Local 259. Harry Secreto, the winning pitcher, hit a single and triple. Bosco Tomaseskie led the Skyline with a double and single and J. Dittus had two singletons.

Onteora Staff Wins 19-13 Over West Shokan Nine

Walt Purhams starred for Onteora with a pair of homers and a single. Ed Witko slugged a double and triple and Vince Carey had three singles. L. Dolce had three hits for West Shokan.

Home run hitters included Bob Burgher, Warnes, Bart Guglielmetti, and Bill Deming, the winning pitcher.

The Americans are the first Kingston team to win the Ulster county title in four years.

KINGSTON AND the Poughkeepsie Queen City All-Stars collide tomorrow afternoon at the Manor avenue diamond in the District 4 championship struggle. Game time is 1:30 o'clock.

Mike Carpino and Walt Harder shared pitching chores for the locals last night. And Carpino, who hurled the first two innings, helped win his own game in the bottom of the second by scoring the game's only run.

Kingston lost a chance to score another run when Secreto got himself picked off first base.

HARDER TOOK OVER the mound in the third inning and promptly got himself in hot water. But he worked himself out of difficulty.

Saugerties got men on second and third with one away and it looked like some runs were in the offing. Harder, however, was equal to the pressure. He struck out the next two men. After that, Walt was a tough customer.

Harder had eight strikeouts for the four innings he worked. Carpino fanned two.

Barry Wolven turned in a good job for the losers. He gave up six hits—two to Harder, struck out seven and walked two. Harder's one walk was the only one Saugerties got.

Last night's game was easily the toughest for the Kingstonians. Previously, they won by 10-3, 21-5 and 8-0 scores.

WHO'LL START against the Poughkeepsie team hasn't been decided. It could be Harder, Carpino, Ronnie Secreto or Garry Barnes.

Poughkeepsie will probably send its big righthander, Steve Albrecht, to the hill. Albrecht threw a no-hitter in one tournament game and has been a hard man to hit all year. He's also one of the Bridge City team's best batsmen.

Two Lady Acers

Albany, July 29 (AP)—Mrs. Jo Santoro of Mechanicville stepped up to the 10th hole at the Wolferts Roost Country Club yesterday and became the first woman in 16 years to score a hole-in-one. Her drive sailed, bounced and rolled 168 yards into the cup. An hour later, while the clubhouse still was buzzing about the feat, Mrs. John L. Branche, a club member, sank an ace on the 110-yard 15th hole.

Wrens Get Sixth Win In Jaycee

Danny Van Wagenen contributed his fifth homer and Jack DeKoskie pitched a 2-hitter as the Wrens polished off the Eagles 12 to 5 in the Jaycee Little League yesterday.

Pinky Werbalowsky was another big gun in the Wren triumph, the sixth in seven games, with "4 for 4" including a double and three singles.

DEKOSKIE issued eight walks and fanned six. The Wrens picked up 12 hits off Gary Terwilliger and Alan Turner as the Eagles suffered their seventh loss against one victory.

DeKoskie helped himself to a double and single as did Dick Whitaker. Lou Werbalowsky tripled. The two Eagle safeties were doubles by John Sabin and Skippy Aiello.

Ulster Seniors Golf Association Elects H. F. King President

Annual Tourney Planned Sept. 11

Area senior golfers last night organized the Ulster County Seniors Golf Association and named Harold F. King of Twaalfskill as their first president.

Mr. King will also serve as chairman of the 1955 tournament which is scheduled Sunday, Sept. 11, at Twaalfskill.

Other officers named were: Anthony J. DeLisio, Woodstock Country Club, vice-president; Ralph E. Gardner, Wiltwyck, secretary; and Wilson C. Ingalls, Wiltwyck, treasurer.

AN ANNUAL membership fee of $5.00 was established. The fee entitles the member to play in the annual tournament and covers all expenses.

The third annual tournament will be played as usual in five classes, with prizes for low gross and low net in each division.

Two memorial plaques are also in contention, the Jay Rifenbary Memorial for low gross score of the tournament and the DeLisio Memorial for the Class A winner.

AGE GROUPS for the tournament are: Class A, 70 years and over; Class B, 65 to 69; Class C, 60 to 64 years; Class D, 55-59; and Class E, 50 to 54.

The minimum age for membership in the Seniors association is 50 years.

Invitations will be mailed to all known senior golfers in Ulster county. Those who do not receive invitations can file entries with Secretary Ralph E. Gardner, 50 Johnston avenue.

Trabert, Moylan Head for Finals

Southhampton, July 29 (AP)—The Meadow Club tennis tournament was down to the quarter-finals today with nothing to indicate that it'll not be top seeded Tony Trabert and defending champion Eddie Moylan in the finals.

Trabert, who brushed aside John Lesch of Los Angeles 6-2, 6-2 yesterday, meets Japanese Davis Cupper Atsushi Miyagi in the upper half of the draw. And in the lower half Moylan, from Trenton, N. J., takes on the other Japanese Davis Cup player, Kosei Kamo. Moylan lost only his sixth game of the tourney in downing Cliff Mayne of San Francisco, 6-0, 6-1.

Veterans Spark Montreal Drive In International

(By the Associated Press)

Two veteran Montreal Royals have been supplying most of the batting punch that has kept the Royals within striking distance of the Toronto Maple Leafs in the International League.

Jim Williams, 28 year old left-fielder, for the Royals has taken over the runnerup position in batting with .345 average. In the past 11 games Williams has been going at a .476 clip with 20 hits in 42 times at bat. He moved from eighth place to second in one week and trails teammate Rocky Nelson by 15 points.

WILLIAMS contributed a double and single in four times at bat last (Thursday) night as the Royals closed the gap on the Leafs to one game by defeating the Buffalo Bisons 6-4. The Leafs, meanwhile, went down to their fifth defeat in the last six starts, as the Columbus Jets came up with seven runs in the eighth inning for a 9-3 victory.

In other games the Havana Sugar Kings made it two in a row over the Richmond Virginians 2-0, and the Syracuse Chiefs swept a doubleheader from the Rochester Red Wings, 4-2, and 4-1.

Nelson, 31 year old first baseman for the Royals, not only took over the batting lead, but supplied his 25th home run in Montreal's victory to take over the lead in the home run race. Pete Wojey went the distance for the Royals to gain his seventh victory against two defeats. He allowed six hits—five coming in the Bisons' fourth inning when they scored all their runs.

Slamming two homers, four triples and a double among 21 hits off Danny Basch, the Les Pommiers swinger checked Kaplan Bag's recent upswing, 21-10, in the City Softball League yesterday.

In other games, Jake Smith powered a couple of homers as Wimpy's Grill knocked off Turcam, 11-6; and Local 259 shaded Fuller Skyline, 4-3, in a battle of seven-hitters between Harry Secreto and Don Osterhoudt.

FRED ORR WENT on a hitting binge with a homer and three singles in five trips for Pommiers. Ken Hornbeck stroked three singles and Bud Leininger slammed a pair of triples and a single. Joe Ruzzo accounted for the other.

Joe Shattan's homer and Dick Bezemer's three singles were the batting highlights for Kaplan Bag.

Wimpy's scored four runs in the bottom of the sixth to cement their 1-6 triumph over Turcams. Don Wolf permitted 10 hits but was invicible after the third inning. The winners gleaned 11 off Sickler, including a trio of singles by T. Hines.

A SIXTH-INNING marker was the difference between Local 259 and Fullers. Hank Benicase poled a homer and single for Local 259. Harry Secreto, the winning pitcher, hit a single and triple. Bosco Tomaseskie led the Skyline with a double and single and J. Dittus had two singletons.

Onteora Staff Wins 19-13 Over West Shokan Nine

Onteora Central's athletic staff hammered out a 19-13 victory over West Shokan in a softball game on the Boiceville diamond.

Walt Purhams starred for Onteora with a pair of homers and a single. Ed Witko slugged a double and triple and Vince Carey had three singles. L. Dolce had three hits for West Shokan.

Home run hitters included Bob Burgher, Warnes, Bart Guglielmetti, and Bill Deming, the winning pitcher.

Colonials and New York Mohawks Carded Saturday at Stadium

	W	L
Paterson	5	1
Poughkeepsie	6	2
New York	5	3
Newburgh	3	4
Kingston	1	6
Brooklyn	1	6

The some-what deflated New York Mohawks, who were leading the league the last time they played here but who have since been knocked into third place, duel the Colonials Saturday night at Dietz Stadium. Game time is 8:30 o'clock.

The Kingstonians will be seeking their second victory. They currently share the cellar with the Brooklyn Windsors, each squad having a 1-6 record.

Two games are carded Sunday. The Mohawks travel to Paterson to meet the league-leading Uncle Sams and second-place Poughkeepsie is host to Brooklyn at the Bridge City park.

KINGSTON'S SOLE success was against the Mohawks two weeks ago. The locals took it on the chin from Paterson the last time out, 9-0.

With ace hurler Bob Maines pitching for the American Legion Juniors, it's uncertain who will get the starting assignment. It could be either Richie Dammier or Frank Reis, who tossed against Paterson. Bruce Bechtold or Clint Gary are two other probable starters.

Fred Davi, boss of the Colonials, imported a group of newcomers against Paterson. He had little success with the johnnies-come-lately, therefore the question arises as to who will play what for Kingston.

The locals haven't drawn much in the way of customers lately. Last Saturday night's attendance could hardly be called a crowd.

Legion Juniors Play Tonight at Stadium

The winer of tonight's game enters the semi-finals, slated Tuesday at a site to be named later. The state finals are carded at Cooperstown, site of baseball's Hall of Fame, on Saturday, Aug. 6.

The Kingston lineup is expected to be: Ronnie Ashdown, c; Joe Hoffman, 1b; Eric Blackwell, 3b; Skip Brodhead, ss; Bob Maines, p; Bill Cragan, lf; Ronnie Feraro, cf; Johnny Culjak, 2b; Bill Chase, rf.

Fisheries Manager Explains Distribution of Stock Trout

Fishermen will be permitted to use the long bow for spearing carp this year, Cecil E. Heacox, district fisheries manager of the State Conservation Department, told members of the Saugerties Fish and Game Club.

Heacox said the new 1955-56 Fishing Guide now available in town clerk offices has a stipulation which allows the practice for holders of a fishing license.

The open dates are from March 20 to Nov. 30.

REGARDING THE formula arrived at for distribution of trout, Heacox said that the number of fish allocated is based on the carrying capacity of the stream. He then explained how with field surveys, through chemical analysis, electric shocking and other scientific data, the capacity of a stream is determined. He said that the electric shocker is one of the outstanding instruments developed for survey purposes. Heacox also indicated that all requests for trout are not filled 100 per cent due to the lack of 100 per cent production of hatchery trout. All fish are allocated on a pro-rata system by which each application for fish for planting is processed. The present rate is from 80 to 85 per cent.

Reading from the Saugerties record on file at the Conservation Department, Heacox said that the Plattekill was last surveyed in 1948 and that from Mt. Marion to the Reservoir, 6.3 miles is indicated as stockable trout waters with a capacity of 3,400 fish.

IN THE ABSENCE of Richard L. Melius, president, Secretary Walter B. Pettinger presided. The secretary read a letter of resignation from Mr. Melius who is moving from the Saugerties area. By order of succession, the vice president, Elden Myers was designated as president to serve out the unexpired term. At the same time Robert Thompson, treasurer also announced the necessity of his resignation. He is also moving out of the Saugerties area. A special election to replace Mr. Thompson as treasurer will be held at the next meeting.

The pheasant commitee was authorized to order 75 cock pheasants and 10 hens with the the stipulation that the cocks will be set out before the pheasant season and the hens after the season.

The club voted to apply for a permit for Nelson Overbaugh, local commercial fisherman in order that he may seine for carp in the upper Esopus. Mr. Heacox said that chances were good that the permit would be granted inasmuch as the game club is now engaged in a program to decrease the carp population in the upper Esopus.

The monthly award was given to Helen Alverides, 96 Washington avenue.

'Hit' Whitaker Accounts for All Putouts

Bobby "Hit" Whitaker of the Saugerties Lions Club Little League All Stars made District 4 tournament history by striking out 18 Walden batters Wednesday at Saugerties.

Whitaker permitted only one hit as the villagers won the game, 16 to 3, to qualify for the finals against Kingston yesterday.

THE LONE HIT off Whitaker was a two-run homer by Ronnie Lare, Walden first sacker, over the centerfield fence to give the visitors a temporary 2-0 lead.

Saugerties picked up a run in the first inning and then moved ahead with a cluster of five in the second.

Andy Jacobs spanked three hits and Bob Francello had a pair for the villagers.

New World Mark, $35,000 Nassau For Adios Harry

Westbury, July 29 (AP)—Adios Harry, who apparently is making a career of rewriting the harness racing record book, now has the world mark for a mile and a half to go with his sensational mile times.

The 4-year-old pacing son of Adios from the barns of J. Howard Lyons of Greenwood, Del. stepped the mile and a half at Roosevelt Raceway list night in 3:04 2/5 to win the $35,000 Nassau Pace. The time clipped two-fifths of a second off the record established by Hillsota in winning the event last year.

EARLIER THIS month at Vernon Downs, N. Y., Adois Harry paced a mile in 1:55, the fastest clocking ever in a race. Before that he reeled off two consecutive miles over the 6-furlong Vernon track in 1:55.2 and 1:56.1 for a world two-heat mark of 3:51.3.

Last night, Maurice MacDonold, subbing for the ailing Luther Lyons, took the 1954 Little Brown Jug winner to the front at the three-quarter pole and won by a length and a half over Diamond Hal. Philip Scott was a head back in third place as Adios Boy faded to sixth after setting some of the early pace.

By JOHN CHANDLER, The Associated Press

For the first three months of the 1955 season the Chicago Americans, "those amazing White Sox" were going strong and everything looked rosy for a pennant at Comiskey Park.

But after the All-Star game in July the magic potion wore off, and the Pale Hose dropped like morning glories. The Go-Go kids were gone. Ever since, they said, when the chips were down and the heat was on in July after the All-Star game excitement it would be bye, bye White Sox.

So look. Today, two weeks after the 1955 All-Star tilt, it's been just the opposite, and Marty Marion's scrapping Chicago gang has knocked the New York Yankees out of first place. By only two slim percentage points, to be sure, but the White Sox showed no signs of folding this time as they whipped the Yankees yesterday 3-2 and took the vital series two games to one.

IN FACT, Chicago reached first place the hard way with an uphill battle. When league play resumed July 14 after the All-Star recess, the White Sox were in third place, six games back of New York, and a game behind second place Cleveland. Since then Chicago's won 12 of 17 games and has been rolling at a .706 pace.

It's a long way to the end of the season, however, and the top five clubs in the American loop could be covered with a large blanket today.

Cleveland defeated the Boston Red Sox 6-4 to pull within a game of the lead yesterday, while Detroit overcome Baltimore 7-5 to trail the leaders by only 5½ games—in fifth place. Washington and Kansas City were idle.

Rookie pitcher Roger Craig and Brooklyn home runs produced a 10-2 victory over Cincinnati as the Dodgers maintained their 12½ game National League spread over the second place Milwaukee Braves who defeated Philadelphia 4-2.

The New York Giants downed the Chicago Cubs 4-1 and the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates by the same 4-1 score.

WALT DROPO continued his batting spree, his two-run homer in the third inning off Bob Turley proving the White Sox margin over New York. Connie Johnson had the Yankees shut out until Mickey Mantle hit his 22nd homer in the ninth with one aboard. Reliefer Billy Pierce struck out pinchhitter Jerry Coleman with the bases full to end the battle.

Cleveland snapped back at Boston after losing the first two games of the series, with Al Rosen the star for the Tribe. He batted in three runs, two with his 16th homer in the third inning. Boston rallied in the eighth, routing Early Wynn with a walk, single and double. But with one run in, Don Mossi threw a called third strike past Ted Williams.

At Baltimore, the Tigers made it four of five over the Orioles, setting a faster pace than Chicago since the All-Star tussle. Detroit has moved at a .765 clip since July 14, winning 13 of 17.

ROY CAMPANELLA hammered a pair of Brooklyn homers, while Craig fanned 11 Redlegs to run his pitching string to 3-0 since joining the club two weeks ago. The Dodgers made their first nine hits good for nine runs thanks to three errors, a wild pitch and a passed ball. Ted Kluszewski hit his 33rd homer for Cincinnati. Campy now leads the league in batting with a .332 average.

New York's starter, Ruben Gomez, gave up two of Chicago's five hits in the two innings he pitched. He retired in the third with a pulled shoulder muscle and Paul Giel came on to gain his third victory. Giel struck out nine, walked five.

According to a report by the National Golf Foundation, 126 new courses were opened in 1954 compared with 52 in 1953.

Driver Injured

Hamburg, July 29 (AP)—Johnny Chapman, a 26-year-old harness racing driver from Toronto, was injured at the Buffalo Raceway last night when he was knocked from his sulky in the third race and stepped on by a horse.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

HITTING — Roy Campanella. Dodgers, hit his 21st and 22nd homers against the Redlegs, batted in three runs, and took over the National League batting lead with a .332 average PITCHING—Righthander Willard Schmidt, Cardinals, pitched five-hit ball and survived a ninth inning Pirate threat to score his second victory against one defeat since his recall from Omaha.

Yankees Getting Desperate; Ed Lopat, Rizzuto to Get Axe

New York, July 29 (AP)—The New York Yankees, battling for their sixth American League pennant in seven years, trail the pace setting Chicago White Sox by only two percentage points today but ther are getting desperate.

And well they might be for they have frittered away a five-game lead since the All-Star game July 12 and in addition to trailing the White Sox, hold only a one-game bulge over the Cleveland Indians, three over the rambunctious Boston Red Sox and five and one-half over the resurging Detroit Tigers.

THE HITTERS ARE not hitting and the pitchers are not pitching. At least they are not pitching winning ball. Manager Casey Stengel has received just five complete games from his hurlers since starting their latest disastrous western trip July 14. And only four of them were victories.

Stengel has admitted he can do nothing about his hitters except perhaps put the eight best in the lineup, regardless of the positions they play, and hope for the best. That would mean Bill Skowron .340, Elston Howard .305, Mickey Mantle .301, Bob Cerv .292, Gil McDougald .277, Yogi Berra .276, Gerry Coleman .258 and Andy Carey .256.

As for the pitching, steps were taken yesterday to correct that. Don Larsen, a righthander, was recalled from Denver of the American Association where he has a 9-1 record and has hit seven home runs. Larsen, who came to the Yankees in the deal that brought Bob Turley from Baltimore last winter, couldn't make the grade at the start of the season but Stengel is hopeful he has learned something in the minors.

TO MAKE ROOM for Larsen, the Yanks are expected to option righthander Tom Sturdivant to Denver. Sturdivant has a 1-3 record with the Yankees. Bob Grim, on the disabled list since June 29 may be available in two weeks but he hasn't looked like the 20-game winner of 1954. He has a 4-2 record.

There also are rumors that Stengel and General Manager George Weiss have other deals on the fire with veteran shortstop Phil Rizzuto and Ed Lopat, 36-year-old southpaw pitcher, likely to be given coaching status in the realignment.

Lopat, who had a 12-4 record last year, has been a big disappointment to Stengel. He has won only four while dropping eight and hasn't pitched a complete game since June 19 when he beat the White Sox 7-1. Since then he has started three games and appeared in relief in four others.

Colonials and New York Mohawks Carded Saturday at Stadium

Dammier or Reis Probable Mound Choice for Locals

	W	L
Paterson	5	1
Poughkeepsie	6	2
New York	5	3
Newburgh	3	4
Kingston	1	6
Brooklyn	1	6

The some-what deflated New York Mohawks, who were leading the league the last time they played here but who have since been knocked into third place, duel the Colonials Saturday night at Dietz Stadium. Game time is 8:30 o'clock.

The Kingstonians will be seeking their second victory. They currently share the cellar with the Brooklyn Windsors, each squad having a 1-6 record.

Two games are carded Sunday. The Mohawks travel to Paterson to meet the league-leading Uncle Sams and second-place Poughkeepsie is host to Brooklyn at the Bridge City park.

KINGSTON'S SOLE success was against the Mohawks two weeks ago. The locals took it on the chin from Paterson the last time out, 9-0.

With ace hurler Bob Maines pitching for the American Legion Juniors, it's uncertain who will get the starting assignment. It could be either Richie Dammier or Frank Reis, who tossed against Paterson. Bruce Bechtold or Clint Gary are two other probable starters.

Fred Davi, boss of the Colonials, imported a group of newcomers against Paterson. He had little success with the johnnies-come-lately, therefore the question arises as to who will play what for Kingston.

The locals haven't drawn much in the way of customers lately. Last Saturday night's attendance could hardly be called a crowd.

Legion Juniors Play Tonight at Stadium

The American Legion Junior baseball team continues its quest for state-wide honors at Dietz Stadium tonight against Schenectady in the New York state quarter-finals. Game time is 9 o'clock.

The winer of tonight's game enters the semi-finals, slated Tuesday at a site to be named later. The state finals are carded at Cooperstown, site of baseball's Hall of Fame, on Saturday, Aug. 6.

Bob Maines or Lorenzo "Rennie" Giannuzzi, both left-handers, will pitch for the Old Capital Motors nine, the District 3 winners. Right hander John Hladik is expected to pitch for Schenectady.

The Kingston lineup is expected to be: Ronnie Ashdown, c; Joe Hoffman, 1b; Eric Blackwell, 3b; Skip Brodhead, ss; Bob Maines, p; Bill Cragan, lf; Ronnie Feraro, cf; Johnny Culjak, 2b; Bill Chase, rf.

Fisheries Manager Explains Distribution of Stock Trout

Fishermen will be permitted to use the long bow for spearing carp this year, Cecil E. Heacox, district fisheries manager of the State Conservation Department, told members of the Saugerties Fish and Game Club.

Heacox said the new 1955-56 Fishing Guide now available in town clerk offices has a stipulation which allows the practice for holders of a fishing license.

The open dates are from March 20 to Nov. 30.

REGARDING THE formula arrived at for distribution of trout, Heacox said that the number of fish allocated is based on the carrying capacity of the stream. He then explained how with field surveys, through chemical analysis, electric shocking and other scientific data, the capacity of a stream is determined. He said that the electric shocker is one of the outstanding instruments developed for survey purposes. Heacox also indicated that all requests for trout are not filled 100 per cent due to the lack of 100 per cent production of hatchery trout. All fish are allocated on a pro-rata system by which each application for fish for planting is processed. The present rate is from 80 to 85 per cent.

Reading from the Saugerties record on file at the Conservation Department, Heacox said that the Plattekill was last surveyed in 1948 and that from Mt. Marion to the Reservoir, 6.3 miles is indicated as stockable trout waters with a capacity of 3,400 fish.

IN THE ABSENCE of Richard L. Melius, president, Secretary Walter B. Pettinger presided. The secretary read a letter of resignation from Mr. Melius who is moving from the Saugerties area. By order of succession, the vice president, Elden Myers was designated as president to serve out the unexpired term. At the same time Robert Thompson, treasurer also announced the necessity of his resignation. He is also moving out of the Saugerties area. A special election to replace Mr. Thompson as treasurer will be held at the next meeting.

The pheasant commitee was authorized to order 75 cock pheasants and 10 hens with the the stipulation that the cocks will be set out before the pheasant season and the hens after the season.

The club voted to apply for a permit for Nelson Overbaugh, local commercial fisherman in order that he may seine for carp in the upper Esopus. Mr. Heacox said that chances were good that the permit would be granted inasmuch as the game club is now engaged in a program to decrease the carp population in the upper Esopus.

The monthly award was given to Helen Alverides, 96 Washington avenue.

Saugerties LL Pitcher Whiffs 18 Walden Batters

'Hit' Whitaker Accounts for All Putouts

Bobby "Hit" Whitaker of the Saugerties Lions Club Little League All Stars made District 4 tournament history by striking out 18 Walden batters Wednesday at Saugerties.

Whitaker permitted only one hit as the villagers won the game, 16 to 3, to qualify for the finals against Kingston yesterday.

THE LONE HIT off Whitaker was a two-run homer by Ronnie Lare, Walden first sacker, over the centerfield fence to give the visitors a temporary 2-0 lead.

Saugerties picked up a run in the first inning and then moved ahead with a cluster of five in the second.

Andy Jacobs spanked three hits and Bob Francello had a pair for the villagers.

New World Mark, $35,000 Nassau For Adios Harry

Westbury, July 29 (AP)—Adios Harry, who apparently is making a career of rewriting the harness racing record book, now has the world mark for a mile and a half to go with his sensational mile times.

The 4-year-old pacing son of Adios from the barns of J. Howard Lyons of Greenwood, Del. stepped the mile and a half at Roosevelt Raceway list night in 3:04 2/5 to win the $35,000 Nassau Pace. The time clipped two-fifths of a second off the record established by Hillsota in winning the event last year.

EARLIER THIS month at Vernon Downs, N. Y., Adois Harry paced a mile in 1:55, the fastest clocking ever in a race. Before that he reeled off two consecutive miles over the 6-furlong Vernon track in 1:55.2 and 1:56.1 for a world two-heat mark of 3:51.3.

Last night, Maurice MacDonold, subbing for the ailing Luther Lyons, took the 1954 Little Brown Jug winner to the front at the three-quarter pole and won by a length and a half over Diamond Hal. Philip Scott was a head back in third place as Adios Boy faded to sixth after setting some of the early pace.

THE SCOREBOARD

By JOHN CHANDLER, The Associated Press

For the first three months of the 1955 season the Chicago Americans, "those amazing White Sox" were going strong and everything looked rosy for a pennant at Comiskey Park.

But after the All-Star game in July the magic potion wore off, and the Pale Hose dropped like morning glories. The Go-Go kids were gone. Ever since, they said, when the chips were down and the heat was on in July after the All-Star game excitement it would be bye, bye White Sox.

So look. Today, two weeks after the 1955 All-Star tilt, it's been just the opposite, and Marty Marion's scrapping Chicago gang has knocked the New York Yankees out of first place. By only two slim percentage points, to be sure, but the White Sox showed no signs of folding this time as they whipped the Yankees yesterday 3-2 and took the vital series two games to one.

IN FACT, Chicago reached first place the hard way with an uphill battle. When league play resumed July 14 after the All-Star recess, the White Sox were in third place, six games back of New York, and a game behind second place Cleveland. Since then Chicago's won 12 of 17 games and has been rolling at a .706 pace.

It's a long way to the end of the season, however, and the top five clubs in the American loop could be covered with a large blanket today.

Cleveland defeated the Boston Red Sox 6-4 to pull within a game of the lead yesterday, while Detroit overcome Baltimore 7-5 to trail the leaders by only 5½ games—in fifth place. Washington and Kansas City were idle.

Rookie pitcher Roger Craig and Brooklyn home runs produced a 10-2 victory over Cincinnati as the Dodgers maintained their 12½ game National League spread over the second place Milwaukee Braves who defeated Philadelphia 4-2.

The New York Giants downed the Chicago Cubs 4-1 and the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates by the same 4-1 score.

WALT DROPO continued his batting spree, his two-run homer in the third inning off Bob Turley proving the White Sox margin over New York. Connie Johnson had the Yankees shut out until Mickey Mantle hit his 22nd homer in the ninth with one aboard. Reliefer Billy Pierce struck out pinchhitter Jerry Coleman with the bases full to end the battle.

Cleveland snapped back at Boston after losing the first two games of the series, with Al Rosen the star for the Tribe. He batted in three runs, two with his 16th homer in the third inning. Boston rallied in the eighth, routing Early Wynn with a walk, single and double. But with one run in, Don Mossi threw a called third strike past Ted Williams.

At Baltimore, the Tigers made it four of five over the Orioles, setting a faster pace than Chicago since the All-Star tussle. Detroit has moved at a .765 clip since July 14, winning 13 of 17.

ROY CAMPANELLA hammered a pair of Brooklyn homers, while Craig fanned 11 Redlegs to run his pitching string to 3-0 since joining the club two weeks ago. The Dodgers made their first nine hits good for nine runs thanks to three errors, a wild pitch and a passed ball. Ted Kluszewski hit his 33rd homer for Cincinnati. Campy now leads the league in batting with a .332 average.

New York's starter, Ruben Gomez, gave up two of Chicago's five hits in the two innings he pitched. He retired in the third with a pulled shoulder muscle and Paul Giel came on to gain his third victory. Giel struck out nine, walked five.

According to a report by the National Golf Foundation, 126 new courses were opened in 1954 compared with 52 in 1953.

Sluggers Sizzle In Eastern Loop; Albany Beaten

(By the Associated Press)

Sluggers had a circus last night in the Eastern League. Three teams buried their opponents under lopsided scores.

Johnstown dumped first-place Reading 12-2; Schenectady was just as hard on Williamsport, 11-0, and in the second half of a twin bill, Elmira drubbed last-place Albany 18-4.

Elmira also won the opener in the twin bill, but by a more respectable 2-1 margin. At Allentown, hurler Dick Ricketts scored his fifth victory since he recently joined the Red Birds, as he downed Binghamton 5-3.

A CROWD OF 2,444 went through the turnstiles at Johnstown, and attendance hit 30,049 for the 11 home games since the team moved there from Wilkes-Barre. The Baron's didn't draw that many in 40 home games before the move.

Jim Singleton got the credit for Johnstown's victory. Reading hurler Gene Lary, and his successor Gene Law, gave up 19 hits.

Only a soft fly ball, which Williamsports' Brandy Davis dropped safely into center field in the first inning, stood between Schenectady pitcher Don Cardwell and the league's first no-hit, no-run game this season.

According to a release from the New York State Education Department, high school football players will be safeguarded by new State Education Department rules regarding pre-season football practice. These rules, designed to promote health and safety, will apply to all schools in the state.

Each boy must take part in at least 15 organized practice sessions before the first football game of the season. The old standards applied to the team as a whole. As long as the team had three weeks of training prior to the first game, an individual might play, whether he had undergone the full training period or not.

Saturday practice will now count toward fulfilling the state's minimum standards. High school teams will be able to begin and end their 8-game football season a week earlier than at present. Only one organized practice session a day can be held, but six days may be counted in each calendar week. Until now, the Department had recognized only practice periods held Monday through Friday.

A high school team may scrimmage with a team from another school before the season starts as long as each boy playing has had 10 practice sessions with his own team.

Conforming to the football changes, individual practice requirements have been set for other high school sports as follows: Basketball, 10 practice sessions; cross country, 15; outdoor track and field, 15.

Amateur Boxing Show Planned At Saugerties

Saugerties, July 29—Plans for a five-bout amateur boxing show to be staged in the Saugerties Municipal Auditorium on Saturday, Sept. 3 were outlined at the regular meeting of the Saugerties Youth Council held Thursday night in the municipal building.

The meeting at which Chairman Peter M. Williams presided heard reports about the arrangements for the fights by Fred Davi, local promoter and member of the council who said that some local amateur boxers affiliated with the Glasco Athletic Club would participate in the first boxing show staged in Saugerties in quite some time.

Larry Campanella was designated as ticket chairman and Ben Fein will handle the distribution of posters for advertising.

Doug Ford's 66 Paces 1st Round In Rubber Open

Akron, Ohio, July 29 (AP) — Doug Ford, keeping up a busy home life between rounds, was in the lead today as the Rubber City Open went into its second 18 holes.

The PGA champion from Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., blazed over the first 18 on the 6,700-yard Firestone Country Club course yesterday with a six-under-par 32-34—66.

Then he went home to his house trailer, helped his wife shop for groceries, took his three youngsters swimming and returned to the course with his family later to take part in a golf clinic.

STARTING IN this tournament only two days after he whipped Cary Middlecoff at the PGA title match in Detroit, Ford whacked four strokes off par on the first nine holes with an eagle on No. 2 and birdies on No. 6 and No. 7. On the No. 2 hole he dropped a curling 50-foot putt for an eagle three. Four straight pars started him on the right track on the back nine, and he found birdie range on two of the next three holes before finishing with two pars for his 34.

Close behind him were six golfers from the starting field of 151, all tied up at 67. They were Mike Homa, Rye, N. Y.; Ed Oliver, Lemont, Ill.; Art Wall, Jr., Pocono Manor, Pa.; and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, St. Louis.

Six men were tied at 68, and another six were deadlocked at 69.

Defending champion Tommy Bolt of Chatanooga, Tenn., had a 70 for the opener. He went out with a three-under-par 33, but used 37 shots on the back nine.

TENNIS

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y.—Kurt Nielsen, Denmark, top-seeded foreign player was upset by Hal Burrows, Charlottesville, Va., 6-2, 6-2 as Tony Trabert and other favorites continued their advance in the Meadow Club tournament.

Sluggers Sizzle In Eastern Loop; Albany Beaten

(By the Associated Press)

Sluggers had a circus last night in the Eastern League. Three teams buried their opponents under lopsided scores.

Johnstown dumped first-place Reading 12-2; Schenectady was just as hard on Williamsport, 11-0, and in the second half of a twin bill, Elmira drubbed last-place Albany 18-4.

Elmira also won the opener in the twin bill, but by a more respectable 2-1 margin. At Allentown, hurler Dick Ricketts scored his fifth victory since he recently joined the Red Birds, as he downed Binghamton 5-3.

A CROWD OF 2,444 went through the turnstiles at Johnstown, and attendance hit 30,049 for the 11 home games since the team moved there from Wilkes-Barre. The Baron's didn't draw that many in 40 home games before the move.

Jim Singleton got the credit for Johnstown's victory. Reading hurler Gene Lary, and his successor Gene Law, gave up 19 hits.

Only a soft fly ball, which Williamsports' Brandy Davis dropped safely into center field in the first inning, stood between Schenectady pitcher Don Cardwell and the league's first no-hit, no-run game this season.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS SCHOOL TRANSPORTATION

The Board of Education, Kingston, New York, solicits sealed bids for the transportation of approximately Fifty (50) elementary children living in the Wilbur area to the George Washington Elementary School located on Wall Street.

This bus shall make one (1) trip in the morning and another in the afternoon. The bus shall leave at the foot of Hudson Street at 8:10 A. M., travel westerly along Abeel Street to Hamilton Street; thence returning along Abeel Street to Dunn Street, to Wilbur Avenue, to Greenkill Avenue to Washington Avenue. At 3:30 P. M., the bus shall leave the George Washington School and retrace the route traversed in the morning.

The Board of Education also solicits sealed bids for the transportation of Kindergarten children from the George Washington School to the place in the Wilbur area where these children boarded the school bus in the morning. The transportation vehicle shall leave the Washington School at 11:20 A. M.

There shall be two (2) separate sealed bids. Contractors may bid separately on each and may also give a combined bid. Contractors shall carry the necessary insurance, including liability, property damage, etc. to give both the children and the Board of Education full protection against any contingency. The contract shall continue for every day that school is in session beginning September 7, 1955 and up to and including the 22nd day of June, 1956. Contractors shall submit their bids on a daily basis.

Sealed bids shall be in the hands of the Clerk, 403 Broadway, Kingston, New York, on or before August 9, 1955 at 11:00 o'clock, at which time they will be publicly opened.

The Board of Education reserves the right to reject all bids.

For further information contact the office of the Supertendent of Schools, 403 Broadway, Kingston, New York.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS
SCHOOL TRANSPORTATION

The Board of Education, Kingston, New York, solicits sealed bids for the transportation of approximately Fifty (50) elementary children living in the Wilbur area to the George Washington Elementary School located on Wall Street.
This bus shall make one (1) trip in the morning and another in the afternoon. The bus shall leave at the foot of Hudson Street at 8:10 A. M., travel westerly along Abeel Street to Hamilton Street; thence returning along Abeel Street to Dunn Street, to Wilbur Avenue, to Greenkill Avenue to Washington Avenue. At 3:30 P. M., the bus shall leave the George Washington School and retrace the route traversed in the morning.
The Board of Education also solicits sealed bids for the transportation of Kindergarten children from the George Washington School to the place in the Wilbur area where these children boarded the school bus in the morning. The transportation vehicle shall leave the Washington School at 11:20 A. M.
There shall be two (2) separate sealed bids. Contractors may bid separately on each and may also give a combined bid. Contractors shall carry the necessary insurance, including liability, property damage, etc. to give both the children and the Board of Education full protection against any contingency. The contract shall continue for every day that school is in session beginning September 7, 1955 and up to and including the 22nd day of June, 1956. Contractors shall submit their bids on a daily basis.
Sealed bids shall be in the hands of the Clerk, 403 Broadway, Kingston, New York, on or before August 9, 1955 at 11:00 o'clock, at which time they will be publicly opened.
The Board of Education reserves the right to reject all bids.
For further information contact the office of the Superintendent of Schools, 403 Broadway, Kingston, New York.
Dated: July 27, 1955.

Puerto Rican Officials Tour Local Farm Area

Four Puerto Rican legislative representatives visited Kingston Thursday on a tour of farm areas employing Puerto Rican workers in the United States. They were greeted by Albert Kurdt, manager of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce. After lunching here they were escorted to Camp Hayden near Kerhonkson by Donald R. Munn, local Farm Placement representative of the New York State Employment Service. They also visited several farms on which workers are employed.

The four legislators, Armando Sanchez, Manuel Acevedo Rosario, Luis Segarra Micheli and Francisco Robledo were accompanied by Economist Frederico Cordero and Jose Prados, press representative. The party was escorted by Carlos Gomez, migrant specialist of the Puerto Rican Labor Department.

The group was well pleased with conditions they found at Camp Hayden where over 300 workers are housed. The men work for members of the Ulster Vegetable Growers Cooperative, growers of over 6,000 acres of sweet corn and other vegetables. The workers praised their employers and the legislators, members of the Labor Committee, were pleased with the way the men were treated and cared for at Camp Hayden.

Haystack Fire On Ruby Road

Members of the Mt. Marion-Ruby Fire Department fought a stubborn hay-stack fire for about three hours early this morning on a Lake Katrine chicken farm owned by Frank Aldrich and located on the Ruby road.

Firemen were able to contain the blaze within the hay stack and keep it from spreading to nearby buildings on the farm.

Mrs. Aldrich said she was awakened about midnight by the sound of fire apparatus, which responded to the alarm at 11:59 p. m., looked out the window of her home and saw the hay stack afire. She said the alarm "apparently was turned in by someone in Ruby who saw the blaze."

Chief David Scheffel of the Mt. Marion-Ruby department, which secured at about 3 a. m., today, directed the fire-fighting operation.

Cause of the fire was undetermined.

What Is A Baptist?

Does he accept the literal interpretation of the Bible?

Why does his church baptize only by immersion?

Why doesn't his church baptize infants?

Does he accept the doctrine of the Virgin Birth of Christ?

These questions and their answers are part of a series of articles on the role of religions in today's world now appearing in the Kingston Daily Freeman. Watch for the article on Baptists for a clearer concept of their beliefs and their organization.

Three Leave Reds

Vienna, July 29 (AP)—Three Hungarians drove a tractor through their Communist homeland's barbed wire border to sanctuary in Austria, Vienna press reports said today. Hungarian farmer Jonos Vighogyil, 37, who did the driving was slightly injured in the escape yesterday, the reports said. With him were his 15-year-old son and another farmer, Desoe Lantosch, 34. They said they had long planned to flee the Reds but had waited until the Austrian independence treaty came into force Wednesday. Before, they explained, they were not sure they would be granted political asylum in the Soviet zone of Austria.

Haystack Fire On Ruby Road

Members of the Mt. Marion-Ruby Fire Department fought a stubborn hay-stack fire for about three hours early this morning on a Lake Katrine chicken farm owned by Frank Aldrich and located on the Ruby road.

Firemen were able to contain the blaze within the hay stack and keep it from spreading to nearby buildings on the farm.

Mrs. Aldrich said she was awakened about midnight by the sound of fire apparatus, which responded to the alarm at 11:59 p. m., looked out the window of her home and saw the hay stack afire. She said the alarm "apparently was turned in by someone in Ruby who saw the blaze."

Chief David Scheffel of the Mt. Marion-Ruby department, which secured at about 3 a. m., today, directed the fire-fighting operation.

Cause of the fire was undetermined.

What Is A Baptist?

Does he accept the literal interpretation of the Bible?

Why does his church baptize only by immersion?

Why doesn't his church baptize infants?

Does he accept the doctrine of the Virgin Birth of Christ?

These questions and their answers are part of a series of articles on the role of religions in today's world now appearing in the Kingston Daily Freeman. Watch for the article on Baptists for a clearer concept of their beliefs and their organization.
